GANDHI RIOTING RENEWED; ONE DEAD, 50 HURT

POONA POLICE CHIEF IS VICTIM OF MOBS

MOSLEM IS KILLED IN BATTLE WITH HINDUS

Authorities Continue to Allow Leader to Make Speeches Unmolested.

Bombay, India, April 16 (A.P.).—Civil disobedience, with attendant battles, bloodshed and arrests, spread from coast to coast in India today. One civilian was killed and nearly 50 other persons were injured in today's riots, which occurred at Karachi, Calcutta and Poona. The number of arrests was mounting hourly. Nine Europeans who were stoned by mobs, two women among them, were on the casualty list.

The only fatality reported was at Karachi. Thirty-three persons there were injured, seven seriously. The clash resulted when a mob, angered at the arrest of six Nationalist leaders, stormed the city magistrate's court. After arrest of the leaders the situation quieted.

Among those injured in the rioting at Poona were the city magistrate and the superintendent of police, who were stoned when a crowd of Nationalists attacked police headquarters in protest against the conviction of the Pandit Jawarhalal Nehru. When the police charged with batons the rioters were dispersed with only one injury, but many were arrested.

Strike Called Off.

Calcutta, which suffered from a riot last night, was the scene of further trouble this morning. The nine Europeans injured there are in hospitals.

At Bombay 500 followers of Mahatma Gandhi sold contraband salt in the suburbs, and the city civil disthat Mme. Kamala Chattapodhyaya obedience committee of the Bombay provincial congress committee said had sold 2,100 pounds worth of salt before the Cotton Brokers Association at Sewri.

The bright spot in the Bombay situation was the calling off of a strike of Great Indian Peninsular Railway men, leaders telling the strikers that further fighting for better conditions was useless.

Women Protest to Gandhi.

The spotlight of the whole situation has withdrawn completely from the ascetic little leader, Mahatma Gandhi, who has not yet been molested by the police. His only activity today was a speech at Navsari, where he urged women adherents to continue a nonviolent campaign of picketing liquor shops and stores selling foreign cloth.

Women from Ahmadabad and Bombay conferred with Gandhi today, some of them telling him that they were not prepared to picket liquor shops and pointing out the difficulties ahead of them.

"Face all difficulties," the Mahatma urged them.

He added that women should take a greater part in the nonviolent fight than the men since they are "the incarnation of nonviolence."

Quiet in Calcutta.

Nevertheless, only 25 out of about 1,000 women whom he addressed pledged themselves to picket liquor shops. They agreed enthusiastically, however, to picket foreign cloth shops.

It was officially announced that Mrs. Gandhi will start picketing liquor shops at Jalapur on Friday.

White House Fall Hurts Mrs. Hoover

Sprained Back, Not Cold, Kept Her From D. A. R. Reception.

Mrs. Hoover sprained her back when she fell in the White House last Sunday, it became known yesterday. Her absence from the receiving line during the presidential reception at the White House to 3,800 delegates to the Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution caused inquiries to be made.

Capt. Joel T. Boone, White House physician, was reluctant to give out the details of Mrs. Hoover's fall. The injury to her back is not serious, he said. It was caused by a slip somewhere in the White House.

"Mrs. Hoover should be up and about in four days or so," Capt. Boone said, adding that the cold which she was reported to be suffering from was practically over.

Grim Economic Tragedy Strikes Ocean City Fisherman Colony

ANTIWAR COUNCIL HITS NAVAL PARLEY

F. J. Libby, Secretary, Takes Exception to Hoover's Tax-Saving Claims.

SAYS PEACE UNCERTAIN

By ALBERT W. FOX.

The smoldering feud between President Hoover and the organized pacifists over the London naval conference flared up yesterday in the form of a lengthy statement from Frederick J. Libby, executive secretary of the National Council for Prevention of War and the pacifist leader who regularly leads the fight against national defense programs submitted to the Congress.

Friction between the American delegation and pacifist agents at London led to the expulsion of these agents from the press section at American headquarters, and the pacifists understand that Secretary Stimson acted with the approval of President Hoover in curbing their activities. Furthermore, the President has not yielded to pacifist appeals respecting certain phases of the late negotiations and as a consequence the pacifist organizations are entertaining none too friendly feelings toward the White House and the State Department.

Mr. Libby comments on "the widespread and general disappointment of the American people" over the outcome of the London conference, and he adds that the people have been disillusioned and dismayed because the original purpose of the conference has been forgotten.

"The President's statement," Mr. Libby writes, "reveals the fact that our delegation has tried to please everybody—the peace forces, the big navy advocates and the nationalists and isolationists.

"For the last named the President points to the absence of a treaty of consultation or any kind of political undertaking. For the 'big navy' group there is their coveted parity with the British Empire with huge contracts for the shipbuilders. To the mighty welling tide of peace sentiment in our country that achieved in the Senate an almost unanimous ratification of the Kellogg pact the President gives assurance that the Families of 29 Citizens Held on Rumrunning Charge in Need.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Ocean City, Md., April 16.—As its name implies, this pretty resort is on the ocean. Geographically, therefore, it is wet. Politically, however, it is dry; and in that circumstance lies no little irony, considering what has happened here.

A grim economic tragedy has struck Ocean City. In the background are three things—a slack in the fishing season, prohibition and the arrival of a seagoing rumrunner.

Today, through the workings of that trinity, 29 local citizens, most of them fishermen, are in jail here on a charge of smuggling; the largest number of prisoners ever corralled at one time in the history of the town, and that goes back 400 years.

In the meantime, the families of the 29 men are bereft of their support. Some of them, indeed, are just about destitute, and, unless something is done in a hurry, the others are going to be inthe same dilemma.

"Why don't they just let us go out in the daytime?" said Crawford Savage, one of the prisoners. "Let us go out and work so that we can help them. We will come back here at night.

"We are just lying around here doing nothing. This isn't punishing us; that is, unless you call theworry punishment."

There are a lot to help. All the prisoners but one are married, and that one has a mother to support. The dependents of the others, the wives and children, according to the count of a local official, total 48.

The town's leading citizens went to the front for the 29 men at the very outset, and are still plugging for them. Failing in an attempt to free them in court, Mayor William McCabe and the other leaders are now trying to get them a parole, and in this effort their eyes are turned toward Washington.

There may be a difference of opinion among them as to the legal aspects of the case, but that is not the aspect they are thinking about. What concerns them is the economics of the situation; the waste of labor.

JAPANESE HOLD UP SAFEGUARD CLAUSE

VIEWS TO BE EXCHANGED

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, April 16 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The Japanese have made difficulties about the escalator or safeguarding clause agreed upon yesterday between Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson and First Lord of the Admiralty A. V. Alexander.

They have referred to Tokyo Anglo-American views on the exact character of this clause, to be included in the three-power section of the treaty negotiated at the London naval conference.

A three-hour conversation today between Secretary Stimson, Senator David A. Reed, Former Premier Reijiro Wakatsuki and Ramsay MacDonald at Downing street, before the British prime minister flew to Scotland for the Easter holiday, was entirely devoted to trying to reach an agreement.

The Japanese explained that they were suddenly presented, without consultation, with an Anglo-American formula not wholly satisfactory to them. Urgent cables to Tokyo last night brought replies this morning that are believed to have stressed Japanese fears that the British desire to be permitted to build up against France and Italy would compel Japan to build more ships than agreed.

There was no refusal to agree, but there was a request for full explanations between the British, Americans and Japanese, and the Japanese put forward a suggestion that before any building above the three-power figure is decided upon in future there will be, if not a formal conference,

FIRST LADY ILL, HOOVER LONE HOST TO D.A.R.

Receives 4,000 Members and Delegates Led by Mrs. Hobart.

NOMINATIONS MADE FOR VICE PRESIDENT

Mrs. David D. Caldwell Is District Choice for High Post.

CATHEDRAL PROGRAM WILL BE HELD TODAY

Resolution Passed Is Calling for More Restrictions on Immigration.

Due to Mrs. Hoover's indisposition, President Hoover received alone more than 4,000 delegates and members of the Thirty-ninth Continental Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution at the White House yesterday afternoon.

The President received his visitors in the Blue Room. The Navay and military aids acted as escorts to the guests and made the presentation to President Hoover. A section of the Marine Band played in the state corridor, and the rooms were decorated with spring flowers.

Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, and her national officers were received first, then followed the pages of the Continental Congress, who, according to custom, brought a lovely bouquet of flowers for Mrs. Hoover, which was sent to her upstairs.

Aids Answer Questions.

Mrs. Theodore Hoover, State regent of California, and sister-in-law of the President, took her place in the line with other State regents at the head of her delegation, but she afterwards assisted in seeing that the guests were made at home. Miss Mary Randolph, secretary of Mrs. Hoover, was also in the blue room.

The naval and military aids to the President were called upon to answer many questions on the historical objects in the White House and its history.

It was originally planned to have the White House Grounds open for the D. A. R., but on account of the rain only the south portico was used. Many of the delegates went out there to get a closer view of the flowering trees and shrubs, which are adding so much to the beauty of the White House Grounds just now.

First Lady Receives Children.

Delegates to the annual convention of the Children of the American Revolution were more fortunate than the D. A. R. yesterday because they were received by Mrs. Hoover on the second floor of the White House yesterday morning. Mrs. Hoover reclined on a couch while the children delegates sat on the floor in a circle about the couch and talked gaily with her.

POLICE COMB CAPITAL FOR MISSING FRIENDS OF SLAIN BAKER GIRL

Brady Brothers Held By Jury in Bombing

Herman Brady yesterday joined his brother, Lawrence Leroy Brady, Washington automobile mechanic, in the county jail at Upper Marlboro after both had been indicted by the Prince Georges County grand jury on three counts of murder.

The jury yesterday completed its investigation into the New Year's Day bombing at Seat Pleasant, which took the lives of three members of the Hall family, one of them the wife of Herman Brady, and an expectant mother.

The indictment of Herman Brady was not unlooked for, even by the defendant. When County Officer V. M. Nichols went to the Brady home at Mitchellville to serve a bench warrant, Herman met him on the front porch with: "I guess I've been indicted."

Herman asked to be allowed to change his clothes and then apparently unconcerned joined the officer for the trip to Upper Marlboro. On the way, he told the policeman that he had expected the indictment after the grand jury failed to call him before it Tuesday. He was placed in a separate cell from his brother, and will not be allowed to communicate with him for the present, according to Sheriff Charles S. Early.

The indictment charged that the two brothers on January 1, 1930, "with force and armed in the county aforesaid, did kill and murder Samuel L. Hall, Dorothy May Hall and Margaret Naomi Hall."

The indictment does not mention the married name of Naomi Hall Brady, and to whom the death dealing bomb, disguised as a Christmas package, was addressed.

The indictment was returned shortly after noon and was presented to

SHELBY STATES BOTH ARE SUBJECT TO CALL

TWO MEN ARRESTED IN CASE ARE FREED

Both Cleared of Suspicion; Blood on Shirt Came From Car Crash.

Absence of Miss Mildred Sperry and Miss Olga Skinner from their frequented places has given rise to the belief that the two girls, regarded as cardinal witnesses in the Baker murder case, have eluded the police who are anxious to question them.

All yesterday policemen scoured the city in a futile effort to locate them. In spite of the fact that Inspector William S. Shelby asserts that he knows where the girls are staying and that he can summon them at any time, investigators were seen yesterday at the home of the girls apparently trying to locate them.

Lieut. Edward Kelly and Commonwealth's Attorney William Gloth, of Arlington County, visited the Lyon Park home of the girls. They rapped at the front door. Next they failed to get a response from the back door. Letters and papers in the mailbox were examined. Seemingly dejected, they peered through the windows. Notwithstanding this visit, police say they know where they are.

New Grilling Awaits Pair.

Police were particularly anxious to question the girls. Earlier in the investigation of the murder of Mary Baker, the two young women were questioned. At first it was avered that the girls had a solemn compact not to familiarize themselves with each other's affairs. Later they gave information which resulted in the questioning of a man employed in the Treasury Department.

Since Sunday Inspector Shelby and Mr. Gloth have reiterated their intention of questioning the girls. This interrogation was scheduled for yesterday. Late in the afternoon it had not occurred.

Miss Sperry is employed in a local bank as the secretary to one of the officials. Her immediate superiors yesterday said that the only word he had received from her was on Monday, when a message was given him that she would return to work today.

Not Expected for Week.

When she left her place of business on Saturday following the tragedy she gave no indication when she would return. Notwithstanding the message of Monday, officials of the bank do not expect her at her desk for a week.

They said that in view of several crushing blows which Miss Sperry has received in the past few years, it will take at least a week for her to recover from the shock. Her father and mother died within the last three years.

Miss Skinner has been employed in the Veterans' Bureau for twelve years. She is a typist in the legal division. No word has been received there regarding her absence. It was explained that she is at liberty to take her 30-day annual leave at any time upon giving notice. No word to this effect had been received yesterday.

Miss Eyre Is Questioned.

Police visited the Navy Department yesterday. While there they talked with Miss Inez Eyre, with whom Miss Baker went to church on Friday night. Miss Eyre attended the funeral of the slain girl on Tuesday. She told a friend yesterday that she knew the Dismissal Faces Teachers Resorting to Corporal Punishment.

WOMAN IS REPRIMANDED

Emphatic condemnation of any form of corporal punishment of a child by a teacher in the District schools was voiced yesterday afternoon by the Board of Education following a report on an instance in the Henry D. Cooke School for which a teacher has been transferred and will be reprimanded. In the future teachers who punish pupils in this fashion are liable to dismissal, Charles F. Carusi, president of the board, stated.

Dr. J. Hayden Johnson, chairman of the committee on complaints, reported on the incident and recommended that the teacher, Mrs. Lankey Johnson, be formally reproved. An investigation was made by this committee, together with school officials, following a complaint by Lieut. Comdr. Howard H. Good, U. S. N., of 1650 Harvard street.

The charge, said to have been admitted by the teacher, was that Ed-

EYE KEPT ON ELECTION

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

President Hoover's stated determination to take the judiciary out of politics moved forward dramatically yesterday amid a clashing of incongruities, ideals and motives to burst sooner or later about the head of the apparently very retiring Judge John J. Parker, recently appointed to the Supreme Court.

Certainly the most incongruous phase of the whole business was the revolt of members of the regular wing of his own party, who only a few weeks ago wondered what the country was coming to when Progressives and Democrats — "radicals" — challenged another Supreme Court appointment, who wanted to know what right the senators had to interfere in matters of this kind, what right they had to question the economic views of a Supreme Court appointee.

Cook Hurls Plates At Society Matron

Throwing plates and breaking furniture, a cook at Kensdale, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lawson-Johnston in the fashionable Bradley Hills section, yesterday threatened the lives of the recently married society couple, it was learned from Mrs. Lawson-Johnston, the former Mrs. Lyman B. Kendall, internationally known society matron.

Brandishing a kitchen knife, the woman is said to have attempted to attack both Mr. and Mrs. Lawson-Johnston as they were preparing to go out yesterday afternoon. First, the woman had aroused suspicion by pouring kerosene over the dinner. When the meal was sent back to the kitchen, the cook put in an appearance and started the rampage.

Screaming threats at the newly married couple, the enraged cook shattered valuable vases, picked up a large antique plate and threw it in the direction of Mrs. Johnston. Only the sudden closing of a door by another servant, which blocked the path of the plate, is believed to have saved Mrs. Johnston from serious injury. The woman then turned on Mr. Johnston with a knife. Mr. Johnston was forced to defend himself before assistance arrived.

A half dozen or more servants in the household had rushed to the scene by this time and managed to drag the cook to a room where she was locked in until police from Bethesda arrived. Three men from the Bethesda Police Station were dispatched to Kentsdale. It took every bit of their strength to subdue the woman. She succeeded twice in striking down one of the policemen.

Finally the woman was handcuffed and taken to the Rockville Jail. Her name is Mrs. Mary Mason, and she is 65 years of age and weighs 180 pounds. She will be examined by physicians today to determine whether she should be placed under mental observation.

The cook was employed about two weeks ago through an employment agency as a temporary servant, pending the departure for England of Mr. and Mrs. Johnston.

The former Mrs. Kendall's recent marriage to Mr. Lawson-Johnston, an Englishman, was an outstanding social event of the year. Mrs. Johnston gave a tea yesterday at the Mayflower Hotel to enable select members of local society to view the famous Nassak diamond. The incident of the "angry cook" threatened to become a more popular subject for conversation at the affair than the diamond.

New York, April 16 (A.P.).—Upon motion of the State attorney general's office, Supreme Court Justice McCrate today temporarily enjoined William H. Byington and the National Assets Corporation of New York from further dealings in securities.

Col. Frank White, of Bethesda, Md., former Treasurer of the United States under President Coolidge and Governor of North Dakota for two terms, is president of the restrained corporatoion, but Deputy Attorney General Harry M. Mr. Garvey charged that Mr. Byington purchased at 10 cents a share thousands of shares of stock of the National Assets Corporatoion, which Hyattsville Council to Drop Prosecution If She Resigns.

On the heels of an announced shortage of $153.92 in the accounts of Mrs. Retta Morris as a justice of the peace at Hyattsville, the Hyattsville Town Council, at an executive session last night, suggested that she resign from the office, the only justiceship of the peoce position ever held by a woman in Maryland.

The action was taken after Mrs. Morris, the wife of Prof. K. J. Morris, principal of the Hyattsville High School, sent word to the council that she accepted the fact of the degecit as revealed in an audit made at the council's request by J. W. two girls were not in town. They will return today, she said.

Following the funeral the two young women disappeared from the cemetery in an automobile. Friends accompanied them. They took the road to this city.

Two operatives connected with the investigation left yesterday for a small town in Westmoreland County, where the murdered girl lived in childhood. It was learned that the object of their quest was the interrogation of a man who was mentioned in her many letters.

Results Kept Secret.

Several hours later they had not returned. Nothing could be learned regarding the results reached by the mission. While in Westmoreland County the police were expected to visit her girl friends there and also a group of men who were former suitors of Miss Baker in the hope that some aid will be given them.

Unconfirmed rumors were heard yesterday that several personal letters and snapshots had been abstracted from the slain girl's Navy Department desk. Substance was added to this report by the visit of Lieut. Kelly and Mr. Gloth to the filing room of the Bureau of Aeronautics, where the girl worked. Police would not comment on the nature of their visit.

An earlier visit of the police to the department Monday resulted in the confiscation of a batch of letters. Among this evidence is a number of photographs. Many have been discarded as being pictures of the immediate family. Police are still manifesting interest in the identity of the man in one of the pictures.

Many Cleared of Complicity.

Prior to the Monday visit police were unaware that any one else had tampered with the contents of the desk. Virtually all of those mentioned in the letters and those in the pictures have been eliminated of complicity in the murder.

Two suspects who were taken into custody by police on Tuesday night have been freed. Alonzo Jones, of Oklahoma, who was taken from a freight train near Aberdeen, Md., yesterday was released after questioning. He in no way resembled "the man with the gray cap." Detective John Fowler questioned him. A railroad worker saw him swing on the freight train at Baltimore, and wired a tip to police in the direction which the train was going.

The second man, who gave his name as Earl C. Shuttleworth, was arrested in the vicinity of Twenty-second an P streets. A blood-stained shirt, admitted by him to be his property, led to his detention. Later he proved to the police that he had been in an automobile accident near Bethesda, Md. He had used the shirt to wipe blood from his face. Police cleared him of al lsuspicion.

Gun-Store Case Futile.

No results have been obtained from a city-wide canvass of stores where firearms are sold. Inspector Shelby ordered the check-up on Tuesday and to date no results have been reported. It was hoped that merchants could have aided in the search had they been able to identify a customer who purchased a .32-caliber gun.

Still convinced that the murderer was a resident of the District, police yesterday ordered a check-up of all men to whom permits have been issued to carry guns. All the names are registered in the District Building.

This move was taken on the supposition that the slayer was a man who enjoyed a reputable standing among his acquaintances. On the thought that he may have been connected with the Government in some official way it is assumed that he possibly is engaged in an occupation which allows him to carry a gun.

Task Long and Arduous.

As there are numerous men licensed to carry pistols in the District, police know that an arduous task confronts them. Doubt is still written all about the investigation. There is doubt regarding the motive, and more doubt concerning the exact location of the commission of the crime.

Fingerprints taken from Miss Baker's automobile and others taken from among her personal effects have yielded but meager hope. If the identity of the slayer is made, these are expected to be important.

Search of Rice Pond, a small body of water used for irrigation purposes on the experimental farm of the Department of Agriculture, revealed nothing of value. It had been hoped that when the water had been drained from the pond the death gun would be found.

Few Articles Found.

Early yesterday all the water had been released. Investigators searched futilely through the silt for something that would throw some light on the mystery. All that was discovered was a man's coat, a cap similar to those worn by policemen and a red rag, apparently a handkerchief.

No importance is attached to the finds as they bear evidence of having been immersed for a long time. Reluctant to cast away anything that might lead to a solution, police are holding the articles. Workers will continue probing the sedgy mud at the bottom of the pool on the theory that the gun may have sunk in the bottom.

Farmer Ends Life By Cutting Throat

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., April 16.—Robert Carver, leading farmer of the north side of the county, ended his life this morning by slashing his throat with a razor, at the home of his mother, Mrs. Mildred Carver, near Stony Point.

When he failed to return to breakfast after feeding the stock, a youth was sent to look for Carver. He was located in a small patch of timber, bleeding profusely and died before the arrival of a physician. A coroner's inquiry returned a verdict of suicide.

Carver was 50 years of age and had been suffering from ill health for some months. Worry over his physical condition is attributed as the cause of the act. Carver was unmarried. Besides his mother, he is survived by one sister, Miss Blanche Carver.

BIG EXPENSES BARED BY WETS' CRUSADER

MUCH GOES IN SALARIES

(Associated Press.)

Charging that the eighteenth amendment had made the Government a "murderer and an invader of people's rights," Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, told the Senate lobby committee yesterday that his organization spent $427,213 last year in advocating repeal of the dry law.

Mr. Curran predicted that the prohibition amendment would be repealed and asserted that three out of four persons in the United States, as well as five States, already were in revolt. Questioned about this part of his testimony, he added he hoped there would be no armed revolution against the Government as a result of the law.

Speaking in a calm, even tone most of the time, except for a few brief encounters with Chairman Caraway, the witness testified that the purpose of the organization was repeal of the eighteenth amendment in order to restore to the States "their former right to handle for themselves, according to their own desires, the control of the liquor traffic."

"Information" Sent Out.

The association, he added, proposed to bring about repeal by "assembling and distributing to the American people information of the workings of the amendment" and "by supporting the candidacies of those who agree with the objection of the association."

Questioned about the political activities of the organization, Mr. Curran said it had contributed $1,500 to the Liberal Civic League of Massachusetts in benalf of the recent candidacy of a candidate in the western district of that State and that it now is advocating the election of three Pennsylvania officials.

The Pennsylvanians, he said, were Francis M. Bohlen, running for senator; Thomas W. Phillips, a candidate for governor, and Charles Dorrance, running for lieutenant governor.

Mr. Curran said any activity of his organization in the forthcoming senatorial election in Illinois depended on the attitude of Representative Ruth Hanna McCormick, dry Republican, who is running against former Senator James Hamilton Lewis, a wet Democrat.

Right to Change Mind Upheld.

"Do you think she might change her mind?" Chairman Caraway asked.

"A woman always has the right to change her mind," Mr. Curran replied, amid laughter from the large crowd that packed the committee room.

Questioned by Senator Caraway, the witness said his organization would not support the candidacy of a dry. He added that the qualifications of candidates were considered before taking action.

"If one candidate were dry and the other wet would you support the dry if he were the better man?" Senator Caraway demanded.

"If he were dry he would not be the better man," Mr. Curran replied.

Explaining the contributions to the association, he said funds were received last year from 10,000 persons He added that of the total, $427,213, received, more than $250,000 was paid out as salaries to approximately 100 employes in twelve offices.

Own Salary $25,000 Yearly.

He said his salary was $25,000 a year and that it was guaranteed by five men who paid $5,000 each. He named them as John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic national committee; Pierre du Pont, Lammot du Pont, Charles H. Sabin and Edward S. Harkness.

Senator Robinson (Republican), Indiana, read from records of the association that $166,554 had been contributed during the first two months of the year. Among the contributors were Mr. Raskob, $17,500; Irenee du Pont, $30,000; Pierre du Pont, $12,500; Lammot du Pont, $17,500; Richard T. Crane, $12,500; Arthur Curtis James, $12,500, and Mr. Sabin, $7,500.

"It looks like it's a Du Pont subsidiary," Senator Robinson commented. Mr. Curran said that these were pledges for the first six months which had been paid early, and it was not representative of the entire list of contributors.

Twelve Men Sent Outside U. S.

Explaining an item of $33,050 for traveling expenses, Mr. Curran said twelve men had been sent to foreign countries to investigate prohibition and that their reports had been prepared in pamphlets which had been sent to about 200,000 persons in the United States, in addition to newspapers.

He engaged in a sharp exchange with Senator Caraway while being questioned as to whether any persons were employed who did not believe in repeal of the prohibition amendment.

"We haven't taken a Literary Digest poll of them," Mr. Curran replied Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, inquired smilingly if the association had ever employed Wayne B. Wheeler, the late head of the Antisaloon League, or F. Scott McBride, present secretary.

"No; but we'd like to have Senator Brookhart on our pay roll," Mr. Curran shot back.

Accused of "Being Funny."

Senator Caraway accused the witness of attempting to "be funny," and Mr. Curran asserted that every time Senator Brookhart made a speech in favor of prohition he "turns thousands of people against prohibition."

Pressed by Senator Caraway to name any person who had told him that he had been turned against prohibition on account of a Brookhart speech, Mr. Curran said he could not give any specific name.

Asked if he thought the eighteenth amendment justified citizens to take up arms against the Government, Mr Curran replied that he hoped that there would be no armed revolution.

"And if resort to arms is necessary, your are in favor of it?" asked Senator Caraway.

"We will cross that bridge when we come to it," Mr. Curran said.

TWO SENATORS QUIT ELECTION FUND QUIZ

SOUTH VOTE QUESTIONED

(Associated Press.)

Two more resignations forestalled an organization yesterday of the Senate campaign funds investigating committee.

Senator Goldsborough (Republican), Maryland, resigned because of the press of other business. Vice President Curtis then named Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut, to the committee, and the Connecticut senator promptly declined because he said he would have to go to Samoa this summer on a presidential commission.

Meanwhile, Chairman Nye, of the committee, was receiving various kinds of complaints over expenditures by senatorial candidates. The protests dealt principally with the contests in Illinois and Pennsylvania, he said.

There also is developing a contest over inquiry into the voting practices in some of the Southern States. It was learned yesterday that some anonymous letters have been sent to the committee demanding investigation of the voting regulations in the South.

Declining to predict any course of action in that direction, Senator Nye said the problem would be laid before the committee, but he emphasized that the Illinois and Pennsylvania primaries would be enough to keep the Senate inquisitors busy for a while.

The Senate resolution ordering the investigation is wide enough in latitude, in the opinion of some, to permit investigation of voting practices in the Southern States. Such an inquiry was demanded two years ago by Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, who contended Negroes were not permitted to vote in some States.

Virginian, 21, Faces Trial for Slaying

Manslaughter Count Has Held Man Under $1,000 Bond.

Special to The Washington Post.

Leesburg, Va., April 16.—The case of the Commonwealth against Alvin Clark, 21, of Wheatland, who was indicted at the October term of circuit court in Loudoun County on a manslaughter and hit-and-run charge, was opened today at the April term of court in Loudoun County at Leesburg and will be continued tomorrow. It is expected that the case will go to the jury by tomorrow night.

Clark has been held on a $1,000 bond. It is alleged that he ran over Clarence Slack, 35, who was found dead about 6 a. m., August 25, near Hamilton Station.

Commonwealth's Attorney John Gallagher made the opening statement for the prosecution. He is assisted in the prosecution by State Senator Cecil Connor. Wilbur C. Hall made the opening statement for the defense, saying that Clark ran over the lifeless body and that some one ran over Slack before Clark's machine passed over the body. E. E. Garrett will aid in defense.

Ten witnesses for the prosecution were heard today, among them being Dr. Oscar Hunter, expert pathologist, of Washington, who testified that the blood on Clark's car corresponded to that of Slack's body.

Volstead Denies He Got Antisaloon Body Funds

St. Paul, April 16 (A.P.).—Denial that the Antisaloon League had financed his campaign, was voiced today by Andrew J. Volstead, former representative from Minnesota and sponsor of the prohibition enforcement law. "The Antisaloon League never contributed one cent to my campaign. They did send people into my district but that was all," Volstead said.

The Northwest prohibition enforcement district's legal adviser was charged yesterday before the Senate lobby committee by Representative Tinkham with having received campaign expenses from the league.

Yeggs at Clarksburg Get Only $1 for Pains

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., April 16.—Safe cracking is getting to be a poor business hereabouts. Yeggs, who battered open a big one in the office of the Imperial Ice Cream Co.'s plant at Grafton early this morning got only $1 for all their pains.

Numerous safe blowings in this territory the last year, have caused business men to keep no money in them overnight.

CONFERENCE AGREES TO DUTIES ON HIDES

LACE DECISION TODAY

(Associated Press.)

Ignoring a quartet of decisive Senate votes against any duties, the Senate Republican conferees on the tariff bill yesterday receded and accepted the House rates on hides, leathers and shoes, which for years have been allowed free entry into the United States.

Thus, the House rates of 10 per cent on hides, from 12½ to 30 per cent on leathers and 20 per cent on boots and shoes—long in bitter controversy in both houses—were restored to the Hawley-Smoot bill.

With one exception, the House increased tariffs on leather gloves of all descriptions also were agreed to. The proposed Senate increases in rates on narrow laces, against which demonstrations have been staged in French lace centers, were discussed again, but no decision was reached. They are expected to be settled today. The vote on hides and shoes was along strict party lines, with the three Republicans from each house voting for duties and the two Democratic conferees in each group opposing them.

Western Republicans and Democrats opposed the House rates when the bill was before the Sneate on the ground that whatever benefit would accrue to the cattle raisers from the hide tariff would be taken away by increased prices resulting from the leather and shoe rates.

They attempted to raise the hide and lower the leather and shoe duties, but four amendments to this end were beaten by good majorities.

Progressing further with the adjustment of differences in the sundries schedule, the conferees eliminated the Senate provision to permit colleges, churches, or individuals to import free of duty carillons of more than 30 bells for charitable, educational and philanthropic purposes.

Garner Fears Boost.

Representative Garner, of Texas, the House Democratic leader, said in a statement that "restoration of practically all House rates on leather, leather articles and shoes will add millions of dollars to the burden this tariff bill will impose upon the American people."

"There is no justification for the excessive rates on leather and shoes. Under these rates the wholesale price on the latter will be increased from 25 to 75 cents per pair, according to grade. On men's gloves, of which the imports are less than one-fourth of one per cent, the increases run as high as 110 per cent.

"On the basis of 10 per cent duty on hides the compensatory duty on bag, case and strap leather should have been 3.72 per cent but the rate arbitrarily fixed by the House and approved by the conference is 20 per cent. On upholstery leather the compensatory duty should be 5.88 per cent but the rate is 20 per cent. On harness leather the compensatory duty should be 5.75 per cent and the rate is 12.5 per cent."

1,100 Are Taking Academy Tests

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., April 16.—Approximately 1,100 candidates designated for appointment as midshipmen at the Naval Academy, today presented themselves in various cities throughout the country to take the required mental examinations. The tests are being held under civil service regulations and will continue tomorrow and Friday.

A group of 125, most of whom had been preparing at schools here, are being examined in the State Armory, 65 others appeared for the tests at Severna Park, Anne Arundel County, another large group in Baltimore and others in Cumberland, Hagerstown and Salisbury. All papers will be sent to the Naval Academy to be marked by the corps of instructors.

The examinations are the second and last to be held this year. A total of 129 were found qualified in the February tests. All candidates will be examined as to physical qualifications at the academy in June. Authorities of the institution anticipate a class of about 650, which will be close to the number of vacancies existing following graduation of the present senior class of over 400 in June.

West Maryland Road Is to Be Rebuilt Soon

Special to The Washington Post.

Hagerstown, Md., April 16.—The State Roads Commission today announced that the Williamsport highway, between Hagerstown and Williamsport, one of the most traveled highways in western Maryland and a part of the Shenandoah trail, will be rebuilt this summer.

Four-foot concrete shoulders will be constructed on the west side and the highway will be completely rebuilt when the Potomac Edison Co. agrees to remove its trolley tracks. The highway will be regraded.

Hoover Will See Borah Today on Naval Treaty

President Hoover has summoned Senator Borah as chairman of the Senate committee on foreign relations for a conference at the White House this morning which may determine whether the London naval agreement is to be submitted to the Senate for ratification before the present session adjourns, probably in June.

This will be Borah's first trip to the White House in many weeks. Since his series of breaks on policy with the President he had not been sent for until yesterday. Ostensibly the purpose of the meeting today is to consider the advisability of seeking immediate ratification. Borah favors action at once and believes his committee can complete hearings and report the agreement for ratification in this session. Accordingly, he probably will advise the President to send up the text as soon as it is received from London.

SUBMARINE POLICY FLAYED BY BRITTEN

ADMIRAL IS QUESTIONED

(Associated Press.)

An arraignment of the submarine construction policy of the United States Navy by Chairman Britten of the House naval committee yesterday grew out of a routine request for the committee's approval to scrap thirteen undersea craft.

After ascertaining from naval officers present that submarines valued at approximately $12,000,000 had been decommissioned in 1922 after only four years of service, the naval affairs chairman said he was "ashamed of the Navy Department."

"It proves," Mr. Britten said, "that the ships were wrongly constructed and that something is wrong with the submarine policy of the American Navy."

Addressing Rear Admiral H. Standley, acting chief of naval operations who was before the committee, Mr Britten said:

"Are you satisfied that we can build submarines as well as any nation on earth?"

"No, sir," Admiral Standley replied.

"Are you convinced that the United States can not build a submarine today that is worth a damn?" Mr. Britten questioned.

"No, sir," the acting naval operations chief answered. "I think our V type boats are excellent. We have not, however, developed a satisfactory engine."

Mr. Britten then asked what percentage of the Navy's submarines were operating without complaint.

Admiral Standley estimated the number at 75 per cent and Mr. Britten replied:

"I bet you a dinner, admiral, that not 50 per cent are operating without complaint."

After it had been testified that the thirteen undersea craft which the naval board of estimate and survey had recommended be scrapped were decommissioned between 1922 and 1925 and had cost the Government approximately $1,500,000 a year despite their idleness, members of the committee offered no objection to the recommendation.

NAVAL PARLEY HIT BY PACIFIST GROUP

London conference has forever ended naval competition.

"In other words, we are asked to accept the London treaty as a political compromise between the various schools of thought in our country. It is not to be regarded exclusively as a peace measure. The situation is comparable with the passage of the cruiser bill by our Senate immediately after the ratification of the Kellogg pact renouncing war.

Advocates Treaty's Ratification.

"It is primarily because the American people had been led to expect a different kind of conference that disappointment has been so widespread and so general," Mr. Libby continues.

President Hoover's statement of last week, setting forth his view of the prospective savings to the taxpayers, is challenged by the pacifists. Mr. Libby rejects the President's method of computing the savings and adopts other figures which he claims will show the need of spending between $550,000,000 to $1,000,000,000 to secure parity.

Mr. Libby concludes by stating that the London treaty should be ratified but with the distinct understanding that the figures "establish a remote maximum and not a goal for us." He forecasts a continuation of the pacifists' fight against "any specious pretext of parity" and makes it clear that the pacifist organizations will seek to persuade Congress not to permit the Navy to be maintained on the treaty basis.

DAY IN CONGRESS

SENATE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 5:25 p. m. to 12 noon today.

Henry H. Curran, persident of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, appeared before the labor committee and charged that the eighteenth amendment had made the Government a "murderer and an invader of people's rights."

Senator Shortridge (Republican), California, introduced a bill proposing complete restriction of Philippine immigration into this country except for business and pleasure visitors.

Attorney General Mitchell, appearing before the judiciary committee, declared that because of prison congestion, "further stimulating activities of prosecution under any law will get us into difficulties."

Campaign funds investigating committee deferred its organization meeting on account of a vacancy caused by the resignation of Senator Goldsborough (Republican), Maryland, who resigned because of pressure of other business.

Senator McNary (Republican), Oregon, introduced bill proposing Government assistance in a program to encourage the construction of commercial airships in the United States for regular operation on existing foreign trade routes.

Senator Norris (Republican), Nebraska, censured Chester Gray, legislative representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, for pulling the chestnuts out of the fire for the power trust in supporting the old Cyanamid bid for Muscle Shoals.

NO DEFINITE REFUSAL

at least exchanges of views between London, Washington and Tokyo.

The attitude of the American delegation, which led to the formula agreed between Mr. Stimson and Mr. Alexander, was that the United States, while hoping that Great Britain will not decide to exceed the Rapidan figures, can not take the responsibility of asking her not to do so, and hence that a conference on the subject, if the British should feel themselves menaced by continental navies, would do no good, and that in that case Great Britain will just have to build and the United States and Japan follow suit if they so desire.

After today's lengthy talk at Downing street Senator Reed and Secretary Stimson saw Mr. Alexander at the House of Commons and reported to him the result of the negotiations with the Japanese. Later a British spokesman said the safeguarding clause should be in final form by tomorrow night and will then be referred to the home governments, meaning in particular Japan.

Meanwhile, the jurists and experts committees continued their herculean task of drafting their treaty in two languages and 50 sections. They will have completed the draft of the whole treaty by tomorrow night, it is hoped.

Preamble Not Yet Settled.

The knotty subject of the preamble has not been tackled yet, but will be tomorrow. The Americans have a draft preamble; so have other powers, and at present these do not agree.

When the complete draft treaty is finished it will be cabled to Washington and Tokyo, wired to Rome and carried to Paris by courier. Whether signing of it can take place next Thursday and whether the American delegation can sail for home the next day on the Leviathan depends upon the speed with which the governments, particularly the Japanese, pass on the draft and on whether there are any more hitches.

Since the Italians refuse to permit a table of categories to appear in the five-power part of the treaty, now reduced to a lamentable skeleton, it may be included in the three-power section, though this is not certain. There are so many reservations in the report of committee No. 1, the main basis of the treaty, that the prevailing belief is that table of categories will be dropped.

Foreign Secretary Arthur Henderson today presented to Parliament "by command of his majesty" a white paper (an official government document) giving the "results of the London Naval Conference." This document explains that the battleship agreement reached at Washington in 1921-22 continues.

Aircraft Carrier Proviso.

"As regards aircraft carriers," it says, "his majesty's government have not been able to obtain at this conference modification of total tonnage and displacement limits laid down in the Washington treaty. It was agreed that this matter should be left over until a conference in 1935; but meanwhile his majesty's government's proposal that aircraft carriers under 10,000 tons should be included in the aircraft carrier category has been generally agreed to and a further provision has been added that gun armament for these particular vessels should not exceed six inches in caliber instead of eight inches.

"As regards other classes of vessels it has not been possible yet to reach an agreement embracing all the powers represented at the conference. His majesty's government will continue conversations with France and Italy in the hope of arriving at a satisfactory adjustment.

"Meanwhile, complete agreement has been reached between the British Commonwealth of Nations, the United States and Japan on (a) a category system of limitations of capital ships, aircraft carriers, cruisers, destroyers and submarines, (b) figures within these categories, and (c) the question of transfer between 6-inch cruisers and destroyers.

U. S. Can Exercise Option.

"The United States has the option to rest on this figure and to make a corresponding increase in its 6-inch-gun cruisers from 143,500 tons to 189,000 tons, in which case the total tonnage for the United States and the British Commonwealth of Nations will amount to 541,700 tons.

"If it does not choose to exercise this option it undertakes that its sixteenth 8-inch-gun cruiser will be laid down in 1933, its seventeenth in 1934 and its eighteenth in 1935. In that event Japan will be free to advance a claim at the conference in 1935 for an increase in its 8-inch tonnage.

"This section of the treaty, which will apply to the British Commonwealth of Nations, the United States and Japan will contain a clause safeguarding our position in relation to the building programs of other powers."

E. B. Hillery, chairman of the council's finance committee, reported a discrepancy of $249 against Mrs. Morris in her report in comparison with that of former Chief Blanchard.

Later Hilley said that he had erroneously credited Mrs. Morris with 35 cases which should have been credited to Justice of the Peace Herbert Moffat, reducing the total shortage to $153.92. The official audit coincided with that figure, it was reported.

The town council at this meeting questioned a score of persons whose forfeitures in collateral to Mrs. Morris are embodied in the shortage, it was announced. All the cases were for alleged violations of town ordinances.

MITCHELL SAYS U.S. JAILS OVERCROWDED

Attorney General Believes Dry, Drug and White Slave Laws Cause.

RELIEF MEASURE URGED

(Associated Press)

Ready to take over the enforcement of prohibition, Attorney General Mitchell wants to "get our house in order" before any new statutes are enacted making more crimes.

Giving this view to the Senate judiciary committee in testimony made public yesterday, the Attorney General warned that the prison population of the United States is so great today that it is inexpedient to stimulate any further prosecutions. He said every Federal institution was overcrowded. He attributed most of the new prisoners to the prohibition law.

He appeared before the judiciary committee to talk on the resolution for a Senate investigation of prohibition and he opposed this on the ground htat it would "paralyze" enforcement work during the inquiry. He urged, instead, that Congress enact the prison relief legislation and the measure transfering prohibition from the Treasury to the Justice Department.

Presenting data showing considerable increase in Federal prisoners during the last 20 years, the Attorney General attributed the "overtaxing of the Federal machinery" to the prohibition, white slave, narcotic and automobile theft laws.

Pointing again to the overcrowded condition of the penitentiaries, he said, "We have reached a point where, of course, further stimulating activities of prosecutions under any law will get us into difficulties."

The Attorney General proposed increased pay and numbers of district attorneys as a step in improving enforcement. He listened attentively to a discussion by the Senate committee of a proposal by Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, to establish "auxiliary" Federal judges to take care of the so-called police court work now falling upon Federal district judges. He gave no opinion on this point.

Senator Steiwer (Republican), Oregon, as chairman of a judiciary subcommittee, is planning early hearings on legislation aimed to relieve congestion in the courts. He said the Walsh proposal would be taken up.

AMSTER EXTORTION CASE GOES TO JURY

DENIES MAGNATE'S STOR

New York, April 16 (A.P.).—A general sessions jury tonight had under consideration the fate of Olga Lee Edwards, charged with extortion by Nathan L. Amster, 60-year-old traction magnate. The jurymen retired at 4:28 p. m. to weigh the evidence.

The defense rested its case when Miss Edwards, who is accused of extorting money from Amster by threats of making public accusations that he is the father of her 6-year-old son, left the stand after nearly seven hours of testimony.

In his charge to the jury, Judge Otto A. Rosalsky said a verdict of guilty would in no way invalidate a $100,000 trust agreement entered into by Miss Edwards and Amster prior to her arrest. He said it would be necessary to institute action in the State courts to show she had broken the agreement on which the trust was based before it could be revoked.

Judge Rosalsky warned the jury they were not to be swayed by an appeal of sentiment, explaining that Miss Edwards had denied all charges by State witnesses that she threatened to kill or expose Amster unless he gave her money, which made it necessary for the jury to decide whether she or the State's witnesses told the truth.

Under cross-examination she had testified that Amster proposed voluntarily to increase her income from $500 to $1,000 a month. Her statement was in direct contradiction to Amster's charges that she demanded $1,000 a month, threatening to "expose" him as the father of her son, Lee, if he refused.

House Agrees to Sale Of Six Hoboken Piers

(Associated Press.)

The House agreed yesterday to the Senate plan for placing on the auction block the six Hoboken piers from which nearly half a million doughboys sailed for France during the World War, but the addition of a technical amendment necessitated sending the bill to conference.

The stipulation that the sale be made only to American citizens or corporations controlled by Americans, a customary one in authorizations for sale of Government property, was added by the House. The Senate was expected to agree to this clause before the end of the week, the bill then going to President Hoover for signature.

G. O. P. REGULARS ARE SCORED FOR STAND ON JUDGE PARKER

Had not the country voted overwhelmingly for Mr. Hoover?

Now these same senators, or rather a good-sized block of them, want consideration of Judge Parker deferred until after the election, want the matter considered in executive session, want most any solution to their predicament, but if pressed to vote now will vote against confirmation. And the reason may be summed up in a few words of a telegram sent yesterday by the Republican State chairman of Missouri, B. G. Voorhees, to Senator Patterson, of that State.

Loss of State Forecast.

"If Judge Parker is confirmed," he wired, "you might just as well say good-by to Missouri for the next two or three elections at least."

Mr. Voorhees cited statistics and told of the long uphill fight of the Republicans to bring Missouri to the Republican column. He said the "Democrat," Attorney General Mitchell, and Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic executive committee, would like nothing better than to see Judge Parker confirmed. He referred, of course, to the fight being made against Judge Parker by the Association for the Advancement of the Colored People.

It was a message strictly political in tone and argument, but stating in the plain influence behind the Republican regulars which has brought about such a situation that if the nominee is confirmed it will be by Southern Democrats.

May Have to Do So.

And as the matter stands now the Southern Democrats would not confirm him because they look upon it as a political appointment, but the more the attitude of the regulars is emphasized the more they may have to vote for confirmation out of political considerations themselves.

For the present they are working to get the nomination out of the judiciary committee on Monday or open Senate floor in order that they may see the Republican regulars, the upholders of the President, squirm.

So far as the merits of this phase of the fight against Judge Parker are concerned it is not believed that any senator now really believes that he is prejudiced against the colored race. If there is such a senator then he does not know North Carolina politics.

Statement Held Unfortunate.

Judge Parker, it is charged, in the Republican gubernatorial race of 1920 said the Negroes were not yet ready to exercise the duties of citizenship. In the light of things now it would appear that the judge's phraseology was unfortunate, but anyone who understands the situation will not doubt the defense of his friends that he had no prejudice in his mind, but that he was trying merely to do what the Republican party in North Carolina has been trying to do for many years—get away from the Democratic charge that it would restore the carpet-bagger days.

The Republican effort has been, in fact, to set up a lily white party in that State. And it has been rather successful. It is the only Southern State where a respectable Republican organization has been established. It is a practical political proposition, but no judicial bias is involved.

Yet it is this connection with politics that influences the Southern Democrats against the judge. The fact that he came up by this route does not impress them with his ability. Senator Overman, of North Carolina, knows better the Republican situation in his State and has indorsed Judge Parker. The Democrats of the other Southern States know that the Republicans of their States, generally speaking, are not the States' best citizens, that they use the Republican party, indeed, only to advance their ends.

Labor Charge Replied To.

The labor fight against the nominee has far more apparent substance. In answer to the charge that the judge upheld a so-called "yellow dog" injunction growing out of the war between the West Virginia coal operators and miners, his friends cite a decision he rendered upholding the right of laborers to their pay after a firm had gone bankrupt. The following words are cited:

"There can be no question that it was the purpose and intent of Congress, by the provision in question, to protect wages of laborers due them by insolvents whose assets had been taken over by the courts under the act. The laborer is generally dependent upon his wages for livelihood and the support of his family, and he has little means of judging of the solvency of his employer. Every consideration of morality, as well as of public policy, demands, therefore, that his wages be preserved to him and be given priority over ordinary commercial claims."

This was the case of Manly vs. Hood, decided January 14 this year and reported in 37 Federal (2) 212.

Precedent Not Binding.

It is such as this that the friends of the judge should dig up, because the defense of his "yellow-dog" decision by the Department of Justice that he only followed the Supreme Court has made no impression on the Senate at all. The lawyers of that body agree that while a Supreme Court ruling may be cited in explanation of a decision, it is by no means binding upon or need influence a lower judge acting in another case. If such were the case, it is pointed out, the Supreme Court would already have established enough precedents to cover all controversies among mankind.

And it is not surprising either that this one decision of the judge should be such a red flag for organized labor. Those West Virginia coal decisions have been a sore spot with organized labor for years and considered extreme, to say the least, by others outside the labor ranks. The injunction in question not only enjoined against disorder and unlawful assembly but against even "persuading" nonunion miners to join the union.

Now getting back to the President's long, uphill fight to take the judiciary out of politics. The failure of the President to consult Senate leaders over his judicial appointments is in a measure responsible for his troubles. He did not consult the senators on Judge Parker. He consulted none of them on Chief Justice Hughes.

Forced to Name Two Others.

On the other hand, he was absolutely against two Federal bench appointments which senators forced him to make, Judge Watson, of Pennsylvania, and Judge Hopkins, of Kansas. And there is an amazing belief among those who followed these cases that neither one was of the Federal judge caliber.

But in the case of Judge Parker the thought seemed to be to keep this appointment out of senatorial politics, not necessarily the political institution itself.

Because political considerations did govern. No senators had a hand in it, but Mr. Hoover was importuned by others to appoint a Republican because of its political effect. It is not seriously contended that Judge Parker is the South's outstanding available jurist, notwithstanding that he may be good.

U. S. AGENTS START RADIO FUSION PROBE

DILL SPEAKER IN SENATE

(Associated Press.)

A full investigation of the plan of the Radio Corporation of America to take over the radio activities of the General and Westinghouse Electric companies was promised yesterday at almost the same time that word of the proposal was made public.

A brief statement given out at the Justice Department less than an hour after Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington, had called the attention of the Senate to a report that the plans were under way and demand an inquiry by the department, said:

"The Department of Justice announced that it was fully advised regarding the proposed affiliation between the Radio Corporation, General Electric Co. and Westinghouse Electric Co. in the manufacture of radios and that it was investigating the application fully and was considerably concerned about it."

Dill Raps Proposition.

Senator Dill brought the matter up in the Senate by reading into the record a newspaper article relating that 6,500,000 shares of stock had been sold by the Radio Corporation, which, he said, would give Westinghouse and General Electric control of the Radio Corporation. "As a result," he said, "these two companies have control of the Radio Corporation of America, which in turn has built up subsidiaries controlling the manufacture and distribution of radio sets.

"If the Department of Justice had gone ahead in the prosecution of the radio trust, this new trust monopoly would not have been formed. I hope that the Department of Justice will take notice of this enormous organization which is being formed to dominate the entire manufacture and distribution business in the radio world."

A little earlier in the day, David Sarnoff, president of the Radio Corporation, had said after a visit to the White House that an important announcement regarding a business agreement between his company and the other two organizations might be expected from New York.

Formal Announcement Made.

New York, April 16 (A.P.).—The Radio Corporation of America today announced a plan under which it will take over the radio manufacturing, engineering and licensing activities of the General Electric Co. and the Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., in exchange for large blocks of its stock.

The plan will result in doubling the outstanding common stock of Radio Corporation, and will give General Electric practical control of the corporation through increasing its holdings to more than 40 per cent of the stock outstanding. General Electric is already the largest stockholder, with more than 20 per cent of the present stock outstanding. Westinghouse interest in the company will be increased from about 2½ per cent of the common stock to more than 22 per cent.

The plan is regarded as a means of simplifying the rather complicated relationships of the three companies, and of concentrating their several radio manufacturing interests. General Electric will turn over to Radio Corporation its 30 per cent and Westinghouse A.-Victor Corporation, in which the companies has been centered, at the former Victor Talking Machine Co. plants at Camden, N. J., Radio Corporation already holds the remaining 50 per cent interest.

Stockholders are asked to approve the plan at a meeting on May 6.

Statement by Sarnoff.

In a statement setting forth the advantages of the plan, David Sarnoff, president of the company, said:

"Believing that increased efficiency and economies both in manufacturing and merchandising can thereby be effected and ultimately bring down the cost of radio sets and tubes to the public, the Radio Corporation is asking its stockholders to approve an increase in its capital stock to compensate the General Electric and Westinghouse Companies for the radio manufacturing facilities and rights to be acquired from them.

"The earnings heretofore accruing to these two manufacturing companies in connection with their radio activities would, under the proposed program, be reflected in the income of the Radio Corporation of America, thus materially improving the corporation's financial position."

Virginian Is Killed When Hit by Auto

Pedestrian Dies of Hurts Car Driver's Condition Proves Critical.

Special to The Washington Post.

Petersburg, Va., April 16.—An automobile accident occurred today on Cox road, Dinwiddie County, a short distance from Petersburg, in which one man was instantly killed and another probably fatally injured.

The latter, who is said to have been the driver of the car, was taken to the Petersburg Hospital, where he was reported this afternoon to be in an unconscious condition. The man who was killed was Everett Sanford Harrison, 49, of Kenilworth, a suburb of this city, who at the time of his tragic death was walking along the side of the road when he was struck by the machine. Harrison was a brother of Lynn Harrison, a prominent clothing merchant of Petersburg. He was returning to his home after having been to the Central State Hospital 1 mile from the scene of the accident.

The driver was pinned under the wheel of the wrecked machine, which had to be lifted from the ground before the man could be removed. The automobile, a light sedan, was completely wrecked.

Harman Gets Life For Slaying Girl

Jury Returns Instructed Verdict Following Compromise.

Salem, Va., April 16 (A.P.).—Trial of Buren Harman for the murder of his 18-year-old sweetheart, Freeda Bolt, late this afternoon came to an end in Roanoke County Circuit Court when counsel for both sides agreed to a verdict of life imprisonment. Following this agreement the jury brought in a verdict to that effect in accordance with instructions from Presiding Judge T. L. Keister.

The verdict carried out a recommendation submitted by two alienists after they had examined the prisoner for a period of five hours.

These two men, Dr. J. S. De Jarnette, superintendent of the Western State Hospital for the Insane at Staunton, and Dr. J. H. Bell, superintendent of the State epileptic colony at Lynchburg, had been summoned as witnesses by the prosecution after Dr. L. S. Pedigo, of Roanoke, had testified for the defense that the accused youth had a mind of a 12-year-old child, and was suffering from an epileptic form of insanity.

PANZRAN MUST DIE FOR PRISON MURDER

NO HANGINGS SINCE 1870

Topeka, Kans., April 16 (A.P.).—Carl Panzran, 38, Leavenworth Federal Penitentiary prisoner, today was sentenced to be hanged on the prison gallows for the murder of R. G. Warnke, civilian laundry foreman of the prison. The execution was set for September 5 by Judge Richard J. Hopkins, hearing his first criminal docket of the U. S. District Court.

It was the first death sentence pronounced in Kansas in approximately fourteen years. The jury convicted Panzran of murder in the first degree, a verdict which made mandatory the death sentence in a State which years ago abolished capital punishment.

Continuing tactics after his sentence which made him appear during his trial to seek conviction, the convict immediately protested a move upon the part of his attorneys to pave the way for a new trial.

Doesn't Want New Trial.

"I don't want a new trial," Panzran told Judge Hopkins. However, his attorneys were granted 90 days to file a bill of exceptions.

The trial was interrupted while a sanity commission asked by defense counsel heard the slayer boast of 23 murders. The commission reported it believed the defendant was of unsound mind but knew the difference between right and wrong.

Government witnesses, chiefly fellow convicts, testified at the trial yesterday that Panzran in a fit of rage had snuffed out Warnke's life with a few strokes of a heavy iron bar. The defense introduced no testimony.

In a published letter to Judge Hopkins, not introduced at the trial, Panzran demanded "justice" which he described as "that I be found guilty of murder in the first degree and sentenced to die."

First Hanging Since 1870.

A search of the Kansas Historical Society's records shows that Panzran, if executed in accordance with his sentence, will be the first man legally to be hanged in Kansas since August 9, 1870, when William Dickson went to his death at Leavenworth for the murder of Jacob Barnett.

All governors of the State since that time, the records show, have commuted sentences calling for capital punishment until 1907, when it was abolished by the Legislature.

F. L. Campbell, clerk of the court, said the last previous death sentence imposed in Federal District Court in Kansas was in the case of Robert Stroud, Leavenworth Federal prisoner, sentenced to hang approximately 14 years ago for the murder of a prison guard. The sentence was commuted by the President and Stroud is now serving a life sentence at the Leavenworth Penitentiary.

Panzran, sentenced at Washington, D. C., to serve 25 years for burglary and larceny, is serving his sixth prison sentence, the first being at the Minnesota State Training School for Boys in 1902.

CAPITOL ARCHITECT WINS IN SMOKE CASE

District Must Direct Future Action at Speaker of House, Judge Says.

U. S. OFFICIALS OFFICER

The paradox of the District of Columbia prosecuting and the United States defending was revealed yesterday in Police Court when David Lynn, architect of the Capitol, was arraigned on a warrant charging him with violating the smoke law of the District at the Nation's Capitol.

Judge Isaac R. Hitt quickly dismissed the case after Assistant United States Attorneys Neil Burkinshaw and Renah F. Camalier, appearing for Mr. Lynn, had pointed out and cited legal authorities to the effect that the House Office Building Commission was responsible for the heating plant from which the Capitol is heated.

At the same time Judge Hitt indicated that any future warrants charging violations of the District smoke law should be directed against the Speaker of the House and not against the Capitol architect.

Mr. Burkinshaw told the court that the warrant was illegal inasmuch as Mr. Lynn was not the "superintendent of the Capitol and its grounds" as charged and was "neither an agent or lessee of the Capitol power plant."

In addition, the assistant United States attorney said: "And certainly, your honor, no one is going to say that the distinguished architect of the Capitol, appointed by the President, is the occupant of the Capitol power plant—a coal bin." He also cited an act of Congress of 25 years ago which gave complete charge of the Capitol heating plant to the House Office Building Commission. Assistant Corporation Counsel Edward W. Thomas appeared for the District.

ONE DEAD, 50 HURT IN INDIA OUTBREAKS

Youth League, was sentenced to eight months simple imprisonment on a charge of instigating violations of the salt laws.

The situation in Calcutta this evening was quiet; military pickets were posted about the disturbed areas Sir Stanley Jackson, Governor of Bengal, and members of his cabinet will return from Darjeeling tomorrow.

Twenty Sikhs, who were arrested yesterday for participation in the rioting at Calcutta, were arraigned in the magistrate's court today. Six of the prisoners were released on bail, the others being remanded to custody pending trial.

Moslems and Hindus Fight.

Subhas Chandra Bose and eleven other members of the Congress of Workers lost their appeals to the high court, although their sentences were reduced from a year to nine months rigorous imprisonment. Bakar Ali Mirza, general secretary of the Bengal Jute Workers Union, was sentenced to six months' simple imprisonment and fined 1,000 rupees ($361) for disobeying an order which prohibited him from entering the Jagatdal mill area.

One of the largest demonstrations of the day occurred in this vicinity when 300 Nationalist volunteers marched to Wadal, 8 miles away. They intended to raid the government's salt pans there, but made no attempt to break the police lines and retired peacefully after distributing illicit salt to people of the neighborhood.

Madura, Madras, India, April 16 (A. P.).—Forgetting any interest they may have had in the Indian independence movement, Hindus of the Sourashtras community and Moslems fought viciously here today in connection with a Hindu religious festival. One Moslem was killed and many of the combatants on both sides were injured.

Labor Government in Peril.

London, April 16 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The British press today prints lengthy accounts of the troubles in India, the seriousness of which is reflected by the growing length of dispatches dealing with the riots and with Gandhi's activities in great detail, but in propagandist fashion. No official comment is available as to the seriousness of the situation or the possibilities of grave disorders.

It is learned however, that quiet measures are being taken here to move troops in the event of serious bloodshed and the opinion prevails in parliamentary lobbies that anything approaching mutiny in India would be a signal for prompt downfall of the Labor government.

The New York World News Service is also informed that there are at present one British cavalry regiment and 28 white British infantry battalions in India, about 25,000 men in all, detailed in the "army for the maintenance of internal security."

This does not include the troops in the "striking force," which together with the "covering force," guards the northern frontier. In the event of internal trouble troops could not be moved from the frontier except in the last emergency because of expected attacks from tribesmen and perhaps Afghans.

Two Americans Hurt.

In addition to the white troops the army for the maintenance of internal security contains 38 squadrons of Indian cavalry and 27 battalions of Indian troops. Including reservists and auxiliaries, white and colored, there are 270,000 troops in India, one soldier for every 1,200 inhabitants.

(Copyright, 1930.)

Two Americans were injured in yesterday's rioting in Calcutta, India, the State Department was informed yesterday by Robert Frazer, American consul general at Calcutta.

Frank Bond Nelson, of Buffalo, N. Y., and Albert N. Baudin, of Houghton, Mich., were the Americans hurt. Both are employes of the Ingersoll-Rand Co., manufacturers of mining machinery.

The State Department estimates that about 4,000 American citizens live in India. No records are at hand telling where they live.

Author Attacks Women As Progress Workers

Women are not taking the lead in either America or Russia, the two countries in which most of the old has been scrapped and the new is most surely on its way, Miss Katharine Anthony, the author, declared last night in a coast-to-coast radio speech on "Women as Rulers" under the auspices of the National Woman's party. She attributed this to the increasing mechanization of society. Miss Anthony is best known for her biographies of Catherine the Great and Queen Elizabeth.

Miss Anthony's talk last night closed the series of addresses on women in world affairs which have been broadcast every week by the National Woman's party and the National Broadcasting Co.

Five children in colonial costume, including John Morrison Kerr, Homer McAllister, Julia Adeline McAllister, 2-year-old Lydia McAllister, of the District of Columbia, and Anne Laurie Rankin, of Mississippi, presented baskets of flowers to Mrs. Hoover and at her invitation sat on the huge couch with her. Three delegates from Boston garbed in Puritan costume presented Mrs. Hoover with a single red rose.

Mrs. Hoover told the children that she had intended to come to their convention and gave them a short talk on patriotism and how they must do their duty as future citizens of the Nation.

The comprehensive news reports and the special cartoons by the Washington Post in covering the thirty-ninth Continental Congress were praised by Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, president general of the D. A. R., in the open convention yesterday morning. A capacity audience of delegates applauded vigorously as Mrs. Hobart exhibited the cartoon entitled "Always on Guard" printed in The Washington Post on Monday morning. "If you have not seen last Monday morning's issue of The Washington Post" said Mrs. Hobart, "be sure to secure one before you leave the city. It had the most wonderful cartoon in paying us a great compliment. On the shield of the figure it says: 'In militant defense of our country's patriotic traditions. The D. A. R. are always on guard.'

"This is the original drawing by Mr. North. It is truly a great compliment." Mrs. Hobart then placed the drawing on exhibition in the President general's room.

Legislation was forgotten last night when the nominations for the eight vacancies in the ranks of the vice presidents general and for one honorary vice president generalship were made. On all sides campaign arguments were heard and all signs pointed to a spirited contest today when the all day balloting begins in Constitution Hall. Although eight vice presidents general will be elected only seven names can be placed on the ticket by the voter. The eighth vice president general who is to fill out the unexpired term of one year will be the one receiving the eighth highest plurality vote.

Nominees for Vice President.

Smiling candidates with armfuls of flowers and arrayed in their best gowns sat on the platform as their nominators and seconds extolled their virtues in much feminine oratory. After each had been placed in nomination they were presented to the audience by Mrs. Lowell Fletcher Hobart, the president general, in order that all the delegates might catch a glimpse of the women for whom their ballots were asked.

The District of Columbia's candidate for vice president general, Mrs. David D. Caldwell, was nominated by Mrs. John M. Beavers, former vice president general of the District, and she was seconded by Mrs. Joseph M. Kalley.

Among the candidates for vice president general, who are said to have a splendid chance of winning, are Mrs. Ralph E. Bristol, of Utah, coming from a State which never before had a vice president general candidate; Mrs. James Charles Ueabody, of Massachusetts; Mrs. Frances C. Wilson, of New Mexico; Mrs. Matthew Brewster, of Louisiana, former chaplain general of the D. A. R.; Mrs. Martin L. Sigman, of Arkansas; Mrs. Charles Herbert Carroll, of New Hampshire, and Mrs. Benjamin Leslie Hart, of Missouri. Mrs. Grant Lilley, of Kentucky, was also nominated.

Voting to Start Today.

Factional troubles in California and New York are expected to hurt the chances of Mrs. Theodore Jesse Hoover, retiring State regent of California, who is a candidate for vice president general, and Mrs. Newton D. Chapman, of New York State, also a candidate for vice president general. It is said that Mrs. Hoover's supporters claim that the fact that Mrs. Lyman B. Stookey, of that State, is a candidate for ratification of her office as reporter general to which she was appointed by the national board of management to succeed Miss Anne Margaret Lang, of Oregon, should not interfere with Mrs. Hoover's chances as there have been two candidates before for different offices in a single State.

Two candidates were placed in nomination for the office of honorary vice president general, Mrs. Eliza Ferry Leary, of Washington State, and Mrs. Charles B. Bryan, of Tennessee. Mrs. Bryan is the daughter of the late Commodore Raphael Semmes, Confederate navy, who commanded the Merrimac in her historic fight with the ironclad Monitor in the Civil War.

Balloting for these candidates will begin early this morning. Miss Katherine Nettleton, State regent of Connecticut, is serving as chairman of tellers. It is thought that the count may be in in time for the announcement of the result at tonight's session. Reports from national committees will continue throughout the day.

Care of American Flag.

Many of the D. A. R. delegates will witness the placing of a molded stone in the fabric of Washington Cathedral by the Children of the American Revolution in memory of their late president, Mrs. Rhett Goode, of Mobile, Ala., today at 3 o'clock. The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, D. D., Bishop of Washington, will deliver the memorial address. Following the stone placing a pilgrimage to Bethlehem Chapel will take place, where floral tributes will be laid on the tombs of the late President Woodrow Wilson and Admiral George Dewey by representatives of the D. A. R. Members of Mrs. Goode's immediate family will witness the ceremony.

The thrilling story of the far-flung activities of the D. A. R. along patriotic lines, education and national defense stood out vividly even through the prosaic detail of committee reports yesterday when the general accounts of the national chairmen of committees were made.

Now and then these innocent appearing reports contained items of special news, as in the report of Mrs. Charles Brand, wife of Representative Brand, of Ohio, as national chairman on the correct use of the flag, who reminded the delegates that at a time "when work is being done to drag the United States into a tangle of European politics, by way of the League of Nations or by way of the world court or by way of a consultation pact or by any means, little or big, slight or important, to get us involved in European diplomacy or in European offensive or defensive operations, it is healthy for us to look back to Revolutionary days when the flag was born."

Mrs. Brand stated in her report that public decorators are careless in the use of the flag and cited an instance in Seattle, Wash., where, she declared, after a public occasion there American flags were "torn down, baled and sold for old rags and were found in use in automobile garages for the purpose of wiping windshields and cleaning automobiles."

Report by Mrs. Morgan.

Mrs. Brand urged the delegates to support a resolution now pending in Congress to make correct use of the flag more prevalent. She asked that historic flags of Revolutionary times be preserved either in the State houses of the respective States or in the Smithsonian Institution at Washington.

In her report as national chairman of legislation in the United States Congress, Mrs. Fred C. Morgan, told of the efforts to have the bills passed to make "The Star-Spangled Banner" the national anthem and to bring about legislation for immigration restriction, especially as regards Mexicans. Mrs. Morgan stated that fewer Mexicans are emigrating to the United States. That the D. A. R. stands by its support of legislation for an adequate Navy was reaffirmed in Mrs. Morgan's report. "We, as an organization, with the world in general," she declared, "have been waiting the outcome of the peace parley in London, and until conclusions satisfactory to all nations are reached, we had rather go forward with equipment to meet any emergency than take a chance that the millennium is close at hand."

Under the national committee on legislation a study of the Constitution of the United States and good citizenship has been conducted.

Coast to Coast Reports.

High points of other committee reports of the day were the student loan fund, by Marjorie A. Spaulding, chairman, in which it was shown that the District of Columbia D. A. R. has a student loan revolving fund of $2,649.03, under which local students are benefited, and the Liberty loan fund committee reported through its national chairman, Mrs. Harriet Vaughn Rigdon, of Wabash, Ind., that eight real Daughters of the American Revolution and eleven Spanish War nurses are receiving pensions from the D. A. R. through the interest on its Liberty loan fund.

In the report of the committee on conservation and thrift, it was stated that many trees had been planted by chapters throughout the country and that on account of the severe winter in Washington last year that birds and squirrels had been fed.

Sitting as a committee of the whole, the Continental Congress D. A. R. last night heard regents from every State and Territory of the Nation report on the activities of the society during the past year. Americanism, national defense, educational work, preservation of historic spots and the con-

Man Seeks Freedom On Habeas Corpus Plea

John Mack, colored, who is alleged to have attempted to assault Detective Richard J. Cox, acting head of the police vice squad, with a pocket knife in Police Court Tuesday, sought release yesterday from jail through a habeas corpus writ.

Mack, through Attorneys Cedric Johnson, Robert I. Miller and William J. Sullivan, alleges that he is being illegally detained, and that at the time of his arrest on Detective Cox's charge he did not have a knife in his possession. He alleges further that he was in the court witness room waiting to testify in a case against his wife and that the detective was using vulgar language.

Suspended Sentence Given to Shoplifter

Mrs. Edith Mannis, who is alleged to have used her 6-year-old daughter as a decoy, was given two 90-day suspended sentences yesterday when she pleaded guilty before Judge Isaac R. Hitt on two charges of shoplifting.

Attorney John P. Mullen, who represented the woman, told the court that she had made restitution, a statement which was born out by letters from the two clerks of a local department store whose pocketbooks the woman is alleged to have stolen.

Girl Disinherited By General's Wife

Cincinnati, April 16 (A.P.).—The court fight between Mrs. Henrietta Bethell, wife of a wealthy general in the British army stationed in India, and her mother, Mrs. Marie Hanke, for guardianship of Mrs. Bethell's daughter, Miss Marjorie Schiele, 17, appeared near an end today, after Mrs. Bethell said she would disinherit her daughter.

"Since my daughter, Marjorie, declared she preferred her grandmother to me as her guardian, there is nothing left for me to do but disinherit her," Mrs. Bethell announced.

Mrs. Bethell's disinheritance statement, made today, followed statements made almost daily by Miss Schiele for the last two weeks that she wanted to remain in America under her grandmother's guardianship rather than go to India with her mother.

Mrs. Bethell left India several weeks ago for Cincinnati to be present at the seventeenth birthday party of her daughter. Upon arrival in this country she learned that Mrs. Hanke had been appointed guardian for Miss Schiele and that grandmother and granddaughter had fled from Cincinnati to escape seeing Mrs. Bethell. The latter, however, located them in a Philadelphia hotel.

Chicago, April 16 (A.P.).—Former Senator James Hamilton Lewis' campaign for the Democratic senatorial nomination of last week's primary election cost him the grand total of $35, all for postage in answering letters, he declared in an affidavit on campaign expenses filed today.

"Before my little daughter was born I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound regularly. I was able to do my usual work and take pleasure in doing it. We were so happy when a wonderfully fine baby girl arrived to bless our home. I have enjoyed better health since the baby's birth than ever before. I am sure that I owe it all to your medicine and I heartily recommend it to all women who are weak or ailing."—Mrs. Chester Decker.

"Although I am only 22 years old I have four babies to care for. Before my first baby was born my mother urged me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound because I was so terribly weak. I had to lie down four or five times a day. After three bottles I could feel a great improvement. I still take the Vegetable Compound whenever I need it, for it gives me strength to be a good mother to my family. I will write to any woman about it."—Mrs. Vern L. Dennings.

TAXI CURB PROJECT OPPOSED BY KEECH

People's Counsel Declares Utilities Board Plan Can Cause Higher Fare.

SENATE HEARING IS DUE

Legislation proposed by the Public Utilities Commission to give it power to limit the number of taxicabs in Washington will be strenuously opposed by Richmond B. Keech, people's counsel.

Mr. Keech believes that restriction by the commission of the number of taxicabs in Washington would result in lessened competition and, consequently higher taxicab rates. Mr. Keech pointed out yesterday that if the proposed measure is enacted it would give the utilities commission authority to prevent new companies entering the field with a consequent loss to the taxicab user of the benefit of reduced rates and improved service resulting from increased competition.

The commission has asked Congress to enact legislation giving it authority to control the number of taxicabs in the city by means of a requirement of a certificate of convenience and necessity for all cabs. These certificates would be issued by the commission to applicants only when the commission felt that the additional taxicabs were a matter of "public convenience and necessity." This legislation is to be considered at a hearing before the Senate District committee next week.

OCEAN CITY STRUCK BY ECONOMIC BLIGHT

the waste of Federal money to maintain those whose labor is being wasted, and the plight of those who are at home waiting.

The story of Ocean City begins in 1524 with the arrival of the explorer Verranzo, the first white man to set foot on Maryland soil. The Lords Baltimore came afterward and established the colony as a "sanctuary for the oppressed."

But this particular story begins with the arrival of the rumrunner 4 miles below Ocean City. It came in two nights before the new year heavily laden with liquor and trouble.

Rumrunner Agent Appears.

The 2,000 cases of whisky, champagne and rum were destined for Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia markets; hence, if it was to arrive on time, it was essential that it be moved in a hurry.

The fishing season is slack around here at that time of the year; in fact, it is practically dead. It hadn't been much good anyway, from all accounts, and as a consequence fishermen not only were out of work but out of funds.

Into this fisherman's colony went an agent of the rumrunners. He offered wages that made him seem like a tardy Santa Claus. The least a man could earn under his terms was $25 for a night's work.

Condition Is Described.

"We were broke," said young Crawford Savage. "We didn't have a red cent. Could you blame us if we took the job? It didn't seem like breaking the law; it was just like working as stevedores."

Forty men all told went to work unloading the rum ship; some running it in to the beach, some carrying it to the trucks, and others hauling it away.

It was a desolate place, the spot that had been selected; and had it not been good duck hunting weather, the 2,000 cases of liquor which the ship is said to have carried might all have been safely carried away.

Justice Gives Alarm.

As it was, Justice of the Peace Alfred Peters, of Berlin, Md., happened to like the ducking prospects that morning, and struck off in the direction of the rum operations.

Spying the swarming men and the liquor piled case upon case, Justice Peters gave the alarm. He called the Coast Guard Station, and he called Chief of Police Robert Allen of Ocean City, and the raid followed.

In addition to the Ocean City men the raiders arrested four men they accused of being the leaders, the master minds. These were George Bolton, Samuel Hill, Edward Miller and Edward Murtha, all of New Jersey.

Sentence Is Passed.

In the trial that followed three of the men were given eighteen months and one was given fifteen months in the Atlanta Penitentiary.

Charged With Smuggling.

Like the alleged ringleaders, the Ocean City men also were charged with smuggling. It was hard for them to comprehend, but that was the charge. And on it, they were convicted.

"There was something funny about that," said Crawford Savage. "They told us to plead guilty; the higher ups did. If we had had a lawyer it might have been different, but we didn't have any money to hire a lawyer."

The fancy wages that had been promised the Ocean City men were never given to them. They forfeited whatever they had earned when they were arrested.

Trial Held at Easton.

The trial of the men was held at Easton, Md., by Federal Judge Morris Soper. Civic leaders from Ocean City pleaded with him to release them, but he explained that, under the law, he could not.

He felt for their families, he has since written, but, as matters stood, what with their plea of guilty and the evidence, he could do only one thing—sentence them.

They received sentences varying from two to six months, depending upon what they had done in unloading the liquor.

Roland Driscoll drew the highest penalty of the 34, being sentenced to 6 months in jail. Sentences of four months were passed on Ebe Elliott, John Elliott, Spencer Elliott and Crawford O. Savage, while George H. Jones, Joe Bunting and Harvey Lynch each were sentenced to three months in jail.

Other Sentences Passed.

James S. Bradford, Dorsey Cropper, Richard Hayward, Clifford Harmon, Sim Harmon, Richard Harmon, Charles Hasting, Charles Johnson, Kuna Kushela, Charles M. Kelly, Harris Powell, Orlie Powell, Elwood Parsons, Thomas Purnell, Negro; John Quillen, Denard Quillen, Alfred Quillen, Walter Redden, Ralph Richardson, John W. Smith and Herman Wooten each were sentenced to two months in jail.

Joshua Bunting, Levi Cathell, Harry Given, Norman Lynch and Lloyd Harmon, the youngest members of the smuggling band, were all paroled for a period of two years.

Two men still remain at large in the case, indictments originally having been returned against 40. Charles Quulen, one of the two, said to be a race track follower and in New Orleans at the present time, failed to appear in court when the cases were called.

Jail Proves Too Small.

Taken from Easton to Ocean City, the convicted men were placed in the town jail; at least, an attempt was made to place them there. But it was found that they wouldn't fit. The jail is a 12-man affair.

After a hurried meeting the town council decided to lodge the men in the fire house, and there they have been ever since—24 days.

A reporter for The Post saw them there yesterday. They presented an appearance wholly unlike the average collection of prisoners. They reminded one more of a band of soldiers loafing around in the barracks.

Prisoners Are Worried.

Ebe Elliott looked worried, and for good reason. A few blocks away, his wife was lying in bed, victim of a bad heart. Alongside of her lay a small son, one of four. He has the whooping cough.

In another house lay a woman who was even worse off. She will not be named here because she is mentally unbalanced.

The townsfolk do not claim that she got in this condition as the result of her husband's misfortune; they do claim, however, that the husband's plight hasn't helped her any. There are children in this family, too.

Resolutions Passed At Session.

A number of strong resolutions in support of national defense and other policies of the D. A. R. were passed in the Thirty-ninth Continental Congress yesterday.

One resolution called for the "unmasking of subversive organizations and an investigation of their activities" and was passed without a dissenting voice. The merchant marine was supported in another resolution and development of American ownership, and it was urged that Americans travel on American-owned ships whenever possible.

Support of adequate national defense was also brought out in another resolution in which protest was made against any attempt to weaken America's defenses against an armed world. Citizens' military training was supported, also the legislation to give adequate appropriation to military and naval establishments.

In the morning resolutions were passed calling for the taking of the oath of allegiance by school teachers as a necessary requisite in private and public schools of the land.

In the immigration resolution deportation of aliens illegally in this country was urged as well as more restrictive measures in regard to immigration as a way to solve the unemployment question in this country.

At that institution he held the chairs of mathematics and natural philosophy.

Even before going to William and Mary he had attained some fame as a scientist and it is known that he gave a series of lectures on scientific subjects in the City of Baltimore when only 23 years of age.

While engaged in his duties at the university, Dr. Rogers nevertheless found time to conduct correspondence with many of the education leaders throughout the country. He took an active part in various reforms in the university, especially the temperance movement.

READY TO SERVE
HEINZ RICE FLAKES
H.J. HEINZ COMPANY

SEE HOW HE LIKES THEM

Here are luscious, crunchy, oven-toasted rice flakes—daintiest you've ever tasted—offering one of vegetables' best effects. It means help in regulating the important health-habits of children with complete cooperation on the children's part. HEINZ has accomplished this unusual result by including in these flavory flakes a fine cereal-cellulose, a natural food-substance which is a part of rice itself. Children are conscious only of an alluring food. HEINZ has spent eight years in developing this rare combination after sixty years' experience in food making.

NO BRAN IN IT

This remarkable new product contains no bran — nothing harsh or irritating in any way whatever. It is effective in a different manner. When moisture is absorbed (after eating) the volume of the cereal-cellulose increases four to six times.

Thus an entirely natural mild, gentle bulk and roughage is created — high in efficiency, like that formed by the best vegetables.

Think of clothing such a benefit in flakes that stand unique among all breakfast foods even though you judge them by flavor, or daintiness of texture only!

HEINZ Rice Flakes supply all of the usual energizing food value of rice in addition to this feature. Don't use in place of vegetables, of course, because certain food-essentials can come through vegetables alone. Let HEINZ Rice Flakes supplement the vegetable diet.

Make this test: Get a children's jury to try HEINZ RICE FLAKES on the point of flavor solely! Then serve twice daily for one week to start the benefits; once daily thereafter to maintain them.

That will tell the story far better than we can in print.

If not the most delicious and effective cereal you've ever known, your grocer will cheerfully refund the purchase price. But we believe HEINZ Rice Flakes will be on your pantry shelf to stay!

Remember, no other cereal of any type provides this extraordinary feature. A HEINZ patent controls it. To get it for your children, therefore, you must insist on HEINZ Rice Flakes. They are just as good for grown-ups as for children.

RUNNING THE DISTRICT IN DEBT.

When details of the Bingham airport bill became known, attention was called to the fact that the method of financing involved, namely, a loan from the Federal Treasury to be repaid from the general revenues of the District over a period of years, set a dangerous precedent. The District long has prided itself that it manages its affairs on a "cash and carry" basis. It is the only American city of any size that is free from bonded indebtedness.

The Cramton park and parking measure calls for a method of financing similar in every respect to that proposed in the Bingham airport bill. Now Senator Capper comes forward with a scheme to hasten the municipal center development, predicated upon a loan of $15,000,000 from the Federal Treasury to be repaid over a period of years. Although the Bingham and Cramton measures specify that the loans shall be non-interest bearing, the Capper bill contemplates a 3½ per cent interest charge.

The Cramton measure, except in so far as it sets a precedent, should not be opposed. It provides for the purchase of certain lands the value of which is increasing from year to year. It is good business to secure these lands while they can be obtained at a reasonable cost. The Bingham bill, however, would force District taxpayers to pay the full cost of an improvement that should be made by private capital, and the Capper bill would plunge the District into debt for an improvement the financing of which already has been satisfactorily arranged. Last year's appropriation bill carried $3,000,000 to begin the purchase of land for the municipal center. The current bill carries an additional $3,000,000 toward the acquisition of land. The recently enacted Keyes-Elliott bill authorizes the transfer to the Federal Government "at a fair price" of the District Building, and the proceeds of this transaction will be available for the new municipal center. Why, since the District can finance the new center through the sale of the District Building and through annual appropriations from the general revenues, should it be plunged into interest-bearing debt for the development? Why should the flood-gates be opened to a rush of bills that will saddle all manner of unwarranted developments and huge annual interest charges on defenseless local taxpayers?

UNPOLICED ROADS.

It should not have required a horrible murder to draw attention to the need for establishing police patrols on unguarded Federal roads in the vicinity of Washington. These roads are unlighted. They have been the scene of many felonies and much disorder. Unlighted and unpatrolled, these roads for years have invited disorder and crime.

Representative Moore, of Virginia, some time ago introduced a bill incorporating a suggestion of the Secretary of War that the jurisdiction of the park police be extended by five miles, so that they would have authority to police the Virginia military roads. The bill is before the military affairs committee. It should be reported out forthwith and acted upon favorably by Congress.

The park police force, however, is not Virginia without slighting its duties in Washington parks. Representative Moore sufficiently large to extend its patrols into would do well to introduce a bill providing an increased personnel for the park police force and defining its duty with respect to patrolling the military roads.

RESTRICTING OIL PRODUCTION.

Secretary Wilbur's committee on petroleum economics has estimated the demand for oil during the remaining months of 1930, and suggests that production be prorated among the States. It is assumed that the United States will consume 1,150,000,000 barrels of oil. But production would be restricted to 942,000,000 barrels, and the industry would draw upon the stored supply, imports and natural gasoline for the remainder.

The committee suggests that Texas be restricted to 750,000 barrels per day; California, 610,000 barrels; Oklahoma, 655,000, and all other States, 480,000. The plan is the essence of simplicity. But who is to do the restricting? Where will rest the responsibility for keeping each State within its limitation?

More than a year ago the petroleum industry undertook voluntarily to limit its output. Each region was to be held to its production level in 1928. But the Government stepped in and said that such a proceeding would not be allowed because it was repugnant to the antitrust laws. Since then the States have tried in a limited way to curtail uneconomical production, with some success in the larger fields. But the most liberal imagination will find it difficult to visualize the States falling into line and holding down their oil industry to the levels prescribed by the Interior Department.

The Federal Government has no control over privately owned oil lands. Recent decisions of the courts leave the Secretary of the Interior without authority to withhold even public oil lands from exploitation. It will tax the genius of department officials to evolve some way of enforcing an allocation of production among the States. The problem should not be so difficult among the three great oil-producing States, but among those which are just beginning to develop the industry it will be an enigma indeed.

NORRIS FOILED AGAIN.

Senator Norris can fool some of the people all the time and all the people some of the time, but he can't fool all the people all the time. When he first piloted through Congress his pet measure to put the Government into the power business at Muscle Shoals it was stopped by a pocket veto from President Coolidge. Under the guise of helping the farmer and providing flood control, he engineered a second measure through the Senate. But it has been embalmed by the House military affairs committee.

Mr. Norris is bent upon curing the economic ills from which he fears America is suffering by administering sugar-coated doses of socialism. But every time he is about ready to thrust his favorite concoction down the throat of the patient, some one gives him a jolt and upsets the treasured medicine. Of course, this is a bitter experience for one who is so imbued with the righteousness of his own quackery. But the Nebraskan is full of prescriptions of this kind. It is safe to predict that before Congress can enact a sensible measure for the disposition of Muscle Shoals he will be ready with a bigger and more carefully concealed socialistic potion.

So apprehensive has Senator Norris been over the attempts of sinister interests to get hold of the Government's property at Muscle Shoals that he will no doubt be able to find ulterior motives behind the action of the House committee. Why should a group of congressmen have the audicity to sabotage his plans? Let the senator from Nebraska now investigate the military affairs committee of the House, to find out what malicious element is obstructing the smooth path he has laid out toward American socialism.

DECREPIT AUTOMOBILES.

A survey by the automobile department of The Post reveals that motorists and pedestrians in Washington are endangered by the operation of thousands of defective cars and trucks. Every unfit machine that is driven through the streets is a potential source of accidents. The large percentage of accidents caused by worn-out brakes, defective steering gear and maladjusted headlights is sufficient reason to demand that these automobiles be kept off the streets.

Another disadvantage arising from the operation of numerous antiquated and defective automobiles ought to be considered. On the theory that a system is no stronger than its weakest part, traffic regulations must be made to fit the most inefficient machine on the streets. The operation of approximately 30,000 obsolete machines in Washington necessitates enforcement of regulations which were adopted prior to the advent of the modern car. Washington's present speed limit, for example, was adopted five years ago, before four-wheel brakes were standard equipment. The modern car now stops in half the distance prescribed as essential for safety a few years ago. This means that a higher rate of speed would be safe for a great majority of motorists, but the same limits continue in effect because of the large number of decrepit machines on the streets. The general result is traffic stagnation such as is experienced in few other large cities.

If motorists in Washington were required to keep their automobiles in condition, some of the regulations that now congest traffic could be liberalized without subjecting the public to any greater danger. Most of the large cities of the country have come to recognize the necessity of facilitating rather than restricting traffic, and mechanical efficiency of vehicles is one of the first prerequisites of this change in policy. Washington can not afford to keep its traffic code five or six years behind the times to accommodate careless motorists who fail to keep their cars in condition fit for driving.

BRAZIL—AN OBJECT LESSON.

James C. Stone, vice chairman of the Federal Farm Board, in a recent radio address defended the Government policy with respect to farm relief. "A cooperative marketing association is to agriculture the same as a corporation is to business," said Mr. Stone. "It is the opinion of many business men that cooperative associations are organized for the purpose of setting aside the law of supply and demand, but this is untrue. There is no farmer who has given serious consideration to the development of a better marketing system who does not realize that the price of a product necessarily depends largely upon the demand for it and the supply with which to meet that demand. However, it must not be overlooked that even when the law of supply and demand is taken into consideration the price is affected largely by the time, manner and place of the feeding of the supply to the demand. In other words, the supply must be fed to the demand in an orderly way and in such quantities as the demand can consume at a fair price."

Provided the supply is kept under rigorous control, as it can be by an industrial corporation, there is nothing to lose and everything to gain by impounding the surplus production to be fed out according to the demand. The problem in the farm relief program is whether the Farm Board will be able to control the supply. At present the board has on hand huge supplies of wheat purchased to prevent a price debacle and with the idea of feeding it out upon the market as the opportunity presented itself. The program of acreage curtailment is barely under way. Dr. John Lee Coulter, chief economist for the Tariff Commission, was loaned to the Farm Board to carry forward a special campaign for acreage reduction and early in the month he announced that although some reduction in spring wheat planting has been indicated the reduction in the Northwest States alone should be fully 2,000,000 acres. Although Mr. Legge reports that the situation as to curtailment is encouraging it remains to be seen whether the board will be able to make farmers agree to such a huge curtailment as 2,000,000 acres.

What happens when a government fixes an artificial price for a farm commodity and undertakes to maintain it by impounding surplus production, in the hope that it can be eased out upon the market at a later date, is today in evidence in Brazil, where, seven or more years ago there was put into effect a coffee valorization scheme similar in its essential elements to the American farm relief program. The price for coffee was fixed, but planters, instead of reducing acreage, attempted to gain an advantage from the stabilized price and expanded their acreage. Not a bag of impounded coffee has been eased out into the market. The huge store on hand, amounting today to 16,500,000 bags, having a market value exceeding $200,000,000, has acted as a price depressant, and it now develops that the State of Sao Paulo has had to negotiate a loan of $100,000,000 to stabilize the situation. The loan will be used to carry the accumulated stores while they are liquidated gradually over a period of ten years. Meanwhile future crops as they mature will be placed on the market.

In Brazil it was found impossible to control production. Unless the Farm Board is able to effect drastic acreage curtailment, not only of wheat, but of all other crops that have been and are being produced in surplus quantities, it will move only toward disaster.

A TARIFF BANQUO

From the Wall Street Journal.

In one respect the question of an export debenture provision in the tariff bill applicable to agricultural products resembles Banquo's ghost. It will not down. Senator Borah has even made the blood-curdling threat that if it is not retained in the tariff law he will stump the country in its favor. In case Congress and the President accept the lesser of two evils, the debenture baby will come into the world under the cloud of Mr. Legge's judgment that it "would not work."

But Chairman Legge is mistaken. It would work unceasingly every day of the year. At the end of the season it would be found that it "worked" the Treasury. This can be demonstrated without examining more than two agricultural products, cotton and wheat. The debenture proposal has been for a drawback of 2 cents a pound on cotton, or approximately $10 a bale, and 21 cents a bushel on wheat. Taking official statistics of production of these two commodities it is a simple matter to estimate the cost of the scheme.

Production of cotton now averages around 15,000,000 bales, although in 1925 it was 16,103,000 and the next year 17,977,000. About 7,000,000 bales will cover domestic requirements, so we must count on exporting an average of 8,000,000 bales, on which the "debenture" payment would be $80,000,000. The Farm Board is doing everything it can to bring about a substantial reduction in acreage, but if the Treasury holds out a certainty of an additional $10 for every bale exported, will the farmers reduce?

The probabilities are that if the farmer knows his cotton he will increase his acreage. Any man who doubts the ability of this country to greatly increase the cotton production will change his mind if he takes a short trip through western Texas and sees cotton growing where a few years ago it was thought impossible to raise it; then ride around a little and view some millions of acres of similar land as virgin as when the great buffalo herd roamed over it, which can be brought under cultivation. There is no reason to doubt price increase would result in added acreage.

The same is true of wheat. In the five years ending with 1927 production of wheat averaged 810,000,000 bushels. In the next year, 1928, it was 902,750,000 bushels and in 1929, a very dry year, it was 878,000,000. Domestic requirements can be covered with 600,000,000 bushels, leaving from 200,000,000 to 300,000,000 bushels for export and calling for a Treasury payment of 21 cents a bushel. There is much unbroken land remaining in the wheat belt where the tractor and combine make wheat raising attractive to the farmers.

They would be unlike other human beings if they did not take advantage of the opportunity the Government offered them and join the cotton producers in increasing their production. An immediate profit would blind their eyes to the certainty of a future collapse making their condition worse than ever. So it is certain the debenture would "work."

MOON ROCKETS.

It seems inevitable, observes the New York Herald Tribune, that much of the advance of science should be a by-product of something more spectacular. Prof. Stewart, of Princeton, announces that the flight of a human being to the moon is strictly possible scientifically, thus agreeing with the majority of astronomical opinion, including the conclusions of the American pioneer in rocket research, Prof. R. H. Goddard. All that is necessary for the first moon flight is a moderate amount of engineering development and chemical research on fuels, the successful conclusions of which are in little doubt. And, of course, the funds; for a moon flight would be perhaps the most expensive scientific enterprise ever undertaken. It is by no means unlikely, however, that funds will be provided, for scarcely any human enterprise would be more spectacular, and it is spectacles for which modern communities seem most willing to pay.

If all the women dressed in silk
And all the women's hands were white,
What would we do for bread and milk,
And who would keep the windows bright?

If all the men were golfers gay
And earned their living with their brains,
Who'd drive the useful truck or dray,
And who would build or clean out drains?

I never hear a cynic jeer
Or see a lip in scorning curled,
But I am moved to give a cheer
For all the workers of the world.

If all grew cultured over night
And all the heavy tools should drop,
Then sad, indeed, would be our plight
For every spring wheel would stop.

Culture is but a curtain fair
Which withs a scene of splendor masks
Stout hearted toilers everywhere,
Performing life's unpleasant tasks.

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

THE greatest aid to virtue is punishment.

Whether the punishment is provided by natural law, by statute or by public opinion, it serves as an ever-present threat to discourage violation of the rules.

That being true, the only point yet to determine is the kind of punishment that will prove most effective.

All experience has shown that severity of punishment does not discourage crime.

When the law of England defined several thousand "hanging crimes," the only result was that many thousands were hanged.

The most effective punishment—assuming that the governing power is intelligent enough to administer it promptly and unfailingly—is a punishment that fits the criminal.

The purpose of law is not to get vengeance but to prevent wrong.

And as the fear of a cross word is sufficient to keep one child obedient, while a switch is necessary to control another, so the fear of arrest will keep one adult in paths of virtue and the threat of death will not cow or civilize his neighbor.

To be perfectly just the law would have to be flexible enough to adjust itself to each offender's intellectual and moral capacity, and that is an impossible ideal to be approached only by the exercise of judicial discretion.

But there is a form of punishment more effective than any provided by law; and it adjusts itself to the offender.

The punishment man most dreads, and therefore the punishment most effective as a deterrent, is the contempt of his own kind.

The gangster is not deterred by the fear of jail or hanging, for these are merely the threats of an enemy.

The law he respects is the law of his own class, and when he suppresses his impulse to desert a comrade or avoid danger or "squeal" on an assassin, it is because he fears the contempt of fellow gangsters.

The so-called "respectable" class produces more and more criminals because public opinion no longer ostracizes those who violate the law.

The embezzler, the briber, the cheat and the thief can win their case in court or serve their time in the penitentiary and resume their place in the ranks of "good society" if they still have money.

The public has learned to be tolerant—to forgive the erring brother—which means that it has surrendered to mushy sentimentality and thus has become an accessory to all lawlessness.

Forgiveness is nonsense unless it is conditioned on repentance. And until society again becomes decent and sane enough to scorn the wrong-doer, lawlessness will continue to multiply.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS.

FACES VIA THE TELEPHONE.

It is now possible, due to experiments of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. and Bell Laboratories, for people to enter telephone booths at two different points and see each other as they chat. The big confusion is going to come when you ask for somebody on the telephone and central gives you the wrong face.

"Is this you, Marcellus?" the little woman will ask after she has put through a call to the hotel where her husband is stopping on a business trip.

"Yes, dear."

"But it doesn't look like you, dear."

"Doesn't it?"

"No. What are you doing with that funny mustache and those big ears?"

"I dont understand you, honey. This is Marcellus speaking and I have no mustache and no funny ears."

"Woman, I have no mustache, no unusual ears, no tortoise-shell glasses," the husband will complain, angrily.

"Honestly?" the wife will ask.

"Positively," he will reply.

"Goodness! Then I must be on a busy wire," will be her only deduction, as she looks at the curious face on the dial.

And, disturbing as this may be, can you imagine the reaction of a subscriber who asks central for a connection and gets the reply in an unpleasant soprano, "The face you asked for has been discontinued!"

Trifling with the faces of its customers is something the telephone company should proceed with slowly. Who wants to see the face of the person he or she is talking to unless it's all a matter of defective work? Will it be any treat to put in a call for an ambulance and see the unshaven face of McGinty, the reckless driver?

The only big advantage in such an arrangement will be to the suspicious woman who puts in an out-of-town call for her husband just to see if his eyes are bloodshot.

That it will slow up the phone service is obvious. What woman is going to answer a call now until she has fixed her hair, rouged her lips and powdered her nose?

It Can Even Cackle.

Henry Ford and his boy, Edsel, made $81,797,861 last year in the "puddle-jumping" industry. This should be a complete answer to skeptics who have contended that a Ford car couldn't lay an egg.

As Ima Dodo says, $81,000,000 a year should certainly enable Henry to keep the wolf from the spinning-wheel.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Is America to Come Under Petticoat Despotism? "Mere Man" Fears the Worst.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The statement of one of your correspondents that Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick is likely to be the first woman President of the United States is very interesting.

If his knowledge of the sentimental moods and political reactions of the masses is as reliable as his confident tone would indicate, his prophecy may be realized. But I hope not.

It is my belief that the male voters of the country, whose wholesome conservatism can generally be relied on in an emergency, combined with what I will call the domestic woman vote, will always stand firm against the danger of a despotism of women.

There are, of course, many who will consider the suggestion of such a danger laughable, but if ever a succession of women Presidents are elected, backed up by a feminized Congress, session after session, its reality is sure to arise.

One of the reasons formerly advanced in favor of votes for women was that their household efficiency would be introduced in the public service with beneficial results. Women lose patience in the face of abstract principles, and when they spoke of the introduction of household methods in the management of public affairs what they had in mind was to make men good and law-abiding and politically immaculate by direct action.

As a means toward this end, your women's government, if it ever arrives, will necessarily resort to bureaucracy. As bureaucracy increases in scope and power, personal liberty and local self-government will disappear in the well mopped and conscientiously dusted dead level of a standardized United States. Then the question will naturally present itself, "Why—in the name of household efficiency—why change the national housewife every four years?

My prophecy is that if we ever get into the habit of electing women Presidents, the time will come when the first monarch of the United States will be a queen.

MERE MAN.

Give Pedestrians a Chance, Mr. Traffic Officer!

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Please pass this along to the powers that be who enforce the traffic regulations: What I would like to know, as one who is by force of circumstances a pedestrian, is why do not the pedestrians have a chance to cross the streets at intersections? The traffic officers, for instance at Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, never heave an eye at the pedestrians waiting to cross that wide thoroughfare, but blow their whistles regardless of where the said pedestrians may be. Especially (and I know numerous persons would bear me out in this statement) when persons are crossing the street from north to south and vice versa does this take place. They may be halfway across; then comes the shrill one blast on the whistle, followed closely by the two blasts, and where are you—caught in the traffic in the middle of the street in traffic that is coming right at you, regardless of how rapidly or slowly you are crossing that street.

Why could there not be some arrangement whereby, at such intersections as this, the pedestrian would get his chance to hustle across between the movements of the traffic east and west, and north and south? It seems to me, though I am only a woman, that this could be effected by having all traffic stop in both directions and give all pedestrians a chance to cross in both directions; that is, across the Avenue and across Fourteenth street. The lights at the circles have the advantage over the policeman; they have got to give pedestrians a chance, whether or not they want to.

Further, I would like to stop the nefarious practice of having automobiles come around to the right on the red light, without any warning whatsoever, and thus endanger the lives of people trying to cross the street.

As an employe of the District government, I should like to see my suggestion tried out on this very corner of which I speak, i. e., Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

European Editors Can Learn Much by Their Visit to This Country.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I notice by the papers that 14 European editors will arrive in New York May 18, the purpose of their visit being "to observe American social, economic and political conditions and by way of personal knowledge gather such material as will hereafter make their writings on American subjects better informed and of greater significance." This is the third group to visit the United States under the auspices of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace.

What they learn on their tour of this country will undoubtedly do an immense amount of good, and I think it would be a good plan if every one of our American editors took a trip to Europe for the benefit of those who have to read their editorials.

The most important thing for the European editors to learn is that George Washington is still very much alive, especially when it comes to the mingling of our politics with theirs. Another thing which I hope the editors will learn is that there is no highbrow nonsense in the peace talk of the common people of the United States. There is no string attached to their offer of world peace. They have no old grudges to settle and so they are not much troubled about how far they can trust the other fellow when it comes to swapping parity and limitations and guarantees.

The people of the United States are in favor of world naval reduction almost to a man, but their idea is that to reduce is to reduce. If the visiting editors learn enough to teach their subscribers something like this when they get back home, it will do a power of good, and it may be that, as a result of their visit, the next step in the direction of international peace will not be as wobbly as that of the London naval conference.

FILM FIRMS FIGHT ANTITRUST RULING

PRACTICES ARE UPHELD

(Associated Press.)

Ten of the leading motion picture producing companies in the United States, including Paramount-Famous Players-Lasky Corporation, the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Distributing Corporation and the First National Pictures, joined in appealing yesterday to the Supreme Court from the decision of Judge Thacher, rendered in January, in the Federal District Court at New York City, holding them guilty of conspiracy to violate the Sherman antitrust law.

The Government brought the suit charging they had adopted an illegal uniform contract for leasing motion picture films to theaters throughout the country.

The District Court held them guilty of conspiracy in restraint of interstate commerce, basing its decision on the standard exhibition contract and the rules of arbitration adopted by the producing firms in May, 1928. It declared that the ten corporations engaged in the distribution of motion picture films, and the 32 film boards of trade maintained by the district distributors, furnished approximately 60 per cent of the motion picture films shown annually, and that it was impossible for any motion picture theater to secure sufficient motion picture films for regular operation without dealing with some member of the film boards of trade.

Under the decision not only were the ten producing and distributing firms restrained from enforcing the standard exhibition contract and enforcing the rules of arbitration, but they also were required to continue to furnish films to exhibiters without requiring them to subscribe to the contract and rules.

The corporations denied that the agreement to use the standard exhibition contract and the rules of arbitration amounted to coercion or a conspiracy in restraint of interstate commerce. Among other grounds urged for taking the appeal they declared that the contract and the rules had been adopted in resolutions by the trade practice conference held under the auspices of the Federal Trade Commission and were approved by that commission.

They insisted that the contracts, by-laws and regulations were adopted pursuant to the demands of the representatives of the exhibitors, and were reasonable and lawful. The contract and rules for arbitration were normal and unusual methods of furthering trade and were lawful, they said.

The Supreme Court will be unable to pass on the appeal until its next session beginning in October.

Blair Held Entry In Senate Contest

Will Seek G. O. P. Nomination at Convention Today, Is Belief.

Charlotte, N. C., April 16 (A.P.).—The Charlotte News today says it has learned from authoritative sources that David H. Blair, of Winston-Salem, former Commissioner of Internal Revenue, will seek the Republican nomination as senator from North Carolina. The Republican State convention will be held here tomorrow.

Blair has been mentioned as a nominee but has refused consistently to say whether he would seek the nomination or accept it if tendered to him by the convention. Representative George Pritchard, of Asheville; George Butler, of Clinton, and the Rev. H. Grady Dorsett, of Wake Forest, are seeking the nomination and may force a primary despite whatever action, if any, the convention takes.

In the past it has been customary for the convention to select a nominee and for all candidates to abide by its decision. Under the law, however, any other candidate can force a primary if he desires by filing as a candidate with the State board of elections.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

THE assiduity—the what?—the assiduity with which some writers are working to get Mr. Labor Davis out of his Cabinet post is an interesting study of the twists of the pen and the arguments set forth, a delightful look-in at the workings of the mind.

It is contended (1) that Mr. Davis is just an emergency holdover in his Cabinet place; (2) that his campaigning for the Pennsylvania senatorship is an embarrassment to Mr. Hoover because at the Cabinet meetings he sits across the table from Mr. Mellon who is on the other side of the fence in the Pennsylvania fight; (3) that if Mr. Davis were not so insensible to proprieties he would not be taking advantage of Mr. Hoover's timidity about asking him to resign.

Admittedly, this is a rather large order against Mr. Davis, one, indeed, that were he less resourceful, would cause him much worry and chagrin.

• • • •

IT is argued that Mr. Davis has no parallel in remaining where he is in the fact that Mr. Hoover did not resign as Secretary of Commerce when he announced for the Presidency. Because, it is argued, Mr. Hoover made not a single speech nor did any other active campaigning.

This is true. But that it is not to say that no campaigning was done. His Assistant Secretary at the time, Mr. Walter Brown, had only recently been brought from his native heath as a very practical political man and to do very practical political things.

It was not necessary for Mr. Hoover to take the stump, hardly necessary, in fact, for him to take it even during the heat of the campaign. The point is that everything that was necessary at the time was done and done very thoroughly.

With the Washington correspondents pouring out their heart for a fellow resident in the manner they did, why, a speech by Mr. Hoover at the time would have been superfluous.

• • • •

ADMITTEDLY, however, the fact that two members of Mr. Hoover's Cabinet are on opposite sides of the fence presents a most unusual situation. After all is said and done it would not seem to affect the destiny of nations and peoples, but it is unusual nevertheless.

But if there be an insistence that such an unusual situation can not be permitted to exist, why should Mr. Davis necessarily be the one to resign? Why not Mr. Mellon, for example, or to make everything more fair and square, why should not all three, Mr. Mellon, Mr. Davis and Senator Grundy resign? Then they could all start from taw.

Now the plain fact of the matter probably is that there is not the least bit of embarrassment when Mr. Mellon and Mr. Davis meet across the Cabinet table. There might be were other than Mr. Mellon concerned. Mr. Mellon is not easily embarrassed. His sense of humor is so highly developed as to give him many a chuckle about matters and men.

IT can not be believed that Mr. Hoover is disturbed. The truth is very probable that it tickles him to death every time Mr. Davis scores one on Mr. Grundy.

There is a certain timidity about him, an asset in personal contacts, because all of us are shy to an extent, but not so good, of course, in his dealings with the Senate. But it would be amazing to learn that this is what restrains him from asking Mr. Davis to go.

Mr. Davis was a holdover, it is true, because the labor organizations could not agree on his successor. But they are not any more in agreement now than they were then. And after all, what is wrong with Mr. Davis as a Secretary of Labor? He can talk about prosperity and produce employment statistics with as much facility as any one we have ever had.

ward L. Good, 10 years old, had been pierced with a rusty pen on the hand March 10 when he was inattentive. Mrs. Johnson defended her action on the ground that she was distracted at the time.

The board set the annual spring meeting with representatives of the various citizens' associations for 8:15 o'clock next Monday night at the Franklin Administration Building. Although the proposal to have matrons placed in all elementary schools may be discussed, Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent, declared that the cost of such procedure and disapproval of the House District committee would doubtless prevent any favorable action at this time.

It would cost $165,000 to place matrons in the 138 elementary schools, he said, or an average of $1,200.

The formal report of the school committee on character education, which has been at work for several months, will be submitted to the board at its next meeting, Dr. Ballou announced.

Announcement was also made that the Association for Prevention of Tuberculosis has withdrawn its funds for providing midmorning luncheons to open air classes in the District schools. This work is now being carried on by other school and civic organizations, however, so it will not be discontinued.

Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle was designated to attend the dedication of the Ben W. Murch School on May 2, while Dr. Abram Simon was selected to be present at the Paul Junior High School ceremony on May 5.

The board adopted the recommendation of Dr. H. Barrett Learned as chairman of the committee on buildings, grounds and equipment, to protect the roofs on 50 of the 70 portables now in use at a cost of $3,750.

WHITE COLLAR MEN HOURS ARE STUDIED

World Labor Bureau Seeks Data on Conditions of Salaried Employes.

UNIFORMITY IS URGED

Geneva April 16 (A.P.).—Giving ear to the troubles of white collar workers, the international labor conference which opens here June 10, will discuss the question of hours of work for salaried employes.

Twenty-nine countries have reported to the international labor office their attitude toward regulation of salaried workers' hours by international treaty. Eighteen countries are definitely in favor of such international regulation. They include Cuba, France, Germany, Italy, Portugal, Spain and Uruguay.

Reports from six countries indicate a preference for a recommendation by the conference. Rather than adoption of a draft convention for submission to governments.

Great Britain, Japan, South Africa and Sweden do not consider the time ripe for setting up international regulations on this question. The government of Siam replied that the question has no practical interest for that country, which is essentially agricultural and has few white-collar workers.

Having regard to replies of governments, the labor office has prepared for debate by the conference the draft of a convention concerning commercial establishments and offices, and two draft recommendations, the one referring to hotels, restaurants and like places, the other to theaters and places of public amusement.

The draft convention proposes to limit working hours in commercial establishments and offices, and limit working hours in commercial establishments and offices, and limit working hours in commercial establishments and offices, and

Famous Diamond Shown During Event in Capital.

By JEAN ELIOT.

"NOW it can be told" that the Nassak diamond, one of the most famous jewels of antiquity, was on exhibition yesterday at a tea in the Chinese room at the Mayflower, for which Mrs. Ormond Lawson-Johnston was hostess. Until it was safely over, the event was kept a deep and mysterious secret from all save the small but distinguished group from official, diplomatic and resident society invited to attend, because the fabulous value of the gem made advance heralding of the display distinctly dangerous.

About the great stone, which is the property of M. Georges Mauboussin, well-known Parisian gem collector, centers a famous legal battle, which has now entered upon the last skirmish. The Nassak was brought to America by M. Mauboussin in 1927 and was admitted free of duty as "a work of art of educational value." Uncle Sam still claims it is, but the American Jewelers Association claims otherwise. The Government has twice successfully defended its claim and on Tuesday the case went before the United States Court of Customs and Patent Appeals for final decision.

Like all magnificent jewels, the Nassak diamond has had a thrilling and tempestuous history. It first came to the knowledge of the Western world hundreds of years ago as the cyclopean eye of Siva in the temple of Nassak, India. A British officer, Col. Jonathan Briggs, brought it to England, the spoils of war, in 1818. In 1837 the Marquis of Westminster bought the Nassak for his private collection and first wore it in the hilt of his sword at a reception to celebrate Queen Victoria's birthday. From that time on it was the property of the Westminster family until it passed into M. Mauboussin's hands.

This wonder of India, of 80 karats, surpasses in limpidity and color, any of "the historic diamonds of antiquity." Of that famous and legendry group, so well known to the connoisseurs of the rare and the precious, the Grand Mogul, the Power of Light and the Orloff of Russia have vanished. The Koh-i-noor holds its honored place as the first of the crown jewels of England and may be seen by all who visit the great museum in Windsor Castle. The Regent rests in the Louvre. The Nassak alone remains in private hands.

With the Nassak as a lure, a goodly company assembled yesterday to view the historic gem, to exchange greetings and to take their tea from the pretty hands of Mrs. Lawson-Johnston, formerly Mrs. Lyman Kendall.

What is Elizabeth Arden's VIENNA YOUTH MASK?

THERE is no secret about it, for the truth itself is so impressive there is no need of mystery.

The Vienna Youth Mask causes electric stimulation of the circulation, producing health as Nature herself does, through a constantly renewed blood supply.

The amazing value of this treatment lies in the depth to which it penetrates, causing the blood to flow in a rich purifying stream to underlying tissues and muscles . . . charging them with new youth and vigor. It stirs the circulation as no external friction or massage can possibly do.

Concentrated on the face and neck, as the treatment is given in Miss Arden's Salons, it is as though electric energy were poured into your very veins. Fresh red blood flushes the surfaces, carrying away impurities. The skin is cleared and brightened. Best of all, there comes an exuberant, glad-to-be-alive feeling, a freedom from fatigue that is the true measure of health.

Now, due to a recent improvement, the Vienna Mask is more remarkable than ever. Its new "differential" form has a flexibility which makes it possible to focus treatment on one's weakest spots . . . the lines at the side of the mouth, puckery places under the eyes, sagging contours. It is as though the finger of youth touched, and revived, every spot threatened by age.

But you must see for yourself. Visit Miss Arden's Salon and talk to the Trained Diathermic Nurse whose whole time is devoted to work with the Mask. She will tell you in detail exactly what it has done for others . . . and what it can do for you.

For an appointment please telephone Decatur 2040.

ELKINS WILL FILING TO BE IN NEW YORK

Jury Finds Son of Senator Lived There in Place of Washington.

ROUND WON BY FINANCEE

New York, April 16 (A.P.).—A surrogate's jury today decided that the will of Stephen B. Elkins, son of the late Senator Stephen B. Elkins, of West Virginia, must be probated in New York. Elkins died last October here in his Park avenue apartment.

The jury's decision was given in a suit brought by Miss Evelin I. Martin, Elkins' fiancee, to prevent the probate of the will in Washington, D. C. Miss Martin charged that Elkins' relatives wanted the will probated there in order to deprive her of the legacy left her in the testament.

Elkins provided that his fiancee should receive a $1,000 monthly income for life from his estate.

Relatives contended that Elkins' legal residence was in Washington. They had filed his will for probate there. The jury fixed his legal residence as 381 Park avenue, New York.

Woman Sues Haynes To Recover $73,186

Mrs. Louise T. Chambers, of the Wardman Park Hotel, yesterday sued Harry V. Haynes, former president of the Farmers and Merchants Bank, to recover $73,186.84 of her funds which she alleges that the former banker misappropriated. A similar suit was filed about a year ago.

Mrs. Chambers in her new suit charges that several of the alleged transactions transpired in November, 1929, which was several months subsequent to an indictment of Mr. Haynes on a charge of misappropriating funds and misapplying credits of the bank. Attorneys R. E. Walker and Carey E. Quinn appear for the plaintiff.

BEHIND THE SCREENS

With NELSON B. BELL

HAVING just finished reading a lengthy brochure indited by William Fox in reply to Halsey, Stuart & Co., and Winfield R. Sheehan, in which the founder of the Fox enterprises sets forth the manner in which certain properties were all but filched right out from under his very nose, according to allegation, it is pleasant to learn that some of the boys are having a little better picking.

For the second time within one week H. M. Warner, president of Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc., announces business arrangements of impressive importance for Warner Bros. and their affiliations.

Mr. Warner has just made known the final signing of papers by which his firm acquires a substantial interest in the Kuchenmeister group (Sprekfilm of Amsterdam, Tobis of Berlin, Associated Sound Film Industries, Ltd., of London, and Compagnie Francaise Tobis of Paris).

The purchase price of the valuable patent rights and licenses acquired under this arrangement has not been disclosed, but the statement that has been made in trade and other newspapers are known to be exaggerated. It is stated by Warner Bros., however, that a substantial down payment has been made and that the balance is to be paid serially over a period of years.

This purchase gives Warner Bros. a direct interest in the patents, and licenses under the patents for all purposes in connection with their business throughout the world, except in the United States, Canada and Newfoundland.

Perhaps I have enjoyed this item rather more than usual because I have had so much fun trying to pronounce the names in it!

According to latest advices from the fighting front occupied almost single-handed by Andy Sharick, managing director of the Rialto, John Boles will arrive in Washington late today, preparatory to his two days of personal appearances at the Ninth street house, in conjunction with first resentations of "The Captain of the Guard," reopening the theater, in which he is costarred with Laura La Plante.

As I understand it, Mr. Boles will devote tomorrow to resting and possibly stealing a little time out to catch a peek at the springtime beauties of the National Capital before undertaking his four-a-day on the boards.

A breathless courier from the opposite direction informs me pantingly that on the front of the RKO-Keith Theater is a sign: "Welcome D. A. R. Now 'Ladies of Leisure!'"

That Loew conference in New York, to which all of the field marshals were called about a week ago, may develop some points of benefit to the cash customer, at that.

It comes to my knowledge that the Loew slogan, "these last four or five days, has become "Please the patron in every possible manner."

Furthermore, the company engineers and experts in aerodynamics—if that is what they are—have doped out more methods for perfecting cooling and ventilation than you can shake a sneeze at. And the sound boys! You'd be surprised at all they have accomplished, one device to insure unimpaired reproduction being a contraption controlled exclusively by Loew and developed in their own laboratories.

The only objectionable feature I can discover in connection with this New York confab is that all of the head men made speeches!

Here is next week's list to paste inside your hat: Rialto, beginning Saturday, Laura La Plante and John Boles, in "Captain of the Guard," with Mr. Boles in person Saturday and Sunday; Metropolitan, Al Jolson, in "Mammy," beginning tomorrow; Columbia, Harry Richman, in "Puttin' on the Ritz;" RKO-Keith's Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon, in "Alias French Gertie;" Palace, Joan Crawford, in "Montana Moon;" Earle, Alice White, in "Showgirl in Hollywood," beginning tomorrow; Fox, J Harold Murray and Norma Terris, in "Cameo Kirby," through Tuesday, April 22, only—three days of grand opera to follow.

You may not have noticed it, but in "Lummox," at the Palace, when a symphony orchestra accompanies Bertha Oberg's son in his piano recital, the orchestra is conducted by Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld, who has contributed probably as much as any man living to the development and improvement of the music associated with the motion picture.

They tell me that "Hot Dog," the comedy feature of the bill to be inaugurated at the Columbia in conjunction with "Puttin' on the Ritz," the major attraction, Saturday, is one of the greatest short-reel subjects ever made. The cast is comprised entirely of perfectly cast canines, imbued with human voices by an inspired perfection of synchronization.

I am led to believe that the story relates to a trial by chewery!

Don't be silly. That was the last line!

Rockefeller Firm Sued for Millions

Coal Company Is Defendant in Action by Railway Company.

Philadelphia, April 16 (A.P.).—A suit for $10,000,000 for alleged breach of contract was filed in common pleas court here today by the Western Maryland Railway Co., against the Consolidation Coal Co. The majority of the coal company stock is owned by John D. Rockefeller, jr., and interests controlled by him, it is said.

The contract filed with the suit contains, it is said, a guaranty by the Consolidated Coal Co. that if the railway company would spend about $10,000,000 in building certain lines to reach, and equipping itself to serve the mines of the coal company, the latter would ship 3,250,000 tons of coal a year over the Western Maryland Railway during a 50-year period. The railway company spent the money, but it is alleged the coal company failed to ship the coal.

A suit in connection with the contract was filed in Baltimore April 3, this year, by the coal company against the railway company.

WHO would dare to put a refrigerator mechanism to such a test—to submerge it in water—and expect it to run?

Who would dare? Those same engineers who built a refrigerator mechanism so efficient, so utterly dependable that they could seal it up hermetically with a permanent oil supply—and know that it would run faithfully through the years without a thought or worry.

They submerged it in water—and it still ran on. Think of the significance of such a test to you! Dust, dirt, moisture, rust—that lead to breakdowns and repair bills—are powerless to halt the flawless operation of General Electric mechanism. For, in that small, round casing you see on top of every General Electric Refrigerator—the entire mechanism is barricaded with impregnable walls of steel hermetically sealed! Dust, dirt, moisture and rust can never get inside.

Here is a refrigerator that gives you all the recognized advantages of electric refrigeration—and a great deal more besides. A mechanism so efficient that your electric current bills are cut to but a few cents a day. An incredible quietness of operation the day you buy—and always. A freezing regulator that is accessible right at your finger-tips. A snow white porcelain-lined cabinet that will wear like steel—because it is all-steel. And the entire mechanism is permanently oiled, and hermetically sealed against trouble.

Come in and let us tell you about our surprisingly easy terms.

OHIO WATERS FLOOD POINT PLACE HOMES

BREAKWATER IN DANGER

Toledo, Ohio, April 16 (A.P.).—Hope for relief from the worst flood in the history of Point Place, which forced 30 families in this residential district, adjacent to Toledo, to flee their homes early today, was expressed tonight, as the water receded a little more than 6 inches after being 4 feet above normal. This is said to be the highest in the history of Point Place.

The flood, which caused thousands of dollars' worth of property damage along Maumee Bay and Lake Erie, was especially disastrous this yer because the waters of Lake Erie have been unusually high since last fall. Hundreds of summer cottages along Lake Erie were flooded, as well as the scores of permanent homes that dot Maumee Bay, especially in the Point Place district.

If northeast winds continue to blow with unusual intensity there is said to be grave danger that the breakwater, which has rendered some protection to the district, will give way and the damage and suffering will be doubled by morning.

Most of the damage so far has been to cellars and roads in the district, which extends along the bay and lake. Willow Beach, a summer resort, was entirely under water, as was Carland Beach, where twelve families were forced to abandon their homes because of water creeping into the living rooms. Rowboats were utilized to rescue on family, including a mother and six children.

The primary cause of the flood was the strong northeast winds which pushed the waters of Lake Erie and Maumee Bay over the shores. The water level tonight was more than 3 feet above normal level and extended a quarter-mile back from the lake.

Flier Is Reported Picked Up by Boat

50 Planes Search for Pilot Student, Missing Since Sunday.

Valley Stream, N. Y., April 16 (A.P.).—Officials of Curtis-Wright Airport tonight were investigating a report that Ralph White, 32, missing student flyer for whom 50 planes have been searching since Sunday afternoon, had been picked up by a fishing boat in the Atlantic Ocean, off Long Island coast.

Frank Ambrose, manager of the airport, received this information from Norman Winston, of New York. Mr. Winston failed to make known the source of his information.

The Curtiss-Wright officials were handicapped in the investigation because boats in the fishing fleet are not equipped with wireless.

Mr. White disappeared during a solo flight over Long Island with gasoline enough to last him only four hours. He is believed to have become lost in the heavy fog that descended suddenly over the island and to have fallen into the Atlantic or wooded land sections.

Pilot Killed in Plane Crash.

Port Washington, N. Y., April 16 (A.P.).—Peter Talbot, 40, of Pensacola, Fla., was killed today when the seaplane he was demonstrating dived into Manhasset Bay. The body was not recovered.

BROTHERS INDICTED IN FATAL BOMB CASE

Judges Joseph P. Mattingly and William M. Loker while the courtroom was nearly deserted. The bench warrant for Herman was then issued and given to Officer Nichols for service.

Three months have passed since the explosion, which nearly wiped out the Hall family as it gathered in expectation of a treat, around the kitchen table in the humble Seat Pleasant home. The mother, Mrs. Nora Hall, and two other children were maimed for life by the explosion.

Early New Year's Day, Leslie Hall, 14 years old, and Stuart Carneal, his playmate, were given the package by a neighbor, upon whose porch it had been left three days before, apparently by mistake. They ran to the Hall home about a block away to deliver the package and to share in the candies they believed it contained. A few minutes later, as Mrs. Brady undid the wrapping, the bomb exploded.

Naomi Hall Brady and her unborn baby were dead within an hour, and her little sister and brother died within two days.

The case taaracted country-wide attention and Gov. Albert C. Ritchie offered the services of Lieut. Joseph Itzel and Sergt. Charles Shalter, Baltimore detective aces, to assist in unraveling the crime. County Policeman Frank Prince bore the brunt of the work on the county force.

States Attorney J. Frank Parran has been assisted by former State's Attorney J. Wilson Ryon in the prosecution of the case. Leroy Brady was arrested about a week after the bombing and has been in the county jail since that time. He was held for action of the grand jury at a preliminary hearing, at which Herman Brady refused to testify unless granted immunity from future prosecution.

While Maryland law admits a person charged with murder bail, it is not customary to grant bail in such cases, and the two brothers probably will remain in the county jail until the trial, which is expected to take place about May 1.

1,500 Children to View Arbor Day Ceremonies

Fifteen hundred children will assemble on the Virginia Avenue playgrounds today at 3:30 o'clock to take part in the tree planting ceremony that has become an Arbor Day feature. The Marine Band will play during the ceremony.

The tree is being planted under the auspices of the Women's City Club, and R. V. Everhardt will give a short talk on "Aabor Day." Mrs. M. O. Chance will represent the Club in the services and will dedicate the tree.

White Cake that's really white

A white cake that is a white cake is only possible when one uses a shortening like Crisco, pure, tasting like unsalted butter fresh from the churn . . . and white! Crisco blends quickly and thoroughly with the other ingredients and makes a cake of an even and fine-grained texture.

Featherweight White Cake

¾ cup Crisco	½ teaspoon salt
1 cup sugar	2 teaspoons baking powder
⅔ cup milk	3 egg whites
2 cups flour	1 teaspoon vanilla

Cream Crisco. Add sugar gradually. Stir in alternately milk and sifted dry ingredients. Fold in thoroughly stiffly beaten egg whites. Add vanilla. Turn batter into 2 greased layer cake pans. Bake in a moderate oven (350° F.). Ice with any desired icing.

GEN. WILLIAMS DEPARTS

Managua, Nicaragua, April 16 (A.P.).—Both American and Nicaraguan officials today denied with emphasis a report published yesterday in the newspaper El Sol at Tegucigalpa, Honduras, to the effect that a revolutionary movement was in progress in this country. They said there was no foundation for the report.

The rumors had it that Gen. Pedro Altamirano had taken control of the departments of Jinotega and Segovias and was threatening Matagalpa. But both American Marines and National Guard commanders asserted their reports from the numerous outposts scattered in that northern sector of Nicaragua said that everything was quiet today. There are thirteen Marine posts and about two dozen guard posts in that region and there is continuous radio and plane communication with the capital.

Another phase of the Honduran rumor said that rebels had crossed the Costa Rican frontier and attacked villages in Southern Nicaragua. This was also declared unfounded.

The situation of the country is such that President Moncada and virtually every other high Government official are on the usual holy week holidays at the seashore. They are sojourning at various bathing resorts along the Pacific.

Gen. Dion Williams, commander of the U. S. Marines here for more than a year, departed from Managua this morning for the United States. Accompanied by Mrs. Williams he will sail on the steamer Salamanca from Corinto tomorrow. Col. Robert Y. Rhea, commander of the second Marine brigade, succeeds Gen. Williams as head of the 1,000 American soldiers who are still in the country.

Missing Girl, 13, Sought by Police

Mary E. Tomlinson Wrote Mother She Was Going on Long Journey.

Mary E. Tomlinson, 13 years old, of K street near Twenty-fifth street northwest, went to a downtown hotel Tuesday morning, wrote a letter to her mother that she was going on a long journey, and disappeared.

When her mother received the letter police were asked to help in the search for the young traveler, who is said to be about 4 feet high, with brown eyes, light brown hair and weighing 110 pounds. Her mother told police that she could easily pass as an 18-year-old girl.

When she left home she was said to have taken a suitcase containing two spring dresses and an extra pair of shoes. She was last seen wearing a light gray top coat, with tan hose and brown slippers.

Two local broadcasting stations sent out descriptions of the girl last night, with the request that if any one saw a girl answering that description, they should get in touch with the Washington police.

Capital Couple Plans Wedding in New York

Miss Helen M. Lowell, 26 years old, a native of Washington, and Ernest D. Guggenheim, 25 years old, a draftsman, of 257 West Seventieth street, New York City, yesterday obtained a license there for a wedding they said would be performed Saturday by the New York City clerk.

Miss Lowell, now residing there, identified herself as the daughter of John F. and Mary Dunn Lowell, of Washington. They were not listed in Washington directories.

COURT ENJOINS FIRM FROM STOCK SALES

he organized, and then sold them for $1 to $10 a share.

Mr. Garvey said in his motion that when Col. White resigned as Treasurer of the United States in 1928 he was approached by Mr. Byington, who asked him to head the company, which Mr. Byington was then organizing.

After the company was incorporated, Mr. Garvey went on, Mr. Byington compiled a dummy list of directors, and contracted through these directors, to purchase stock from the concern. He then obtained various prominent men as directors of the company using Col. White's name, but failed to tell them of his contract, it was alleged.

Between March 26, 1929, and March 1, 1930, Mr. Garvey said, the public paid or agreed to pay $650,000 for stock, and of this amount $171,000 went to the corporation and the balance to Mr. Byington. Sales talks were given over the radio, Mr. Garvey said.

He declared the net worth of the corporation, according to its own accountants, was $174,000 on March 1 last. He added that it did business at a loss during the period it operated.

In granting the injunction, Justice McCrate made it returnable April 23, at which time Mr Garvey will ask for a receiver.

Col. White, the Deputy Attorney General said, received a salary of $15,000 a year as president, but had little hand in the company's affairs beyond presiding at meetings.

CHAPTER XXVI.

Songs and Song Writing.

I do not want to destroy any illusions that my songs may have built up about me, but I am really not, at least in the accepted sense of the word, a "veteran" song writer, although I have more than the required number of songs to my credit to entitle me to make application for membership in the American Society of Authors, Composers and Publishers.

Along Tin Pan alley the real song writer, in the accepted sense of the word, is he who has not only one or more hits to his credit, but whose mind is continually filled with lyrics and melodies and who can write a song almost at command. Of course, it is greater proof of this gift to have five or six or even more successful hits to one's credit; but the man whose mind is prolific enough to produce one song after another that will be at least moderately successful, if not a terrific hit, is the veteran song writer.

Among the Most Successful.

Of course, the greatest in the game are the men whose names stand out almost like names in history, such as Irving Berlin, with all his successful waltzes and early fox trots; Walter Donaldson, the Von Tilzers, Victor Herbert, creator of a higher type of semiclassical, popular music; Seymour Brown, Jerome Kern and many others whom I may have forgotten to mention.

Of recent years there has grown up a group of young men who have twisted the music scale into odd combinations to the satisfaction of their purses and vanity. Benny Davis has the most hits to his credit. Gus Kahn is considered the greatest lyric writer of them all—at least he is the highest paid individual and his name has appeared on so many songs that it is almost impossible to keep count of them. George Gershwin has also written some very clever popular tunes besides his rhapsody, although his popular show tunes have never achieved sensational success. Mabel Wayne, perhaps the only really successful woman writer, has several hits to her credit; while Mary Earl who wrote "Beautiful Ohio" several years ago, seems to have rested on her oars ever since. Marion Gillespie is another not heard from in years.

"Dardanella" on Shelf for Two Years.

The clever team of Jimmy McHugh, once a plumber, and Dorothy Fields, daughter of the great comedian, evolved some very fine music for several Broadway productions of the season of 1928-29, including the year's hit, "I Can't Give You Anything But Love, Baby."

After having written "Dardanella" and left it on the shelf for two years, Fred Fisher was finally persuaded to allow a famous rewrite musician to make a beautiful arrangement of it, thus turning it into a really salable piece, and its success was instantaneous and historic. But that was his first and last hit.

Nearly every one in the East knows of the fantastic record of three young boys, one of whom for years had displayed his talents in university productions, while another had been a night club wiseacre and the third who had always been a song writer. These three boys, after collaborating on a few tunes for other publishers, finally incorporated and their success is the talk of Tin Pan alley. Within the period of a year Bud De Sylva, Lou Brown and Ray Henderson not only wrote enough tunes to pay for the building they now own but declared a handsome dividend for themselves at the end of their first year. Theirs is the outstanding success of the song world, but, of course, they are perhaps the most gifted trio of song writers in existence, having to their credit the music of "Good News," "Three Cheers," "Hold Everything," "Following Through," "Sonny Boy," "Together" and many other tunes too numerous to mention.

Newcomers Also Successful.

Two newcomers, Roy Turk and Fred Albert, have written three or four successes and can feel very pleased with themselves. Who doesn't know their "I'll Get By," "Mean to Me" and "I've Got a Feelin' I'm Fallin'?" I could go on indefinitely.

On the Pacific Coast there are two young men, Herb Brown and Arthur Freed, whose "Broadway Melody" hits, "Doll Dance," "Pagan Love Song," "Singin' in the Rain" and many other tunes of an instrumental nature have earned them a princely fortune, enough so they can retire at any time.

Other famous West Coast and Middle West writers are Byron Gay, whose "The Vamp," "Sand Dunes" and "Horses" were very popular; Ishman Jones, whose work with Gus Kahn gave us such beautiful tunes as "I'll See You in My Dreams," "Spain," "The One I Love Belongs to Somebody Else," "It Had to Be You" and many others.

But I must end my list here even at the risk of injuring the feelings of those whom I have not mentioned. I feel the ones enumerated are the outstanding writers, and any one I may have failed to speak of will forgive me.

Of Great Help to Sound Pictures.

Most of these songsmiths are at the time of my writing either on the Pacific Coast or en route to it or from it, as the creation of sound pictures and the need for music to fit situations in these sound pictures has required the presence of these fertile musical minds. They must be on the spot where, as the picture is rehearsed, they can see more easily just how the song must fit the scene. At unheard-of guaranteed weekly salaries, with their royalties from each song sheet and record as an extra bonus, these men have rushed to the Coast with even greater anticipation and hope than did the miners in the gold rush of '49.

In fact, almost overnight the town of Hollywood became transformed into the Tin Pan alley of Broadway, and the hotels and merchants of the film center are very grateful to sound pictures for this influx.

Some of the writers have produced some beautiful, simple tunes that have tremendously enhanced the value of the pictures for which they were written and have given our younger generation something to sing, whistle and dance to.

Of course, I realize that those professionals and amateurs who have written one or two songs that have been fairly successful, or even hits, and then have ceased to write more will consider themselves just as much dyed-in-the-wool song writers as many of the others I have named. But I firmly believe that in the jargon of Tin Pan alley the real song writer is he or she who continues year after year with a steady output of songs that are at least fairly successful.

Rules Self Out, Partially.

The fact is, by one phrase of my own definition, I rule myself out of this coveted category. It is a disillusioning thing for me to say that my mind is not constantly overrun with melodies and lyrics. Rather is my mind usually occupied with problems of an everyday nature. Spontaneously, I can produce any number of simple melodies that would probably be fairly popular, but I can not claim for myself a talent like Bud De Sylva's, Walter Donaldson's or Jerome Kern's. I know that the beautiful melodies and lyrics for which these men are responsible were not the result of piecework and unusual effort on their part, but rather came naturally within their horizons of consciousness, and stayed there until these writers saw fit to put them down.

Just what I might be able to do in the way of original composition of songs I do not fully know, because I have never sat down quietly in a spot calculated to inspire me. In the classroom at college either I wrote original themes or none at all. I have never been satisfied with any of my efforts that were similar to the work of many others, and I always cast about for an original line of attack before I began a theme.

May Follow Herbert.

Some day I may do as Victor Herbert did, secure a soundproof room or an isolated place in the country with nothing to disturb me and see if I can create something very original in song. I have conceived an idea which will aid me greatly in deciding on the quality of what I will try to write, and with this idea I hope to compose something really very unusual.

The songs that so far bear my name were generally a collaboration between another and myself. One of the songs that I am most popularly identified with has quite a unique history, so I will speak of it separately and in detail.

I am most popularly associated with "Vagabond Lover," one of my early compositions, due to the fact that it became a countrywide hit, and was ideally suited to me in every way. Yet I feel that "Deep Night" was one of my best efforts, if not the best of all.

Following my graduation from college I played with the Yale Collegians in vaudeville for the summer, and fall found me in Boston leading a local orchestra there.

Our pianist was one of the greatest I have ever played with, a young Harvard boy who was in his senior year at college. He was a wonderful player and he knew that I esteemed his work very highly.

Leaves Boston for New York.

Then I left Boston and came to New York and after clubbing around I began at the Heigh-Ho Club with my present band. During Easter vacation in March, 1928, this boy, Charles Henderson, by name, came to New York for a short visit. He called on me at the Heigh-Ho Club and accepted my invitation to sit in and play a few numbers with us. I asked him to play several piano choruses featuring himself.

After playing several tunes of the day he began a composition that made us all sit up and look at one another. I asked him what it was. He replied that it was merely something he had thought of recently. I thought it was beautiful and featured it the rest of the evening, keeping him at the piano. After a few repetitions we picked the melody up and played it with him.

Henderson wrote out a few parts of the piece and went back to Boston. We called the tune "Slavia," for want of a better name since the nature of the piece suggested something Oriental, something Slavic, somber and mystic.

We continued playing it through spring and summer until fall, when we returned to the Heigh-Ho Club.

One night I felt the inspiration to write some words to fit the melody. As I considered the melody of the piece I realized there were several points with high notes that were fairly difficult for me to reach. The syllables containing double "e" on high notes made it easy for me to reach these notes and considering the piece was of such a mystic, dark nature, like night, the idea occurred to me to call it "Deep Night," as the word "deep" would come in in every case on these high notes.

My mental picture was one of two lovers in the depths of a garden or a lovers' lane, or even woods, at night. The question that next occurred to me was, what could I say about the time and the place? I was handicapped by the fact that in the dark there would naturally be little to see or hear, there was very little material for descriptive lines.

COMMITTEE FAVORS $10,000 FOR WIDOW

PAYMENT MAY BE CUT

Disregarding an adverse report from the Commissioners, the House District committee yesterday favorably reported the Zihlman bill authorizing compensation of $10,000 for Jennie Bruce Gallahan, widow of a District fireman killed in a July, 1927, accident.

Practically no committee opposition was voiced after Attorney William E. Ryan described the widow's condition as "desperate." Representative Tarver, however, said that he would attempt to have the payment reduced to $5,000 when the bill came before the House.

In opposing the measure the Commissioners acknowledged Mrs. Gallahan's suffering, but said that there were many other cases equally deserving. It was pointed out that the Zihlman bill had no connection with a pending omnibus bill providing compensation for widows of all District firemen and policemen killed in line of duty.

Fireman Gallahan was killed in the Bladensburg road section when a hose wagon on which he was riding was sideswiped in an accident resulting from a police car's pursuit of a bootlegger. It was never definitely established whether the bootlegger's car or that of the police actually knocked the fireman from the wagon.

$137,000 Shortage In Bank's Note Division

Lansing, Mich., April 16 (A.P.).—Officials of the Capital National Bank announced today the discovery of a $137,000 shortage in their note department. The bank is a unit of the Guardian Detroit Union Group, Inc. Officials from the Detroit office have been cooperating with local bank officials in an effort to determine the source of the shortage since last Friday when the first irregularities were discovered.

Frank Gorman, executive vice president of the bank, said that the shortage had been so carefully covered up that it was unnoticed by State bank examiners. No criminal action has been undertaken.

Conference Asked For Museum Here

Women's City Club Sends Out Circular Letter for Support.

Letters urging all organizations and individuals interested to confer with it regarding a museum to house relics of old Washington and models of the new city, have been mailed out by the Women's City Club, which is sponsoring the idea. No date has been set for a meeting to discuss the proposal.

The Women's City Club in the letter calls attention to the fact that the exhibit "Future Washington" shown during the Woodward & Lothrop anniversary has been placed in storage because of lack of a permanent exhibition place and that many other historical relics and models are homeless for the same reason.

It is the aim of the club to make a collection of all data pertaining to the history and development of the Capital by 1932 when the Washington bicentennial is observed so that the visitors to the city may see the exhibit.

Religious Fanatic Dies In Battle With Police

Kansas City, April 16 (A.P.).—A crazed Negro, Tom Sims, was shot and killed today as the climax to a two hour siege during which a patrolman was wounded and police resorted to use of machine gun, riot gun and tear bombs in an effort to dislodge the man from his one room shanty.

Morris Cole, one of 25 policemen engaged in the battle, was wounded in the left shoulder by a bullet from the Negro's gun.

Residents in the neighborhood said Sims was a religious fanatic and that he had been expressing fear of ghosts recently. Police were called when the Negro began firing from the windows of his shack into the homes of other Negroes.

At Casualty Hospital, where she was taken by her parents, it was found that she had a fractured collar bone and possible internal injuries. Her condition was also said to be serious.

Pantages' Third Plea For Bail Meets Denial

Los Angeles, April 16 (A.P.).—Alexander Pantages' third petition for release from the county jail on bail because of an asserted serious heart ailment, was denied by Superior Judge Charles Fricke today. The court declared the arguments showed no circumstances that warranted release.

Painter Injured in Fall.

John Holbrook, 32-year-old colored man, living at 1704 Fifth street northwest, yesterday fell from a scaffold where he was painting a building at 3509 Macomb street northwest. He was taken to Emergency Hospital, where he received treatment and was later taken home.

On the Rules of Traffic
By WILLIAM ULLMAN

Washington motorists may dislike the idea, but when the driver of an overtaking vehicle sounds his horn as a signal to pass, the first driver must pull over and permit him to go by. He may pass the other car again immediately but he can not speed up to prevent it from passing him in the first instance.

The local traffic regulations specify that at the sound of the horn from an overtaking car, the car ahead shall pull over to the right.

Example: A driver is traveling along at 26 miles an hour in a 30-mile zone. A horn sounds behind him. He looks at his speedometer and speeds up to 30 miles an hour without letting the other vehicle pass He has violated the law. An exception, of course, is where traffic is so congested that moving over is impossible.

Beginning today, you'll see the car with the RED ROCKET on the streets and boulevards of this city. It is a New Series Pontiac Big Six, marked with a RED ROCKET to symbolize its remarkable speed, pick-up and power. This demonstrator is on the streets for two reasons. First, so you can obtain a vivid impression of its speed, its quick getaway, its smoothness and easy handling. Second, so you can receive a demonstration on the spot—anytime, anywhere you see this car. We want you to take the wheel. For only in this way is it possible to realize what excellent performance you can now enjoy in this new low-priced six.

SPEED AND POWER. Pontiac's 60 horsepower engine, with 200 cubic inch piston displacement, is the largest in any six of its price. This accounts for Pontiac's exceptional top speed, its swift acceleration, and its abundant power on the hills.

SMOOTHNESS. This engine is also very smooth because of its new-type rubber mountings and its Harmonic Balancer which counteracts torsional crankshaft vibration.

EASY HANDLING AND RIDING. A new steering system acting on roller bearings, and improved four-wheel brakes make this car delightfully easy to handle. And riding is unusually smooth, thanks to its comfortable new Fisher bodies with mohair upholstery of excellent quality, and improved Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers.

Now ask to drive the car with the RED ROCKET. Or come to our salesroom, where you can learn about Pontiac's reliability, economy and long life. A demonstration will show you what splendid performance Pontiac now is offering at very low cost.

A FAMOUS NAME A FINER CAR

Prices are f. o. b. Pontiac, Mich., plus delivery charges. Shock absorbers standard equipment. Bumpers and spring covers at slight extra cost. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

Consider the delivered price as well as the list (f. o. b.) price when comparing automobile values . . . Pontiac delivered prices include only authorized charges for freight and delivery and the charge for any additional accessories or financing desired.

DIAL FLASHES

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THIS is the season of the finest sacred music. Lawrence Tibbett, barytone; Richard Crooks, tenor, and the choir of Trinity Church, New York, will sing Stainer's "Crucifixion" at 10 o'clock tonight (WRC).

Probably the longest religious broadcast ever heard in this country will be the three-hour Good Friday Passion service in the Washington Cathedral beginning at noon tomorrow (WMAL).

In addition to many hymns and psalms of a meditative and penitential nature by the Cathedral Choir, led by Edgar Priest, the service will include nine sermons as follows, the introductory address, a sermon on each of the words on the Cross, and the closing address.

There will be a radio presentation at 11 o'clock tomorrow night of Wagner's "Parsifal" (WRC), which expresses the heavenly greatness of the Christian idea of God, that is at the foundation of the legend of the Holy Grail.

Cosima Wagner, widow of Richard Wagner and daughter of Franz Liszt, who died two weeks ago at the age of 92, bitterly protested and sought to prevent the presentation of "Parsifal" at the Metropolitan Opera House in New York. Up to that time, restricted by Wagner's wish, it had only been given at Bayreuth.

Tomorrow night will be the second radio version attempted.

AT last we have found out and are able to tell for the first time who was responsible for inducing the Census Bureau to ask everybody if they had a radio.

Not old Tom Shipp, who had several brickbats hurled at him as the "culprit," but old Bond Geddes, former Washingtonian, now secretary of the Radio Manufacturers Association. Bond was the fellow, and we have it on excellent authority that "Deac" Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting Co., did considerable tunnel work backing him up in the campaign necessary to get the question, "Have you a radio set?" inserted.

Maj. "Jack" Frost, of Chicago, chairman of the R. M. A. merchandising committee, denies that the question is being asked to secure information on which to base a tax on radio sets. Rather, he explains, it is to give the first authentic count of the radio audience and to tell the exact condition of the radio sales and advertising markets.

"Will you please write and let me know about the different things about the radio such as follows as to the elegal stuff that can be fazed elegal over them if any at all. If not why not if at all and if so by whom and when and who and why and if nobody else if so why not under what conditions if so where what places and if at all in a slanderus way as it is being done in some parts of the state in Fulton, Hamilton and Montgomery Co.

"Please write and let me know at once as I feel I am in the proper position to want to know.

And oblidg' ".

We tuned in on WRC at 10 o'clock Tuesday night, expecting to hear Don Carlos and his Marimbistas, as had been announced. Instead the station was broadcasting the Choristers.

No explanation was given to the radio audience for the change.

"The Sun Bride," an American opera by Charles Sanford Skilton, will have its world premiere at 11 o'clock tonight (WRC). Skilton is professor of music at the University of Kansas and a recognized authority on the music of the American Indian.

Not realizing the tremendous obstacles that sometimes must be encountered to persuade notables abroad to speak over the radio during the peace parley, Frederic William Wile said he was sometimes flabbergasted at the nonchalant orders from New York.

"For next Sunday," one message of instructions Wile received in London read, "please arrange to put on the Archbishop of Canterbury, H. G. Wells or Lloyd George."

Dare Interprets the Mode

Paris, April 16.

"WHERE would you like to dine?"

Inevitable answer, "Oh, any place will do." Thereupon throwing the burden upon the poor man, who probably hasn't any idea of your taste in restaurants or, if he has, no particular idea of your mood at the moment. At that, it's usually a lack of familiarity with places to dine that makes one answer this. Don't you think it would be well, then, to sit down and think out the places that you know, and sort of have them at your vividly tinted fingertips, as it were?

Places of this type, and that type, places where you know that you do not dress, and those where you do dress. Let this go a little further and include luncheon places, and those where it is particularly amusing or chic or pleasant to have tea.

Of course, all this hasn't anything to do with a fashion column, except that it is fashionable these days for a woman to know what she's about—naivete has become completely demode for any woman creature over 17. Let's be our age, and take time to ask and figure out a nice little restaurant repertoire!

* * * *

And just for that—just for what? Oh, come on; now we have a new cuckoo clock that I just bought in Lucerne, and we've spent the whole morning being cuckoo over it—just for that, there are two unusual strass evening necklaces up in the corner of today's illustration, one that fastens hither and yon, and the other aided and abetted with black jet.

* * * *

I saw a most unusual combination of materials for spring in an afternoon suit. It was a dressy sports suit (even if I do sound as though I were contradicting myself when I say it) with a heavy navy blue georgette skirt and jacket and a linen blouse and an outer coat of linen, the color a medium blue, which is so often combined with navy blue this season. You wouldn't believe that these two materials could be so effectively combined, but they were, most attractively. Doesn't it sort of explain what I mean when I say "dressy sports suit?"

* * * *

There is a certain shade of green which we used to call "bottle green" when it first came out, which is rather smart this season, especially for evening things. I found it again in this rather formal evening coat of Blanche Lebouvier, so, thinking you would like to see it, sketched it right there and then. You can't see the color, of course, but you can see the very unusual and artistic collar made of twisted and tied material. The exaggerated sleeves were put on with cartridge pleats, 'n' if you never knew what carpet bags—no, I mean cart—well, you know what I mean—were before, you know now by just looking at today's sketch!

* * * *

A place at last, and a clever one, at that, in which to put all those stray recipes that you cut out of newspapers and magazines 'n' everything and never know what to do with! This is only one of the awfully original ideas for dolling up your kitchen that are in this week's illustrative leaflet, for which you can send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post. You may have a kitchen some day, even if you haven't now; so better send for the leaflet while sending is good, as it were.

* * * *

Also, you'll find many helpful suggestions in the Dare weekly fashion letter. It appears every week in the big Sunday Post.

Indoor and Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

SO many persons growing asters for the first time sow the seed in the open border about the middle of May. This is perfectly correct procedure if you want late flowers, but if you want early blossoms do let me urge you to sow at least a part of the seeds in flats (shallow boxes) in early April. Sow only in well-prepared, rich, friable soil, if you would have large flowers.

By early sowing you will assure blooms from July until late September or October, which will be much better than having the first buds unfold in late August, as will happen if you postpone sowing until May.

Where the seeds have germinated and the tiny seedlings show their third leaf, you must either thin them out or transplant them. This will give each plant a splendid chance for individual development before being transplanted to the open border. Seed sown in the house gives plants with such fine constitutions that you need have no fear about setting them in the open about the middle of May. They will, after such a good start, be quite able to take care of themselves.

The remainder of the aster seed, on which you depend for late flowers, when sown in the garden, must be sown with care. First, select a bed where the soil is most friable and pulverize it to as fine a substance as possible. Sow the seeds thinly in rows at least one foot apart, and, after distributing the seeds, press the soil down quite firmly about them.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of this newspaper, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

These young seeds will come up faster and more surely if you protect them from the strong rays of the sun for a few days. The matter of proper shading isn't a difficult one. All that is necessary is to drive a post in each corner of the bed to extend about one foot above the ground, and then spread muslin or cheesecloth between the points of the posts. Water your aster seeds every morning, using the finest nozzle of the watering can (or, if your patch is large, a hose). I recommend a fine spray so that you do not disturb the seeds. If you carry out these instructions I can not imagine failure.

You see, if you sow thinly (sparingly) you do not have to thin the plants out and by June 15 they will be ready to be set in their permanent beds. There each plant should be given space of six or eight inches each way.

Asters are greedy. Pulverized sheep manure, sprinkled over the surface of the soil every other week, will assure them plenty of nourishment.

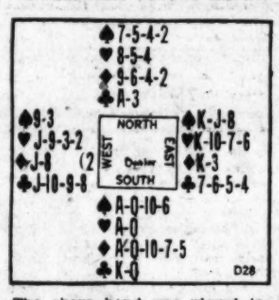
A PROPERLY PLAYED HAND.



The above hand was played in a game of Auction Bridge. South bid one No Trump, which, followed by three passes, ended the auction.

Had it been played in Contract, South would have bid three No Trumps.

While a slam can be made in the hand, as will be seen when the play is examined, it is not safe to bid for a No Trump slam when the adversaries have three Kings and four Jacks. This slam was possible only because the high adverse cards were fortunately located.

THE CORRECT PLAY.

With West leading his Jack of Clubs, the Declarer, with the option of taking the trick in either hand, won in dummy to get an immediate lead from that hand. When selecting the suit to lead first from dummy, the Diamond was chosen because, with equal high-card strength, the combined hands had nine Diamonds and only eight Spades.

When leading a suit composed of nine cards and having an Ace-Queen-Ten in the hand toward which the lead is made, the correct play is to finesse the Queen; so on trick 2 North led the Deuce of Diamonds and, East playing the Trey, South played the Queen. To trick 3 South led the Ace of Diamonds, dropping West's Jack and East's King. To trick 4, Declarer having all the Diamonds in his two hands, led South's Seven of Diamonds and won with dummy's Nine in order to give dummy two more leads.

Dummy's next lead was the Deuce of Spades and, East playing the Eight, South played the Ten because when leading a suit of less than nine cards toward Ace-Queen-Ten, the Ten—not the Queen—is the correct play. South's next lead was the Five of Diamonds, North winning with the Six; and then North led the Four of Spades which, with East playing the Jack, South won with the Queen.

South then cashed his thirteenth Diamond, North discarding a Heart; and next South led the Ace of Spades, dropping the last adverse Spade. On the fourth round of Spades, dummy obtained a fourth entry by South's leading the Six and dummy's playing the Seven, thus giving Declarer the opportunity to lead a Heart from dummy for the finesse. When that won, Declarer secured a grand slam.

GOOD NEWS, BRIDGERS.

We are pleased to announce we can now renew the offer of Milton C. Work's great Contract and Auction booklet entitled "THE PLAYING PROBLEMS." Bridgers who received copies from previous offers are most enthusiastic over it.

"PLAYING PROBLEMS" presents eighteen hands, the complete auction and contract bidding for each hand with reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reason for each answer in complete detail.

"PLAYING PROBLEMS," which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high-priced textbooks, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of this newspaper by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self-addressed stamped return envelope, together with 6 cents in stamps to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48-page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored.

What Today Means to You

"ARIES."

IF April 17 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:30 a. m., from 3 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 10 p. m. to 11:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to noon and from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m.

The astrological picture for this date is not good from a material standpoint. Opportunities to buy cheap and to sell dear will not be available. Do not be taken in by false "El Dorados."

The child born on this April 17 will have a strong, forceful character and will be determined that others shall see things from its standpoint. It will, however, have good judgment and a clear vision. It will have a taste for mechanical things of all kinds.

You not only know what you want as you traverse this plane of existence, but you have the grit to go after your wants. You put life and action into your wishes. You are not leading a purposeless, aimless life. In the scramble for success, your chances of winning are high; not because you are brilliant or cunning, but because you go through life with your route clearly marked on your road map. You strive to live up to your ideals, and whether you have reached them or not, you are not content with something which you know is only second best.

Your character is your biggest asset—it grows bigger and finer with the passing of the years. Your reputation for truthfulness, honesty and integrity is of the highest. People trust you, even without knowing you. Your personal influence upon the life of others is good—you will never lead any one astray. You have time enough in your hurried life to help a lame dog now and then over a stile. You do not push on through life without thinking or caring much for those who get in your way. You are going to test the realities of life through hardships and experience. You are not going to sit down at the big job of living.

Successful people born April 17:

5—John D. Prince—Diplomat.

6—W. J. McGee—Anthropologist and geologist.

WASHINGTON: THURSDAY, APRIL 17, 1930. 15

Pegler

NEW YORK, April 16.—The latest adventure of Primo Carnera is certain to arouse a familiar type of indignation, but I can not see why anybody should be indignant, considering the character of the people who dominate the prize fighting industry and considering also the potential value of the heavyweight championship. Here is an asset worth between $1,000,000 and $2,000,000, and here is a class of sportsmen drawn largely from the smuggling, bootlegging, kidnaping and bombing trades in more or less open competition for the title.

The only offense against the public interest that I can perceive in the situation is chargeable to the various prizefighting commissions, and especially to the New York Prizefighting commission, which have bent their energies to inflate the importance of the heavyweight championship to the end that their own petty importance as the stewards of a legalized racket shall seem less petty.

Citizens Not Compelled To Buy Tickets.

In doing thsi the commissions have exaggerated the importance of all subsidiary heavyweight prize fights and the effect on the public has been merely that prize fights worth not more than 25 cents, 50 cents and $1 per customer, have sold to the retail trade at prices ranging between a general admission fee of $3 or $5 and $27.50 or $55.00 for seats in the so-called ringside sections. Even this is a minor nuisance, remembering that this is still a free country in some few surviving respects, and that one of the things that a citizen can not be compelled to do is to spend his money for prizefight tickets.

Therefore, the indignation over anything that may be done on Primo Carnera's behalf, with or without his knowledge, in the course of his bum-thumping campaign across the continent and back, is necessarily ill-considered or insincere.

Advocates Abolition Of Commissions.

My only criticism of the situation would be that all prizefight commissions should be abolished and the appearance of official cooperation with the racket corrected. Just now the New York commissioners are encouraging larceny on a large scale by stipulating that the winner of the Sharkey-Schmeling prizefight of June 12, shall be regarded as the heavyweight champion of the world, his name to be duly engraved upon the Tunney memorial monument which stands in the lobby of the New Garden. Thus, they confer a value of at least $1,000,000 on the victory and create a temptation to burgle, kidnap and cheat which the boys in the racket are certain to find irresistible.

In his California adventure Primo was to have taken a bit of a pounding from a Negro gladiator by the name of Leon Chevalier and, as this is the second time a Negro has resisted him on the tour, it does begin to look as though the Negro boys were getting out of hand. By tradition, Negro-heavyweights are supposed to fight to orders and go into the water if, as and when instructed under pain of boycott for failure.

In Philadelphia a Negro named Ace Clark either forgot himself or wilfully violated the properties and it was not until Primo h ad been badly mutilated about the fact that his opponent turned square, so to speak, and went in. One may be sure that from now on these two ingrates will be dealt with in a firm manner. I would not be surprised to learn in time that they have both been starved out of pugilism and compelled to resort to work for a living.

Public Outrage Is Mystifying.

Leon Chevalier states that his seconds rubbed burning stuff in his eyes between rounds and that one of them threatened to shoot him if he did do the honest thing by Primo, and there seems to be some sense of public outrage about these things, although I can not understand why there should be. It is nothing unusual for quick-tempered business men to shoot people for betraying their trust, and I am only surprised that the boys didn't shoot Chevalier, as some other boys of the same general type shot Andre Anderson in

Mangin Wins Over Lott at Pinehurst

G. U. Student Beats Davis Cup Ace by 9-11, 6-2, 6-3.

Pare, Doeg and Bell Also Reach Tourney Semifinals.

Special to The Washington Post.

PINEHURST, N. C., April 16.—The succession of upsets in the North and South tennis tournament, here produced today a hard-fought, well-earned victory for Gregory Mangin, Georgetown University star and tenth ranking player in national circles, who defeated George Lott, ranking third, by the scores of 9—11, 6—2 and 6—3.

Mangin's triumph took rank with those recorded yesterday by Emmett Pare, former Georgetown tennis captain; J. Gilbert Hall, of East Orange, N. J., and Cliff Sutter, of New Orleans, who defeated, respectively, Wilbur Allison, of Austin, Tex., seventh nationally; Frank Hunter, of New Rochelle, N. Y., veteran internationalist, and Fritz Mercur, of Bethlehem, Pa., who is No. 6 among the big ten.

Georgetown Youth Scores at Net.

Lott was able to take the grueling first set, but Mangin's hard-hit balls were too much for him afterward. The Georgetown junior went to the net in the second and third sets for many of his points, sending the ball at Lott's feet with tremendous speed.

In the last set Lott rallied to win two games in succession after Mangin took a lead of 5 to 1.

Cliff Sutter dropped out today when he met Johnny Doeg, Santa Monica, Calif., youth, and fourth in national rankings. Sutter won the first set, 6—3, but lost the next two, 6—3, 6—4.

Berkeley Bell, of Austin, Tex., played spectacular tennis to down one of the favorites, John Van Ryn, of Orange, N. J., by 6—4, 3—6, 6—3.

In the other late afternoon quarter finals match, Emmett Pare, of Dayton, Ohio, romped on J. Gilbert Hall, East Orange, N. J., 6—2, 6—1. Hall yesterday beat Francis T. Hunter, second ranking national player.

Don Sails for Home; To Return Next Year

New York, April 16 (A.P.).—Kaye Don, British automobile racer who landed here March 4 with high hopes of breaking the world's straightaway speed record, sailed for home today after a series of unsuccessful attempts at Daytona Beach, but with the assertion that he would return next year for another try.

"Had I not believed I could exceed the present record of 231 miles per hour," he said, "I would not have spent $50,000 on the trip here.

"Naturally I am coming back next year to make a new try. Even if the machine had worked perfectly we could not have made the run because of the condition of the beach. Of the 31 days we were at Daytona, 25 were rainy."

Don's 5-ton Juggernaut, the Silver Bullet, will be shipped next week, when Louis Coatalen, its designer, also plans to return to England. Don was accompanied by five members of his mechanical staff.

Georgetown Nine Plays Penn and Drexel Today

Special to The Washington Post.

Philadelphia, April 16.—Heavy rains this morning caused the postponement of the Georgetown's baseball game with Penn today and forced the Hilltoppers into a double-header tomorrow.

Georgetown is here on a two-day trip, which included a game with Drexel tomorrow, and rather than postpone the Penn tilt until later in the season the Hoyas decided to play a double-header.

Pennsylvania will be Georgetown's foe in a game starting at noon. At 3 in the afternoon the team will shift to the Drexel Field, where it will stage its regularly scheduled game with the Dragons.

Penn will also play a double-header, as it is carded to oppose Villanova College tomorrow afternoon.

CANDIDATES TO REPORT.

All candidates desiring a try-out with the Lincoln Post Midgets are requested to report at Fisher Hall, Wisconsin avenue and N streets northwest, at 7 o'clock tomorrow night.

BARBERS IN ACTION.

The Corinthian Barbers will play the Colonial A. C. at Alexandria Sunday at 2 o'clock. All Barber players are to report at 1 o'clock at the home of Manager Bucolo, 2414 Fourteenth street northwest. For games with the Barbers, call North 8177.

Tilden Wins Over Kozeluh In Long-Awaited Encounter

BEAULIEU, France, April 16 (A. P.).—In a friendly spirit and for what both later termed the greater glory of tennis, Bill Tilden and Karel Kozeluh met today in the long-awaited test of top-notch amateur tennis against the professional variety. Tilden, the amateur, won by scores of 6—4, 6—4.

The little Czechoslovakian expert, who holds the world's professional championship, readily accepted the American champion's good-natured challenge to an impromptu match, but found himself unable to cope with the brilliant pl. of Big Bill, who was at his best.

The match was made on the spur of the moment, apparently without any preconceived idea of running afoul of the International Lawn Tennis Federation's ruling of a few weeks ago forbidding contests between amateurs and professionals.

First Proposal of Match Vague.

It happened that the center court was empty, some of the amateur players entered against Tilden in the tournament here were late over their luncheon and Tilden was ready to go on. Kozeluh, who came as a spectator, was standing nearby in street clothes and the tennis crowd was yelling for action.

In such a setting the contest was conceived, history being vague as to who made the first proposal. There is a well-defined impression, however, that Tilden said, "How about it, Karel?" to which the latter responded: "I am game."

Tilden, in the pink of condition from perpetual tennis on the Riviera since early January, jumped into an early lead and soon had Kozeluh down, 3—0.

"Big Bill's" cannon-ball service was bewildering the professional, but the latter's steadiness and his returns from all angles soon made the first set even, although Tilden finally crashed through on service.

Protest Considered Unlikely.

The second set was a similar story with Tilden taking an early lead. Kozeluh, who has been teaching tennis throughout the winter and consequently meeting only weak opponents, appeared outclassed in the first few games, but rallied gamely, almost carrying the set to deuce games.

The Riviera's small tennis tournaments run by various hotels are not officially recognized by the French Tennis Federation, being regarded as semioutlaw events. Accordingly, no protest is considered likely to come from the Amateur Federation at Paris.

General opinion among the spectators was that the match, while interesting, was no criterion on the relative strength of amateurs against professionals. Even Tilden's closest friends acknowledged his superior condition and length of training gave him a distinct advantage.

Cards' 20-Hit Attack Trounces Cubs, 13-3

St. Louis, Mo., April 16 (A.P.).—The Cardinals launched a 20-hit attack against three Chicago hurlers today and evened the series with the National League champions with a 13-to-3 victory.

While the Cardinals were hitting everything Root, Carlson and Shealy had to offer, Sylvester Johnson was holding the Cubs well in hand.

The hitting of George Fisher, recently obtained by the Cardinals from the Giants, featured the Cardinal attack. In two games Fisher has obtained eight hits out of nine times at bat.

Bottomley hit a homer in the third.

Gar Wood Postpones His Speedboat Tests

Miami Beach, Fla., April 16 (A.P.).—Gar Wood announced today that he had postponed further attempts to set an official world's speedboat record of 100 miles an hour with his Miss America VIII until this summer, when he plans to race the boat against time in Detroit.

The boat will be crated for shipment Saturday. His test run this morning was unofficially timed at an average speed for north and south runs of 96.2 miles an hour.

Wood's announcement was made upon receipt of word from Fort Lauderdale that Odis Porter, official A. A. A. timer, would be unable to leave his sick bed for two weeks and that a substitute timer could not function here this afternoon.

Wood's unofficial time of his test run this morning, when he and Orlin Johnson, his mechanic, sent the Miss America VIII skimming across the water, was taken with a stop-watch. The speedboat enthusiast said that on the northbound trip over the measured course, the watch recorded 37 seconds for the mile. The southbound trip, required for an average of time in each direction, was recorded as 37.2 seconds.

Wood said he believed official timing apparatus would have shown a greater speed than the 96.2 miles an hour that was recorded.

"It was definitely established this morning that the boat can break the old record of 93.123 miles an hour," he said. "Before I put it in speed trials at Detroit I intend to make some minor mechanical adjustments, however."

Demave Suspended Year for "Run Out"

St. Louis, April 16 (A.P.).—Seneca Taylor, Missouri boxing commissioner, today announced suspension for one year of Jack Demave, Dutch heavyweight, and his manager, Lew Diamond, for Demave's "run out" last night from his scheduled ten-round bout with Otto von Porat, Norwegian heavy. Diamond said he was through with his fighter for good. The suspension means that Demave will be barred from the ring in more than 30 States that are members of the National Boxing Commission.

Reds Defeat Bucs, 3-1; Support Aids Donohue

Cincinnati, April 16 (A.P.).—The Cincinnati Reds evened their opening series with the Pittsburgh Pirates by winning the second game today, 3 to 1. The latter innings were played in a drizzle.

Pete Donohue pitched for the Reds and kept ten hits well scattered. He received fine support, particularly from Critz, Ford and Kelly, who made three double plays. Walker's home run in the seventh was the hitting feature of the game. The Reds bunched two pairs of their seven hits off Ervin Brame in the fourth and fifth for the other two runs.

Pittsburgh's lone run was made in the ninth on doubles by Suhr and Hemsley.

G.U. Prepares For Tests At Penn

Track Squad Nearing Top Form Despite Handicaps.

18 Individuals and 4 Teams Likely to Carry Colors.

By JACK ESPEY.

DESPITE trying conditions under which they are training, Georgetown University's trackmen are rapidly reaching fine form for the Pennsylvania University Relay Carnival to be held on April 25-26 at Philadelphia.

If present plans are carried out, Coach John D. O'Reilly will accompany a larger Blue and Gray representation to this classic than a year ago, and if present indications are true the Hilltop banner will be seen more prominently among the insignias of the competing squads when the meet is finished.

Since the Hilltop field was torn up for the construction of a new dormitory, O'Reilly's pupils have been forced to work out either at Central High School Stadium—more than 2 miles distant—or on a dilapidated section of the old Hilltop cinder path. The Central track hasn't always been available and on occasions when it was the Hoyas have been limited in the time they could spend there owing to the necessary traveling back and forth.

G. U. Has Large Squad.

Georgetown will have between 14 and 18 individuals in the meet, this number including six who will compete in such special events as the decathlon, hurdles, and field contests. In the main part of the program, the relay races, Georgetown will have one-half mile, one mile, two mile and half-mile sprint teams in action.

Clarion Cosh, rugged Vineland, N. J., youth, is preparing for the decathlon, the most colorful and exacting individual event of the carnival. He finished fourth in this ten-event competition last year, although previously his training had not been especially directed to it.

This season finds Cosh better prepared for the decathlon. He is an improved runner and has acquired more strength for the field events, particularly the shot put and the discus and over 40 feet in the shot, and eighth, respectively, in 1929. He is now getting about 125 feet in the discus in which he finished sixth whereas last spring his decathlon figures for these events were about 92 feet and 38 feet.

Cash Expected to Improve.

Nobody on the hill is predicting Cosh will win the decathlon, but at the same time nobody doubts that he will excel his performance of last spring. This in spite of the fact that he has been bothered all of the fall and winter by a knee injury, which is just about vanishing.

Leo Sexton, the all-around ace of O'Reilly's squad, will compete in the high jump, shot put, discus and hammer throw. In the order named, he has achieved practice marks of 6 feet 4 inches, 49 to 50 feet, 149 feet and 155 feet—all quite worthy. Bill Slezak, a sophomore, who is inexperienced as far as high-class competition is concerned, will participate in the shot, discus and hammer.

Erik Kjellstrom, Georgetown's Swedish representative and the only individual to bring a victory back from the carnival last year, again will enter the 400-meter hurdles which he won with a mark of 56 seconds in 1929.

O'Reilly to Select Teams Monday.

By next Monday Coach O'Reilly hopes to hold a definite line on the personnel of the relay teams. Eligible candidates for the one-mile team are Artie Briggs, Vic Burke, Chuck Carlin, Bob Shotter, Jim Kelly and Nat Halpern, while those struggling for places on the two-mile team are Jay Julicher, John Downing, Louis Ricca, Jack Mara and John Fitzgerald.

Lew Parlette, giant football end, and Bernard Bonniwell, both sophomores, are entered in the decathlon and high jump, respectively. Parlette's running is hampered by a "football knee," but he is showing promise in the weight events. Bonniwell, one of the famous Philadelphia family of athletes of that name, jumped 6 feet ½ inch in the indoor intercollegiate meet last March.

Burke Is Due To Oppose Red Sox

By FRANK H. YOUNG

FENWAY PARK, Boston, April 16. For tomorrow's final game of the Nats-Red Sox series, Manager Johnson plans to send Bob Burke to the mound, while either Jack Russell or Horace Lisenbee, the latter a former Nat, is expected to fling for the Red Sox. "Big Ed" Morris, Wagner's mound ace, is suffering from a mild attack of sinus trouble and likely will not start a game for two or three more days.

Johnson is particularly anxious to see what Burke will do tomorrow. He is banking heavily on his two young southpaws, Burke and Brown, and will be more than satisfied if Burke does only half as well as did Brown in the Hub opener here yesterday. As a matter of fact, judging from Bob's work in the exhibition series, he, too, should turn in a victory, as he looked even more impressive than did Brown in the practice games.

Brown has had plenty of stuff ever since he has been wearing Washington livery but has lacked control. Just how good he was in this respect yesterday may be gleaned from the fact that one of the Boston "figger" experts declares that Brown threw but 24 balls during the entire game.

Count on Webb for Pinch Hitting.

Manager Walter Johnson today paid particular attention to the pregame batting work of Earl Webb, his new outfielder, as he expects this veteran to do considerable pinch hitting this season when opposing right-handed hurlers are working, while he had been considering giving him a chance at the regular center field berth in case Sammy West failed to start hitting.

West, however, immediately proceeded to make his tenure in office a little longer by crashing out a homer off one of Milton Gaston's slants to open the game. This was a real clout, a low liner which hit the top of the base of the right-field stands about 2 feet fair and which bounded in.

Webb looks mighty good, however, and the reputation he brings with him of being able to retain his batting eye, even when not used for days at a time, makes him look all the better as an acquisition to the Nats.

Red Shirts Break Out In Nats' Camp.

A rash of red shirts has broken out in the Nat camp, Joe Cronin, who set the style in this respect last year, being joined by Pitcher Lloyd Brown, Outfielders Red Barnes and Earl Webb and Infielder Buddie Myer today, all of whom were bedecked in the "loud" underwear.

Pitcher Adolph Liska, on whom Manager Johnson was counting strongly to help carry the box burden during these cold spring days, is not quite ready and probably will not start a game for several days. He is in good physical condition and has been working hard, but does not appear to have as much stuff as he had at this time last year.

Fred Marberry, who weakened in the seventh inning of Washington's opener Tuesday, has been working particularly hard on the trip here and guarantees that he will be ready to go the route the next time he is called upon.

Palm to Coach V. P. I. Gridmen, Is Report

Mike Palm, former assistant coach at Georgetown, will be head football mentor at Virginia Polytechnic Institute next year, according to reports current here, and Jim Mooney, captain of the Hilltop eleven in 1929 will assist Palm as line coach.

It is known that several institutions have sought Palm for the position of h ead football coach, while Mooney, it was learned, was mentioned two months ago as being under consideration for an assistant's berth at St. Mary's College of California.

TWO CIRCUIT BLOWS GIVE HADLEY LEAD IN TRIUMPH AT BOSTON

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

Fenway Park, Boston, Mass., April 16.—Irving Hadley and Milton Gaston, who once wore Washington livery, put up a ding-dong pitcher's battle here this afternoon in which both were stingy with hits, but were unfortunate enough to see most of those combed from their offerings turned into runs. The Nationals finally won out, 5 to 4, after jumping into a five-run lead and then battling hard to hold it. The Red Sox rallied after this poor start and whether or not they would be able to overtake their opponents was a question until the very end.

A home run by Samuy West, opening the game and another by Ossie Bluege, with two mates on in the second, were the big blows of the contest, in which but thirteen safeties were garnered, the Nats getting seven.

Gaston was shaky as he started, being pounded for five hits, including three for extra bases, in the first three frames, after which he settled down and granted but two more over the balance of the route. The most hits Hadley granted in any one frame were two, a brace being inserted in the fourth and fifth, each netting runs, while a walk and double cost him another in the second. He fanned four and walked one, while Gaston sent five to the bench talking to themselves while doling out four passes, three of which figured in Washington scoring.

Both West and Bluege added singles to their homers, giving them stick honors for the day. Rothrock, with a double and single, led the natives' attack. The fielding features were provided by Outfielders Rothrock and Oliver, each of whom twice brought the small crowd of about 2,000 to its feet with clever catches.

The Nationals forged into an early 5-run lead and looked to be easy winners before the third frame was completed. Appearances were deceitful in this case, however, for Gaston suddenly settled down while the Sox kept pecking away at Hadley's slants and were right on the Nats' heels by the time the fifth round was completed.

West's Homer Fair By Mere Foot.

West put the Nationals one up at the very start of the game when he led off with a home run drive over the wall guarding the stands in right, the ball being fair by only a foot of two. In the second, two more runs were added, Cronin opening with a double, Judge strolling and Bluege poling a four-baser over the left field wall to empty the bases, giving the Nats the unusual return of four runs in two innings off only three hits.

It looked as though round 3 would be a big one when, in the order named, Rice singled, Goslin walked, Myer singled, and Cronin walked. This gave the Nats one run and packed the aisles with none gone. Here Gaston settled down, forced Judge to hit into a double play on which Goslin was killed at the plate, and then tossed out Bluege on a roller. Three hitless Washington frames followed.

While all this was going on, the Sox were busily engaged in cutting down the Washington lead. A walk to Scarritt and Todt's double gave them one in the second, another was molded in the fourth on singles by Miller and Scarritt and Regan's sacrifice fly, while the natives pulled up to within a run in the fifth.

Bluege's Error Sets Stage in Fifth.

Bluege's error on Narlesky's hot bounder gave the Sox a start in the fifth and Berry's double, Gaston's sacrifice fly and a two bagger by Rothrock netted two markers.

There were no more threats until the eighth, when a snappy double play killed a Boston rally. With Rothrock on second with the tying

C. U. Pitches Hurley Against Bucknell Today

Fully rested and eager to atone for their trouncing from Harvard last Friday, Catholic University's Cardinals will meet the Bisons, of Bucknell, this afternoon on the Brookland Stadium diamond, starting at 3:30 o'clock.

Coach Chick Gagnon has named Lou Hurley, ace of his mound staff, to face the Bisons on the firing line, and anticipates an improved performance from the big fellow, who absorbed a thorough lacing from Harvard. Prior to the Harvard game, Hurley had hurled effectively, beating Dartmouth and Vermont. He has a fast ball and good control.

Novel Mast Stepped Into the Shamrock V

Gosport, England, April 16 (A.P.).—With her mast stepped and her 10-foot topmast added, making a total height of 160 feet, Shamrock V, Sir Thomas Lipton's latest challenger for the America's Cup, today presented a striking appearance as her fitting continued.

An unusual feature of the mast is that it is grooved so that the luff of the mainsail beds into the groove. The mast is hollow and the halyards will run down inside it and be handled from the boat's interior.

It is understood that some foresails of special cut will be tried experimentally on the yacht so that when she is completed her rig may show some novelties while conforming in the main to the ordinary Bermudean style.

The Shamrock V was launched Monday.

Lamar Injured in Training; Fight With Gallagher Off

DISAPPOINTING news—disappointing to hundreds of Washington fight followers—emanated from Baltimore last night when it was announced that the Henry Lamar—Marty Gallagher bout scheduled for next Monday night in that city had been indefinitely postponed.

Lamar, it was stated, recently suffered a badly cut lip while training in Boston which necessitated his retirement from ring action at this time. Rather than offer a substitute bout, the Olympia A. C., sponsors of the show, decided to await a time later in the season when Lamar will be able to fight.

Local fight fans have been eagerly looking forward to the bout, as it would have brought together two native sons between whom there is warm rivalry. Three years ago Lamar and Gallagher fought to a draw before a capacity audience at Silver Spring, and the question of who is the superior still goes undetermined.

Both Acquire New Managers.

Since their last meeting both fighters have advanced in the fistic game, Lamar campaigning in and around Boston and Gallagher appearing in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Miami.

Lamar is under the management of Johnny Buckley, who handles the affairs of Jack Sharkey, while Gallagher has aligned himself with Buckley's chief rival, Dan Carroll, who manages Jim Maloney and Honey Boy Finnigan.

Winner Leads From Start; Jock Eased Up at End.

By J. B. SNODGRASS

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., April 16. Frank Coltletti, on The Heathen, cut the breeze from start to finish of the Harford Handicap here today and was an easy winner at the end of 6 furlongs with his entry mate, Balko, three lengths back and second. After that came Earl Sande on the first of the Glen Riddle horses, On Her Toes, and Battleship Gray, the second of them, finished a head back of his stablemate.

The race was the first of the four big stakes which feature the meeting and netted C. H. Pierce, owner of the winner, $10,200. Players who backed the winning entry into favoritism were paid $8.30 for a $2 winning ticket and almost as much for place, since The Heathen and Balko ran one-two. Balko bore the Sagamore Stable colors and was making his first start of the season, as were On Her Toes, Battleship Gray and others of the eleven starters.

A raw, penetrating rain fell all of the afternoon, but it did not stop thousands of racegoers who had been frozen out of Philadelphia and Baltimore ball games from standing unsheltered for the sixteen and a half minutes that the horses milled at the post. Chic Boy, the only horse remaining in the mutuel field after several scratches, delayed the start, and so did On Her Toes.

On Her Toes Second In First Furlong.

My Sis and Jock, which finished one-two in last year's Harford, gave no trouble at the barrier, and when the break came all were away smoothly with The Heathen having a step the best of it. On Her Toes, with Sande piloting her along the rail, rushed out to be second in the first furlong.

On Her Toes could not keep her second place, and soon Balko had only The Heathen ahead of him. This happened on the far turn, and there was no more to the race, unless it was the last-minute charge of Battleship Gray.

From the far turn to the wire The Heathen kept going away and Balko was right in there in the second notch, just in case of need. But there was On Her Toes two lengths to the rear of Balko and not gaining anything despite Sande's best efforts. Battleship Gray, however, came from far back to be fourth.

Beacon Hill, Jock Disappoint.

The time of the race was 1:13 3-5 and was something of a disappointment for those who backed such well known horses as Beacon Hill, Jock and Gun Royal. The Whitney winner of the Travers opened favorite, but receded to a close third choice back of the two entries. He never got up steam and finished eighth. Jock was the topweight of the field with 126 pounds, and he never could get through and finished next to last, after being eased, just back of Gun Royal. My Sis, far poorer than last year, finished sixth.

The secondary feature called the Good and Gay Purse, was for fillies and only three remained to run when trainers got through scratching their charges. One of the three was Harry Payne Whitney's Murky Cloud and she was making her debut. Made the favorite, Murky Cloud finished second back of Her Grace, owned by Ral Parr.

Miss Blanche Watson's filly, Chattering, drew away in the sixth race to win by six lengths, with Francis St. L., taking the place easily from Easter. Ping Coates was fourth. Ulverston, the favorite, could never untrack himself on the greasy track and was at no time threatening. Fry had Chattering off in front at the first time and was never in danger. The winner paid $11.000. Time, 1:47; a mile and 70 yards.

Little America Romps Home in Opener.

Mrs. V. M. Duncan's High Cloud ally Little America, making her first start since she ran in Florida in the opening race here today, won the easiest kind of victory the 4½ furlong dash for 2-year-old maiden fillies, leading Over Shady by a length and a half, never extended. The Nevada Stock Farm's Over Shady, in turn, was ridden out to beat the fast-closing Hieaway from the J. P. Jones Stable by a head for the place. Bright Comet was fourth four lengths back.

Walls had the mount on Little America and while Over Shady got a step at the barrier, Little America was leading in a flash and drew away four lengths in front but was eased up into stretch. She ran the distance in the slow going in 0:54 4-5, only two-fifths of a second slower than Equipose ran the same distance yesterday on a fast track. She paid $7.20.

Mud Beats Genuine By Four Lengths.

The Justa Farm's Mud won the second race. Mrs. W. J. Potter's Genuine, the contender in every start he has made in Maryland but unable to hold his lead to the finish, again ran true to form by finishing second, but was beaten four lengths. The Glen Riddle Farm's Man o' War colt, Shipmaster, was third, gaining from a slow start.

Cimerak got Genuine away to a good start, but his horse was no match for Mud, and before reaching the stretch the winner was in front and drawing away. He paid $7.60. The time was 1:13 2-5. Jockey Quackbush rode the winner.

Her Grace Triumphs In 3-Horse Field.

The rain continued through the afternoon and at post-time for the Good and Gay Purse for fillies, only three started. Murky Cloud, Lost Agnes and Her Grace comprised the field for the five and a half furlongs. The race proved a good one. Ral Parr's Her Grace held out to win by a length from H. P. Whitney's Murky Cloud and Lost Agnes had fallen back two lengths.

Her Grace led all the way, but Lost Agnes was a keen contender for the first two furlongs. Workman sent Murky Cloud up fast on the outside at the stretch turn to beat the Montpelier filly easily for place. The winner paid $10.50. The time was 1:06 3-5.

DISTRICT AND VIRGINIA NINES IN MEETINGS TONIGHT

League Clubs To Plan for Season.

Separate Gatherings Listed; Entries Still Open.

Legion Clubs to Hold Meeting Tomorrow Night.

TWO sections of the unlimited division of the Capital City Baseball League, sponsored by The Washington Post, will complete their preliminary organization and clear the stage for the opening games early next month at meetings tonight.

Managers of the teams which will battle in the Virginia section will gather at 8 o'clock tonight in the Jefferson District Fire Department at Virginia Highlands to draft rules, set a date for the opening of the season and arrange other details.

At the same time, managers of the teams in quest of the District section honors of the same class will meet in the offices of the Municipal Playground Department in the District Building. The selection of umpires is the most important piece of business confronting this group. Several additional teams, not represented at last week's initial meeting, plan to have representatives present tonight. This group includes the Aztecs, who were in the thick of the fight last season.

All Virginia Teams Invited.

Eastern Track Team Faces Episcopal Today

Lacking only Frank Miles, 1-mile interscholastic champion, who is on the shelf with a bad foot, Eastern High School's track team will invade Alexandria today with hopes of accomplishing something which Tech was unable to do—defeat Episcopal High in a dual track meet. Coach Mike Kelley is planning to enter around 25 men in the meet this afternoon, most of them letter winners of the 1929 squad.

Exceptionally strong in the dashes and running events, only in the field is Eastern dubious regarding the outcome today. Against Tech the Episcopal lads swept everything before them in the shot put, discus and javelin throw, but Kelley is hopeful that his charges may hold their own against their hosts in these events.

A week from Friday the Eastern track men will meet the University of Maryland Freshmen at College Park, before entraining for the Penn relays on the following day.

INDIGNATION WAVE MYSTIFIES PEGLER

There is nothing wrong with the boys, who are merely upholding the oldest traditions of pugilism, and to me this is reassuring, for it means that notwithstanding the intrusion of the millionaire, the prize-fight industry is still the most picturesque of the rackets. American literature runs largely to crime and the criminal nature of the prize-fight racket is all that saves it from monotony. The contest in the ring for a heavyweight championship is never as interesting as the scheming and conniving which has preceded the fight, and if any one doubts this let some good writer try to sell a fiction story about a heavyweight championship bout in which everything is strictly sportsmanlike and on the level.

run as a result of his single and Miller's suicide. Oliver shot a liner toward short. Cronin snared the ball and his toss to Myer reached second before the runner could hustle back.

It took a good catch by Rothrock to keep the Nats from scoring in the final round, which Bluege opened with a single to short center. He stole second as Ruel took a third strike and stayed there while Narleasky was catching Hadley's pop. West then shot a liner toward right center which looked like a sure hit, but the Sox rightfielder was after it at the crack of the bat and just managed to fasten himself on the end of it following a long run. Hadley then clinched victory by setting the Sox down in order in their half of the inning.

Virginia Tennis Team Sees Stars on Screen

Charlottesville, Va., April 16.—Virginia's tennis team is going to take a lesson from some of the greatest court stars of America and Europe tomorrow night in Peabody Hall, when the players have an opportunity to see the special moving picture prepared by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Bill Tilden, Helen Wills, Henri Cochet, Billy Johnson and Manuel Alonzo are among the court stars seen in slow motion and in suspended animation pictuers in order that their strokes may be closely studied.

The Cavalier racquet men, who have just returned from a three-day trip, have their next two matches at home. They play Washington and Lee on the Madison Hall courts Friday afternoon, and Johns Hopkins next Tuesday. C. Alphonse Smith, jr., is captain of the 1930 tennis team.

Lexington, Va., April 16.—The University of Virginia Baseball Team broke into the win column today with a 6-2 victory over Washington and Lee. Ellis, Cavalier pitcher, held the Generals to two hits and effectively stopped their winning streak which had extended through five games. Bryant's home run in the second inning started the scoring for Virginia and he and his teammates added five more before the game was over. Washington and Lee used three pitchers, Atwood, Radford and Williams. Atwood pitched the first four innings and retired in favor of Radford, who in turn gave way to a pinch hitter in the eighth. Leigh Williams finished the game. Eight errors, divided equally between the two teams, marred the play of the game and permitted runs to be scored.

Ellis pitched masterful ball and only Mattox and Cross were able to connect.

The crack Alexandria runner is in better condition for this event than any of the previous races he has entered. He has been training for the last two months. Fields will represent the Engine Company No. 5 in this race. Two other members of the department left with the local boy and will assist him. Last year he covered 17 miles in the marathon, but was forced out by a "charley horse."

The strength of the Episcopal High School Track Team will be tested tomorrow afternoon when the Eastern High School, from Washington, comes to Hoxton Field for a dual meet. In a previous meet Episcopal won easily, scoring an impressive victory over Coach Hardell's Tech High School trackmen. Coach Tompins has been drilling his boys in the running events where the local school is weakest. Capt. Coles will lead the weight men in the field events.

George Mason High School will meet its first Third District foe on Friday when it plays the Fredericksburg High School on Duncan Field.

V. P. I. Beats N. C., 5-2, In Tri-State League

Blacksburg, Va., April 16.—V. P. I. opened the Tri-State League season with a 5-2 victory over University of North Carolina in a diamond thriller here today. Hooper, of V. P. I., and Lufty and Blythe, of Carolina, hit home runs, with none on bases.

Mapp, Gobbler right-hander, repeatedly turned back the Carolinians in the pinches and allowed seven safeties to win his second game of the season. Save for Hooper's circuit drive in the second inning and singles by Nicholas and Hooper, who scored when Smith drove a long fly to Maus in the fifth, Edwards held the Gobblers at bay.

Coach Ashmore sent Wright to the mound for Edwards in the eighth. Neihouse, who led the Tech attack with three safeties in four times at bat, greeted him with a long double to right, scoring Rule and Nicholas with the deciding runs.

ST. JOHN 17-0 LACROSSE WINNER

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., April 16.—St. John's College stickmen mauled Randolph-Macon, 17 to 0, in the annual game played here today on a water-soaked field, with a cold rain falling through a major portion of play. The Johnnies scored 9 goals in the first half and 8 in the second, and at that substitutes played nearly half time, showing the power of the Johnnies' reserves.

The Johnnies' 9 scores in the first half were distributed among six players and the scoring came pretty much in sequence. In the second period Bobby Pool scored 15 seconds after the face off, carrying the ball down the field for the point. Less than a minute later John repeated. Hines, of the sub-twelve, was the high point scorer with four goals, while MacCartee and Pool each sent three past goal tender, Burch, of the Virginians. Upon the few occasions the Virginia attack men got the ball they showed prowess, though not enough to threaten seriously. The visitors' defense, on the other hand, was lamentably weak.

Dedication of Boathouse Scheduled.

Simple, but interesting ceremonies will mark the dedication of the new boathouse building at the Naval Academy on Saturday, according to the program announced today. The structure, erected at a cost of nearly $300,000, of which $250,000 was appropriated by Congress, will be christened "Hubbard Hall," in honor of Rear Admiral John Hubbard, of the Navy (retired), now living in Washington. Admiral Hubbard is known as the father of Navy rowing, having stroked the first crew organized at the academy. It was a four-oared combination back in 1870.

Rear Admiral Samuel S. Robison, superintendent of the academy, will be master of ceremonies, and deliver one of four addresses. The other speakers will be Admiral Hubbard, Representative Stephen W. Gambrill and Rear Admiral Richard H. Leigh, chief of operations.

There will be triangular brushes for varsity, junior varsity and 150-pound crews, and Navy and Columbia will stage a freshmen race.

All will be rowed over the Henly distance of a mile and five-sixteenths and the regatta will be one of the most extensive ever staged on Severn River.

Election of Grid Leader Delayed.

Navy will not elect a captain of its football team until just before launching the fall campaign, but announcement was made today of the selection of W. E. Morring, 1931, of Sanatobia, Miss., as manager.

An X-ray examination made today revealed that Midshipman Elisé C. Hills, Highland, Kans., member of the Plebe Baseball Team, suffered a fracture of the leg when he slide into second base during practice yesterday afternoon. Ensign "Thug" Walsh, coach, rated Hills as one of the outstanding players of the freshmen group and the team has suffered a severe loss.

Navy Gets Tennis Coach.

The boom given to tennis at the Naval Academy in late years, moved the Navy Athletic Association to employ an expert racqueter to handle the Middies, and announcement was made today of the appointment of George Gaudet, of Cincinnati, Ohio, member of the university tennis team of that city, as coach. Gaudet arrived in Annapolis today and promptly entered upon his duties.

Gaudet has been mentor of the Meadow Brook Club, Southampton, Long Island. The Tars were booked to meet Colgate racqueters today but rain prevented.

Navy-Bucknell Game Cut by Rain.

Rain finally won out over the baseball game between Naval Academy and Bucknell College here today. The contest was started in a downpour on an already miry field, but after two Bucknell men had been retired in the fourth frame, with the Middies leading, 3 to 2, the tilt was stopped and called a no-decision affair. This came when a driving rain set in.

Randolph-Macon, Held To 1 Hit, Wins 3 to 2

Woodberry Forest, Va., April 16.—Errors proved costly to Woodberry Forest here this afternoon and enabled Randolph-Macon Academy, of Front Royal, to overcome a two-run lead and clinch a closely played game, 3 to 2. Venable, local mound artist, allowed the visitors but one hit throughout the game, while his teammates, led by Capt. Woollen, gathered in a goodly share of base hits. Woollen got a single, a double and a home run in four trips to the plate. The game was called at the end of the seventh inning.

VIRGINIA CUP RACE REAL TEST

4-Mile Course Lies Over Rolling Land With 17 Fences

WARRENTON, Va., April 16 (A. P.).—Stamina as well as speed will count when a dozen or more timber toppers race away in the Gold Cup Steeplechase here on Saturday, May 3, for the course lies up hill and down over seventeen hard fences that call for good horses and plenty of horsemanship.

The four-mile course lies over the estate of Baldwin D. Spillman with ample space for the ten thousand spectators who are expected to see the race, the last of the spring over timber. Two races are be run between 12 and 1 o'clock as preliminaries to the Gold Cup.

Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Winmill have offered a handsome cup, known as the "Clovelly Cup" to be raced for in a two and one-half-mile course over brush. Mr. and Mrs. George Sloan have offered the "Whitehall Cup" to the winner of a two and one-half mile race over timber. Both races will be run at Clovelly, the country estate of Mr. and Mrs. Winmill.

The Virginia Gold Cup is now on exhibition here, on it inscribed the names of the horses, owners and riders who have taken a leg on it since it was put in competition in 1926. It is the second Virginia Gold Cup, the first having been permanently won by Mrs. Katherine Hitt, who won three times.

1926—Billy Barton; Howard Bruce, owner; Albert G. Gober, rider.

1927—Dum Dum; T. Morgan Bowen, owner; Donald H. Pierce, rider.

Entry blanks have been mailed out by Baldwin D. Spillman, secretary, and the entries close at midnight on April 26, one week before the race. The recent race at Middleburg took a heavy toll, as both Sea Soldier and Dunk's Green, winner of last year's Gold Cup, were so badly injured they had to be destroyed.

Virginia Lacrosse Men Play Georgia Tech

Charlottesville, Va., April 16.—Georgia Tech is the next team to be played by the Virginia lacrosse men. The Atlanta stick handlers appear tomorrow afternoon on Lambeth Field.

Virginia's lacrosse players came from behind to defeat Randolph-Macon in the second game of the season last Friday. Earlier in the week they lost to the Oxford-Cambridge combination in the Flannery Cup series.

Coach Welch has high hopes that his charges can conquer the Georgia Tech Team and the University of Georgia twelve which plays here next Monday. Capt. Ken Crowther is now back in the line-up, and the Virginians are generally stronger as the result of playing two preliminary games.

How to Keep Well

TREATMENT OF NAIL WOUNDS.

DR. J. J. MOREHEAD advises the following method of treating a wound due to a nail puncture: If the wound, or the skin nearby, is very greasy he first cleanses it by washing it with gasoline, kerosene or automobile soap. The next step is to immerse the wound in a mixture of water and soapsuds, preferably warm, and to keep it there for about half an hour. The skin is then dried thoroughly, after which full-strength iodine is used. In order to get it to the bottom of the nail puncture he injects it with a fine-nozzled syringe.

Most physicians advise against putting iodine into wounds, thinking it too irritating. What is called tincture of iodine is an alcohol solution, and it increases and in capacity to burn the longer it stands. It may be that the need of killing any lockjaw microbes in a nail puncture justifies the free use of iodine. In fact, many experienced physicians advise the injection of preventive lockjaw antitoxin in all nail punctures, or at least in those in which the wound was made in or around a stable or garden.

After treating with iodine, Dr. Morshead applies a wet dressing made with one teaspoonful of tincture of iodine to a pint of saline solution. This dressing is changed daily for three days. Throbbing and heat near the wound indicate threatened trouble.

A lacerated wound of the scalp he treats as follows: The wound is thoroughly cleansed with soap and water. From 10 to 30 minutes should be given to this cleansing. The wound should be thoroughly inspected. Foreign bodies are apt to be driven into the tissues between the skin and the scalp, and when they are left there they are apt to cause trouble. Clots of blood in such wounds are almost certain to become infected wounds.

They should not be tightly closed with adhesive tape or collodion, or anything else. Nor should they have airtight dressings applied. If a physician thinks it advisable to sew such a wound the stitches should be put in place, but they should not be tied until after three days and not then if the wound is suppurating or oozing much.

He is not in favor of very much lancing of boils or carbuncles. If they are to be lanced the cut should be limited to the areas softened by the pus "coming to a head." Cutting beyond and into hard tissues is liable to spread infection.

STOCKS FEATURED BY FIRM UTILITIES

SOUTHERN RAILWAY OFF

New York, April 16 (A.P.).—The bull crowd fought a losing battle in a wobbly stock market today. Traders were anxious to take profits in advance of the three-day Easter closing, but vigorous bidding up of utilities and some of the more volatile specials carried prices substantially higher for a time in the afternoon. A 10-point break in American Telephone late in the day, however, attributable to heavy profit taking after the announcement of the offer of rights, was accompanied by heavy selling in pivotal shares in the last hour. The price index of 90 leading issues showed a gain of 1.1 points on the basis of 1 p. m. prices, and a loss of 1.4 as computed on closing prices. Sales aggregated 4,397,660 shares.

The day's corporate and trade news continued fairly faborable. Of absorbing interest to Wall street was the report of acquisition by Radio Corporation of General Electric's and Westinghouse Electric's radio manufacturing business, equipment, and license, in return for large blocks of Radio common stock, which will place General Electric, now a dominant factor, in practical control of Radio, and give Westinghouse a substantial minority interest. Wall street regards this move as bringing Radio common nearer to a dividend basis, as General Electric and Westinghouse will participate in Radio earnings only to the extent that dividends may be declared on Radio stock. The plan appeared to have been fairly well discounted marketwise, as Radio stock closed up only ¼.

Telephone Offer Predicted.

The basis of the American Telephone offer, amounting to the cutting of a melon of more than $300,000,000 in rights, had been rather accurately forecast in Wall street for several weeks, and had already been fully reflected in the market action of the stock as was evidenced by the 10-point break once the formal announcement was out of the way.

The weekly steel trade reviews indicated a moderate quickening of activity in steel mill operations, attributable largely to the increasing activity of automobile manufacturers. Standard Statistics Co. stated that demand for autos has been running ahead of production. President Wilkinson, of Crucible Steel, told stockholders that incoming orders are larger than any previous time this year, and the outlook for the year was satisfactory. The car loadings figures for the latest week were considerably more favorable than they have been of late.

Among the buoyant features, Allied Chemical rose 11 points; Case Threshing and Vanadium, about 9, but the late reaction whittled down these gains by about 4 points. Eastman Kodak rose more than 8 points to a new 1930 top, and close up 6. Engineering Public Service, Coca Cola and Standard of Kansas were also strong spots.

Southern Railway Loses.

On the other hand, American Locomotive, Eureka Vacuum, United States Industrial Alcohol, National Cash Register and Southern Railway dropped about 2 to 5 points to new lows for the year or longer. Pressure against the rails was heavy, New York Central, New Haven, Atchison, Norfolk & Western and others lost from 2 to 3 points. American & American Water Works, Consolidated Gas, National Air Transport, Hupp Motors and Columbian Carbon were among shares sagging about 3 points. General Electric and Westinghouse Electric lost about 4. Checker Cab dropped nearly 9.

Commodity markets gave a better account of themselves. Wheat closed about 1 to 2 cents higher, reflecting better export movement, and less favorable weather reports. Corn sold up substantially, and cotton rallied $1.35 to $1.55 a bale.

Credit conditions eased a little, with the passing of the midmonth demands. Call money sagged to 3½ per cent, after renewing at 4. Foreign exchanges were generally firm, with the exception of sterling, cables sagging 1-16 to $4.86¼. The movement of sterling to New York is attributed in some quarters to the proposed increase in British taxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, April 16 (A.P.).—Unabated drought in much of the wheat belt Southwest, especially western Kansas and western Oklahoma, boosted wheat values today. There were also indications that export demand for wheat from North America had broadened out to a notable degree, and that shipments from Australia were curtailed. Besides, domestic mill purchasing of wheat in Chicago today was the largest in some time.

Wheat closed nervous, but at nearly the day's top level 1¼@2¾c a bushel higher than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1@1¾c up, oats 1¼@2¾c advanced, and provisions showing 5@12c gain.

Official advices from the Southwest confirming earlier news that drought relief in a large part of Kansas and Oklahoma had proved inadequate, and that heavy rains still were needed, formed the outstanding feature in the wheat pit. The official reports were especially significance to dispatches saying that unless general soaking rains came before May 1 Kansas might not raise 100,000,000 bushels this season, compared with 138,000,000 bushels last year. Under such circumstances traders who had overreached themselves in selling on rain reports made haste to take a reverse market position. There was lively general buying, too, on the ground that prices had gone too a bushel lower than last week, and that holidays ahead pointed to a widespread evening up process as likely.

Toward the end of the day definite estimates were circulated that new export business in North American wheat totaled far in excess of 1,000,000 bushels. Meanwhile definite forecasts were in hand that Argentina would ship only 1,727,000 bushels of wheat this week as against 4,085,000 bushels last week. Nebraska despatches telling of fresh general rains failed to stimulate selling, and as did word of favorable progress of spring wheat seeding Northwest. On the contrary, many buying orders from Eastern sources absorbed all surplus offers, and the day ended with prospects that Southwest drought would continue to dominate the market.

Corn values owed much of their strength to news that lake vessels were passing through the Straits of Mackinaw. It was reported that therefore the Chicago grain fleet would clear shortly for Buffalo and that a decided reduction of Chicago stocks of corn would result. Oats followed corn upgrade.

TELEPHONE BONDS LOSE 1 1/4 POINTS

STOCK OPTION LISTS OFF

New York, April 16 (A.P.).—Standard Investment Bonds sagged again today in a market that had little vitality. Rails suffered most noticeably from the lack of buying interest and prices of numerous high grade carriers eased half a point or so. Utilities and industrials were extremely dull.

Approximately 45 per cent of the day's business in the entire list was done in the American Telephone convertible 4½s. These debentures, in a turnover of about $6,500,000 par value, lost 1 1/4 points on the selling of the stock following the announcement of share rights. Holders of the bonds will not receive these rights and it is expected that this provision will accelerate conversion. The debentures were issued a year ago to the amount of $219,000,000 and a substantial amount of the offering has already been exchanged.

The softer rails included Boston & Maine 5s, Chesapeake & Ohio 4½s, New Haven 4½s, Missouri Pacific 5s, Northern Pacific 6s, St. Louis San Francisco 4½s, and Union Pacific 4s, all of which averaged half a point lower. There were larger losses in Union Pacific first 4s, Southern Pacific 4½s, Pennsylvania general 4½s, and Canadian National 5s. New Haven 6s of 1940, which may be called for redemption this year, were firm at 105½. St Paul issues eased on considerable liquidation, the adjustment 5s making a new low at 68, 10 points below their high of last month.

Stock option bonds were almost uniformly lower. Atchison 4½s, General Theaters 6s, International Telephone 4½s, Loew's 6s, Reading Coal & Iron 6s and Shubert 6s sank from nearly 1 to 2½ points.

Foreign obligations moved erratically and failed to develop much of a trend. Fiat 7s and Kreuger & Toll 5s, both carrying warrants were fairly active and higher, the former rallying more than a point. The Swedish Match Co. and the International Match Co., two of the Kreuger & Toll concerns, will get a profit of $7,500,000 through the French government's decision to redeem the $75,000,000 loan it obtained three years ago from the match trust. These bonds were sold at 93½ and are to be retired at 103½. The largest part of the issue was taken by International Match, whose debenture 5s are listed on this market. They rose ¼ today.

BANKERS TO OPPOSE SENATE'S MEASURE

TRUST DEEDS INVOLVED

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Opposition to Senate bill regulating foreclosure of mortgages and deeds of trust in the District, in its present form, was formally expressed by the District of Columbia Bankers Association at a special meeting yesterday and its law and legislative committee was authorized to appear at any hearings on the legislation with the foregoing understanding.

Action was taken following the committee's recommendations that the association oppose enactment of the bill as written, this group citing numerous objections to it. Among the most important of these were the fear that with the bill becoming law, home buyers would have greater difficulty in obtaining loans of the size now available; that it would tend to increase interest rates charged them and that rates of commission and other costs for procuring loans would tend upward.

From the standpoint of the lender, it was declared expense of foreclosure would be increased; the delay in foreclosing would tend to keep outside capital from seeking investment in real estate loans in the District and that where small-priced payments now make it possible for many people to be home buyers instead of renters, this law would likely discourage selling of property on small cash payments except by contracts of sale where the title remains in the seller.

The question of earlier closing of the city's banks for daily public business will be resubmitted to representatives of member banks of the District of Columbia Bankers Association at a regular meeting at association headquarters in the Becker Building, 1818 F street northwest, Monday afternoon, at 4 o'clock.

This question was originally submitted to member banks about three years ago, but a referendum on the matter failed to reveal unanimous approval and it was deferred. Now, with the knowledge that 2 o'clock in the afternoon closing is in effect in approximately 90 per cent of banks in cities of the Eastern United States, proponents of the plan will again present it for a discussion at this meeting, and it is hoped the subject will be given consideration by a large and representative attendance. Most local banks now close for public business at 3 o'clock on all days but Saturday and then at 12 o'clock. On Federal pay days they remain open until 5 and 5:30.

Adoption of the plan, it is explained by its advocates, will result in easier conditions for both officials and employes, as it permits of an earlier disposal of regular daily private business which must be transacted following the closing of institutions to the public.

To Submit Semiannual Reports.

This meeting being the last regular meeting of the association prior to the annual convention, semiannual reports will be submitted by chairmen of the sections and all committees.

Meetings of the safe deposit section and protective committee of the association will be held today and tomorrow. Its convention chairmen and vice chairmen will meet with its council of administraton.

John F. Brawner, son of the late John W. Brawner, has been elected vice president and general manager of Waggaman, Brawner & Co., Inc., investment bankers, taking the place of Frank B. Pryor, who resigned owing to ill health. Thomas E. Kelley, assistant treasurer of Waggaman, Brawner & Co., has been elected secretary and a member of the board of directors.

Elliot H. Thomson, of the Washington Loan & Trust Co., addressed students of the Raymond Riordon School last night on "The Salesmanship of Service."

Exchanges Will Close On Friday and Saturday

New York, April 16 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—The New York Stock Exchange, The New York Curb Exchange, the Over-the-Counter market, the Produce exchange, and all security and commodity markets in the financial district will be closed Friday and Saturday. The closing Friday is occasioned by Good Friday, and members of the exchange voted to extend the holiday over Saturday in order to allow a three-day week-end.

Banks and other financial institutions will remain open. Many brokerage offices, while not open to the public, will utilize the time to catch up in the heavy accounting work

EXPELLED STUDENTS WIN CAMPUS RIGHTS

INJUNCTION IS IN FORCE

Harrogate, Tenn., April 16 (A.P.).—Nine expelled students of Lincoln Memorial University returned to the campus today following modification by Chancellor J. H. Wallace at Tazewell, of temporary injunctions which had restrained them from going on university property. Chancellor Wallace held that the students, who had paid for dormitory rooms and meals in advance, were entitled to the use of them to the date paid.

Temporary injunctions restraining the nine students from "aiding or inciting a strike" are still in effect. Injunctions against three professors and their wives preventing them from "agitating a strike," will not prevent them from occupying their homes on the university campus, Chancellor Wallace said.

More than 200 students from the university attended the court hearing instead of classes. Hearings on notices given Profs. M. G. Miller and E. Van N. Diller to vacate their university homes will be held Sunday at Cumberland Gap. An eviction notice given Prof. Alfred De Jonge will be heard later.

Preliminary hearing will be held Saturday for Clay McCarroll and Ernest Fields, expelled students, charged with rioting.

One Dies, One Held When Holdup Fails

Newark, N. J., April 16 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—One man is dead, another is locked up in police headquarters and the police are seeking a third, believed to be a Negro, as the result of an attempt late Tuesday night to hold up the drug store of Fred and Julius Jung.

The dead man was identified as Herbert Schumsky, 23, of Hillside, N. J., where he lives with his mother. His body was discovered by the police in an abandoned automobile similar to the one used in the holdup. The second man, who police said was identified as one of the hold-up men, is William Heslin, 23, of Newark.

The Jung brothers were in the drug store shortly before midnight Tuesday night when two hold-up men entered with drawn guns and ordered Fred Jung to throw up his hands. He obeyed and then Schumsky prodded him in the jaw with his pistol. Losing his temper, Jung reached into his pocket and brought out a pistol and both invaders turned and ran for the door. Jung fired, and one of the men staggered but kept running. The two men entered an automobile parked outside the store in which a third man, believed to be a Negro, was waiting and sped away.

Freed Missionary Arrives in Hankow

American Woman Wins Freedom as Ransom Is Refused.

Hankow, April 16 (A.P.).—Miss Nina E. Gemmill, an American missionary, formerly of Girard, Kans., and Tacoma, Wash., arrived here today from a bandit's camp in Kiangsi Province Mountains, where she had been held for ransom.

As a result of her experiences since she was kidnaped March 27 in a raid upon Yuancow, Kiangsi, Miss Gemmill is confined to bed, highly nervous and unable to make a statement. It is understood, however, that the bandits released her, hoping to persuade mission officials to pay the demadned ransom of $60,000 ($30,000 gold).

The Rev. and Mrs. R. W. Portecus, English missionaries, who were kidnaped at the same time as Miss Gemmill, and at first held in the mountains southwest of Yuanchow, are reported to have been moved farther into the mountains by bandits to evade provincial troops. Negotiations for their release in consequence have been halted.

Automobile Death Case Results in Mistrial

A mistrial resulted yesterday in the trial of Jack Edwin Parker, 21 years old, on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of Mrs. Stella Herschberger, of Kingston, Pa. It was understood that one man held the jury from a verdict during its discussion.

Parker was charged with having struck and killed Mrs. Herschberger at Thomas Circle on November 8, 1927. He is alleged to have struck down Albert Herschberger the woman's husband at the time, and to have continued on his course after the accident.

Assistant United States Attorney Walter M. Shea, appeared for the Government, while Attorney Jefford & Dutton represented the defendant.

A Real Tragedy

It was a beautiful October afternoon on a ridge east of St. Juvin. The obstinate enemy had been forced back upon the town and he was then dug in less than a hundred yards away. Quiet for a brief interval had followed the never-to-be forgotten sounds and tumult of battle.

The human occupants of the newly dug foxholes on the ridge were taking things easy, and the cooties were having a hard time. Here and there a razor, reinforced by a drop of priceless water and a bit of soap, was attempting a long-delayed task. Acute hunger was prompting several hardened ones to make a dangerous search of many scattered three-day-old enemy dead. By crawling and wiggling these daredevils managed to work their way from victim to victim unseen by the nearby watchful and waiting foe. If the furry cowhide knapsacks failed to yield sustenance, a pair of shoes or some badly needed garment at least was acquired.

The military situation was tense, but a certain amount of relaxation was in evidence along the entire ridge. Every man, however, was prepared to snap on the instant into a renewal of the offensive, or to meet a counter attack from St. Juvin.

Suddenly out of the peaceful blue sky a lone whirling bullet-like projectile screamed! The warning was brief but ample! Heads ducked and prowlers fairly dived beneath the surface of the ground. With a flash and a crash the explosion followed just beneath the bottom of a foxhole occupied by two. Distant and cautious heads saw the bottom rise up. Earth, smoke and shrapnel went skyward. Those nearby could feel the very heat upon their flesh. The two occupants of the hole came out with the earth and the rest. Both landed upon their feet running in opposite directions. One with a home-run slide was safe upon the backs of two comrades in a nearby shellhole. The other was in the act of taking similar cover when he suddenly and unexpectedly checked himself, and to the surprise of his comrades swifty darted back to the scene of the explosion. Jumping into the crater, he frantically clawed the dirt and then raised to view the twisted and battered remanants of his oft-polished and beloved rifle The expression on his face as he surveyed the ruin was pathetic. He raised his eyes and met those of the commander a few paces away. In a voice of deep distress, heard by all in the vicinity, he fairly screamed: "Lieutenant! Lieutenant! Look what they done to me rifle!"

The Secret's Out

Just before we entered the World War and while unrestricted submarine warfare was being made on neutral vessels, the merchant steamer Fort Bragg was sunk off Mazatlan, Mexico. A San Francisco salvage firm assumed the contract to raise her. Two former Navy divers, Ole Hansen and Nels Forsberg, were sent down to do the diving. Their job was to close all compartments so water could be pumped out and air pumped in, thus raising the hip. As they worked their way through the compartments of the sunken ship they came into the captain's cabin. The ship had gone down by the head and left an air pocket in the stern. Suddenly, walking up the slanting decks, the two divers found they were only knee deep in water. Also they found a full case of Johnny Walker Scotch whisky. Hansen unscrewed Forsberg's face plate. Forsberg unscrewed Hansen's. They proceeded to get cockeyed, all the while sending up O. K. signals to the crew at the pumps. This went on for several days, with the pumping crew on the surface wondering how two Swedes in diving suits could get all varnished up on the bottom of the ocean.

Doughboys who made the overseas journey to France will well remember the cheers they let loose when Sims' Circus of brilliantly camouflaged, pitching, bucking, tossing destroyers burst into view over the horizon and assumed the zig-zag convoy that carried the troopships safely to France or England.

At home the various navy yards were stepping on the riveting hammers, shooting more and more of these greyhounds of the deep down the ways.

It was at the Navy Yard, Mare Island, Calif., that the destroyer Somers, amid great ceremony and a fine attendance of the social elite, was about to be launched. The fair sponsor lifted high a bottle of champagne and broke it across the bow of the Somers as that vessel slid gracefully down the ways. A neurotic flapper, hopping up and down, screamed, "Dear me! Didn't she slide down gracefully?" Came this from Batchy Coogan, the oldest Marine Corps corporal in the world, who was holding back the crowd, sotto voice, "Lady, if you got smacked across the nose with a quart of champagne you, too, would slide down gracefully!"

A Small City

After the armistice was signed I was given a three-day leave to visit Paris. As I did not wish to travel alone, I made an effort to get one or two of the members of the organization to accompany me. One said he would go along, but another was anxious to get a message to his "buddy" in Paris, and asked me if I would take this message with me. The evening of my first day in Paris I attended the boxing exhibitions held by the Knights of Columbus. While awaiting the opening bout I engaged in conversation with the soldier seated next to me. He told me his station was in Paris, and I asked him if by chance he knew this "buddy." Upon seeing the name on the envelope he replied: "Why, that's me."

"Semper Fidelis!"

Here's the Jerry's ball that got me.
Keep it right here in my kit.
It's the only one that got me, but I've heard others—
Passing by.

Passing by,
Passing by,
With a hissing, whistling sigh,
Nearly got you that time, Leatherneck,
Just a little bit too high.
But, hell, they're gone, and far behind you, when you hear them
Passing by.

There we lay from Thursday morning until Wednesday afternoon,
Ninth Infantry took our places, woke me up from out a swoon.
We were burning, burning up with thirst, mad with pain and fit to cry,
But we cheered them as they trampled on us, passed us,
Passing by.

Passing by,
Passing by,
And you'd hear some doughboy cry,
"Don't forget that our Old Glory Floats forever, do or die."
Guy, you'd hate to be a German when that gang went
Passing by.

Well, they gathered us together and they sorted out the worst,
The doctor called some "stretcher cases."
And they tended to us first,
But he was overworked and the doctor gave a sigh,
"Hopeless, that case; also that one," said the doctor,
Passing by.
And they lay there, silent and suffering and smiled as Hope went—
Passing by.

Passing by,
Passing by,
Cry of agony or muffled sigh,
O, it was no place for crybabies and a man has got to die,
But I thought I heard our chaplain murmur gently in reply,
"Greater love than this hath no man."
He was cheering some poor fellow,
Passing by.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

REED WILL ADDRESS CHAMBER MEMBERS

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

Representative Daniel Alden Reed, of Dunkirk, N. Y., will be the speaker at a community-wide smoker to be given by the Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening, April 24, according to an announcement yesterday by John Barton Phillips, president of the trade body. In addition to Mr. Reed's talk, there will be an entertainment program and refreshments.

Mayor Robert S. Jones, in a letter to President Phillips, has urged that the Chamber of Commerce take immediate action to increase its manpower and improve its financial condition, so that all of the possibilities of the city may be utilized, and a structure built which will be proportionate to the "greatest opportunity which has ever confronted the community." Mr. Phillips, in replying, states that the chamber sees the absolute necessity for extending greater finances to the industrial committee and of developing Alexandria's trade area through a cooperative program which should result, not only in greater immediate prosperity in the city, but also in a brighter future for the merchants and other business men.

Mr. Phillips then suggested to the mayor that he immediately appoint a committee of from 50 to 100 outstanding civic leaders and business men to meet with the campaign committee of the board of directors of the commerce chamber, to assist in developing the kind of program which was outlined by Mayor Jones, and to suggest the amount of money which will be required to carry out such a program over a three-year period. It is understood that the mayor will appoint his committee shortly.

Judge William P. Woolls, of the Corporation Court, has appointed C. S. Taylor Burke, of the banking firm of Burke & Herbert; Fred C. Goodnow, head of the real estate firm bearing his name, and Edward J. Fleming, for many years deputy city treasurer, as assessors to fix the value of all real estate in the City of Alexandria for a five-year period. The assessors will begin their work at once, and will have until September 1 to complete it.

The assessment which will be made at this time will be for the city, as the State of Virginia, by a recent act of the Legislature, abolished taxes on real property. Taxes on the new assessment will begin in 1931, the last assessment having been made in 1925, effective in 1926, by John D. Normoyle and Alfred Thomson, for the State.

Under the terms of the annexation decree, the territory which was acquired January 1 of this year will be exempt from any increase in taxes for five years from the effective date of the decree. In some instances, however, property in that territory may be assessed at a lower valuation than that now existing, and this valuation, it is understood, would govern.

A mass meeting of the Alexandria commuters, organized to protest against the proposed increase in passenger fares between Alexandria and Washington by the A., B. & A. Bus Line and the Washington-Virginia Railway, will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the auditorium of the Elks Home and will be presided over by Harry F. Kennedy. At this time the members of the association will be told of the hearing held in Richmond by the State Corporation Commission on April 8 when, according to those present, the statement was made to the commission by a representative of Robert L. May, owner of the bus line and electric railway, that those opposing the proposed fare increase represented only a small proportion of the Alexandria citizens.

At the hearing in Richmond Mr. May was allowed to present his case, and the commuters were given two weeks in which to prepare their arguments against the proposed increase.

The Rev. Ryland T. Dodge, pastor of the Baptist Temple and president of the Alexandria Ministerial Association, will preside at the Good Friday community service to be held at noon that day in the Richmond Theater, the use of which is donated by the Alexandria Amusement Co., through its manager, Earmon Reed. The invocation will be by the Rev. Pierce Ellis, of the First Baptist Church; Scripture lesson, the Rev. Emmett R. Spencer, of Trinity Methodist Episcopal Church; prayer, the Rev. D. L. Snyder, of the Methodist Episcopal Church South; sermon, the Rev. William F. McDowell, Bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, Washington, D. C.; singing led by the Rev. Ernest M. Delaney, the Second Presbyterian Church; benediction, the Rev. H. D. Brenner, Free Methodist Church.

Miss Margaret Ogden will sing during the offertory, which will be divided between the Anne Lee Memorial Home for the Aged and the Alexandria Day Nursery.

The Rev. Percy Foster Hall, of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, and the Rev. E. M. Delaney are in charge of arrangements for the service, and F. Clinton Knight will be in charge of the ushers.

The Rev. John C. Palmer, sky pilot of the Washington Kiwanis, will be the speaker today at the weekly luncheon meeting of the Alexandria Kiwanis Club, to be held in the George Mason Hotel. The Rev. Percy Foster Hall and the Rev. Ernest M. Delaney are in charge of the program, and the president, Robert G. Carter, will preside. The local Kiwanis Club is invited to visit the Richmond organization during "Adventure Days," April 26 to May 3, inclusive, particularly on April 28, at the regular meeting to be held at 6 p. m., in the Richmond Chamber of Commerce.

C. Page Waller has been elected president of the Retail Merchants Association, with Robert E. Knight, vice president; Charles B. Swan, secretary-treasurer, and John D. Matter, Julian Chauncey, Julius Wolf and Francis H. Fannon, directors.

Mrs. Louis F. Hoy is in charge of arrangements for the attendance of the American Legion Auxiliary at the Eighth District conference to be held in Culpeper on April 24, presided over by the district chairman, Mrs. H. W. Beattie, of Clarendon, and all visitors from the local unit are asked to notify Mrs. Hoy not later than Saturday.

Mrs. Almeda Penn Bullock, aged 30 years, died on Tuesday night at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Penn, 305 East Lloyd avenue, Del Ray. Besides her parents she is survived by a son, Edward T. Bullock, and two sisters, Mrs. Harvey Hitt and Mrs. Carroll Milstead.

The annual election of officers of Old Dominion Commandery, No. 11, Knights Templar, will be held tomorrow, Friday night.

Virginia School Body Ranks High

93 Per Cent of Eligible Teachers Are Members of Group in State.

Abingdon, Va., April 16 (A.P.).—Approximately 93 per cent of teachers eligible for membership in the Virginia Education Association are members of the organization, which numbers 15,805 of the teachers of the State, it was announced here today.

Virginia now has a rank of seventh in the classification based on the percentage of eligibles included in the association's membership, the States showing a higher rating being Maine, South Dakota, New Jersey, Utah, Michigan and Missouri. There was a gain of 3,099 members in Virginia last year over 1928.

During the last eleven years the National Education Association has grown in membership from 10,000 to 205,681. Virginia's part in this increase is shown by the fact that in 1907 this State was represented by 40 members, as compared with 2,010 at the present time.

GRAND JURY TELLS OF COUNTY NEEDS

NEW BUILDING IS URGED

Strong recommendation for erection of a commodious county building in or near Hyattsville, appointment of an assistant State's attorney and two county policemen, and a sharp criticism of the Bladensburg Jail, were embodied in a report of the Prince Georges County grand jury in its April term to judges of the Circuit Court made public yesterday.

The proposed county structure would house the Police Court, all county officers and agents stationed in the vicinity of Hyattsville, and a substation of the county jail.

"It may be urged that funds are unavailable for such undertaking, but it is believed that $800 now paid for rent, and other expenses will pay interest on bond to take care of such an undertaking," the report read. "The erection of such a building would greatly expedite the official duties of the county's officers and agents, and would remove a condition which is a reproach to an enlightened and progressive county such as Prince Georges. The population of this section is growing so rapidly that conditions are becoming more acute daily and it can not be ignored much longer without serious consequences."

Need of Prosecutor Aid Cited.

The grand jury cited the need of an assistant State's attorney, and requested an act of the State Legislature to create the position. The body recommended that the county commissioners immediately appoint two additional county policemen to meet a "real need," particularly in the suburban sections.

The grand jury indorsed fully a report rapping conditions at the Bladensburg Jail, which was made by a committee of its own selection, Charles Heffner, chairman; Eugene Entwisle, John Smith, T. M. Taylor and W. D. Blandford, who were accompanied in their inspection by Grand Jurors S. B. Shaw and W. E. Hardesterm. It cited considerable adverse criticism made in recent months against jail conditions by Washington newspapers and the Susan B. Anthony Foundation.

Building Is Described.

"The building is about 15 by 20, built of concrete and contains two cells and a corridor, each cell containing two bunks, running water and toilet. Three cots are set up in the corridor, thus normal accommodations is seven prisoners," the report continued.

"When more than this number are locked up, three additional springs and mattresses are spread on the floor, making maximum capacity ten. More than 20 prisoners have been locked up overnight at one time, partition between two cells no privacy possible, anywhere in jail. No attempt made to segregate races. Jail located on low ground close to Eastern Branch. Pestered with mosquitoes in summer, at times when branch overflows. Reliable witnesses testify that the jail has been flooded on several occasions. George Wiseman (jailer) denies this. The committee members saw a water mark on the wall of the building about 1 foot from the floor level.

$800 Rental Is Paid.

"County pays $200 to Bladensburg for part use of this jail and also rents quarters at Hyattsville for police court at $300; home demonstration agent, 300, making total of $800; none entirely satisfactory, and it is impossible to get satisfactory accommodations."

The grand jury rendered a favorable report on the Upper Marlboro Jail. It recommended removal of all advertising or similar structures tending to obstruct vision of motorists on highways.

"With a view of partially removing the difficulty encountered by the court in securing the services of capable men as jurors and also in consideration of the increased cost to jurors in court, it is recommended the the fee per diem be increased from $3 to $5," the report concluded.

JUDGE SMITH ENDS WORK IN ARLINGTON

PLUNGES INTO CAMPAIGN

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Signing of the minutes of the February term of the Circuit Court of Arlington County was the last official act that Judge Howard W. Smith performed in the county yesterday prior to his resignation, which is effective Saturday.

Judge Smith will go to Prince William County today to close the April term there and then go to Fairfax County, where he will sign the minutes closing the books for the April term of the Circuit Court. Judge Smith announces that he will now devote his entire time to his campaign for the nomination for Congress in the Democratic primary to be held in August.

Other candidates are State Senator Frank L. Ball and Capt. Crandal Mackey, former Commonwealth's attorney, both of whom are from Arlington County, and E. H. DeJarnette, from Orange County.

With the April term of the Circuit Court of Arlington County to convene Monday, much concern was evident about the courthouse yesterday as to who the governor will appoint to succeed Judge Smith.

The executive committee of the Arlington County Civic Federation will hold its monthly meeting tonight at the home of L. C. McNemar, 15 Pine street, Clarendon. Among the projects to be considered will be the proposed bond issue for enlargement to a number of the county schools, the filling of the standing committees, and a report from the committee in charge of the recent annual banquet.

Aroused over the proposal of J. O. Boss to erect an apartment house in Lyon Park, an application for a permit now being in the hands of County Engineer C. L. Kinnier, the citizens of Lyon Park will appear before the county board of supervisers today and enter a strong protest.

"The proposed site for the location of the apartment house is in the 'A' residential area of the pending zoning ordinance, the adoption of which by the board of supervisors is expected at any time," declared Arthur Orr, president of the Lyon Park Citizens Association.

Apparently Mr. Boss hopes to get under the wire and get something through a special permit which he will not be able to obtain after the adoption of the zoning ordinance."

The executive committee of the Parent-Teacher Association and other civic organizations of the county who are making a study of the school needs and plans for the proposed bond issue, will meet tomorrow night at a dinner meeting in the Boulevard Bakery at Clarendon at 6:30 o'clock, according to an announcement yesterday by Chairman Arthur Orr.

The meeting has been called to make plans for the circulation of petitions to be submitted to the circuit court asking that a date be set for the holding of a special election.

It is expected that County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp will have the petitions ready to be presented at this meeting, according to Mr. Orr. The committee proposes not only to secure the required number of signatures but to have as many as possible.

The monthly meeting of the Clarendon Citizens Association will be held tomorrow night in the rooms of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce at 8 o'clock. The officers of the Arlington County Civic Federation have been extended an invitation to attend.

State Senator Frank L. Ball is announced as the principal speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Arlington Rotary Club today at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club.

Charged with emptying raw sewage into an abandoned well, O. T. Dood, of Ballston, yesterday was given 30 days by Police Judge Harry R. Thomas in which to have the well properly cleaned out.

Sanitary Inspector Norbert Milnick, who had the warrant issued, warns citizens that when they have tapped into the city water system wells can not be used for such purposes. He stated that there would be no objections to the dumping of ashes in order to fill the well up.

Daniel A. Childs, William Hamilton, and Hamilton Brown, who are charged with grand larceny, were held for the action of the grand jury yesterday by Judge Thomas. Bond in each case was set at $500. William Hamilton was released. Herman H. Barrere, held on a charge of attempted larceny, was also held to the grand jury. Bond of $500 was likewise set.

The weekly luncheon meeting under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association of the James Monroe School will be held today at 12:30 o'clock at the schoolhouse.

Special Lenten services, with Holy Communion, will be conducted tonight at St. George's Episcopal Church at 8 o'clock by the rector, the Rev. Henry J. Miller. Tomorrow being Good Friday, a special three-hour devotional service will begin at 12 o'clock, "The Vigil at the Cross." In the evening at 8 o'clock the choir will sing a cantata, "Olivet to Calvary," by Maunder.

The Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's Association held its monthly meeting last night in the new firehouse of the Arlington Fire Department. President Walter V. Varney presided. The chiefs of the several departments were instructed by him to make a survey of all school buildings and report on protection against fire.

With more than 100 members attending, the Organized Women Voters of Arlington County celebrated its seventh anniversary with a birthday party held at the New Idea Country Club in Arlington County from 2:30 to 5 o'clock.

Mrs. Ruby Simpson, presiding, introduced the following speakers, all of whom congratulated the organization on its accomplishments: Judge Mary O'Toole, Mrs. Grace Hayes Riley, dean at the Washington School of Law; Mrs. Merritt O. Chance, president of the Woman's City Club, and Mrs. Albert H. Cohen, president of the Business and Professional Woman's Club of Arlington County.

The program included piano solos by Miss Amelia Bates and vocal solos by Mrs. Robert J. McFall, accompanied by Mrs. Robert D. Maltby.

The committee in charge of the arrangements was composed of Mrs. Joseph Haley, chairman; Mrs. Claude S. Semones, Mrs. N. Rex Hunt, Mrs. Florence E. Cannon, Mrs. H. P. Simpson and Mrs. J. H. Whalton.

Considering a number of sites for the proposed community house to be erected in Lyon Village, the executive committee of the Lyon Village Citizens Association, meeting last night at the home of I. C. Buchanan, voted to instruct the community house committee, of which Louis C. Carl is chairman, to investigate one particular site and make an effort to secure an option.

The committee indorsed a resolution, which will be submitted to the meeting of the association, calling upon the county board of supervisers to consider the improvement to Rucker avenue in its early spring road-building program.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., April 16.—After burning approximately 100 hours, during which thousands of acres of fine timber was destroyed, the Great North Mountain forest fire southwest of here has burned itself out.

Upwards of 400 fire fighters aided in bringing the flames under control. While at times a dozen dwellings, barns, churches and school houses were in great danger of being destroyed, and in several instances actually were afire, the loss to buildings was limited to one school house destroyed.

The fire burned over 40,000 acres and covered roughly a territory 15 miles in length and from 2 to 6 miles wide, or from Capon Springs, W. Va., on the south to within a few hundred yards of the village of Gore, Va. The loss in timber was estimated in excess of $100,000. While a small army of men was fighting the fire yesterday afternoon along the mountain sides observers in the Welltown section of Frederick county, 15 miles distant, witnessed the strange spectacle of burnt leaves falling from the sky.

Nesting Birds Die.

Game Warden Pingley said a great many birds nesting and about to mate in the State game sanctuary no doubt had been burned to death. It was estimated 50 years would elapse before timber growth could be restored.

Lynchburg, Va., April 16—H. M. Sears, supervisor of the Natural Bridge national forests, which suffered the worst fire during the past week-end in the history of the Federal ownership, has returned from Botetourt and Bedford Counties, where he directed the successful fight against the blazes.

Mr. Sears said the lookout discovered the first fire Friday afternoon. The big Blue Ridge blaze in the Shenandoah National Park has burned out after raging one day less than a week. This fire blazed over 10,000 acres, while the Black Rock blaze burned over between 2,000 and 3,000 acres in Rockingham and Albemarle Counties. These fires were separated by Brown's gap.

Harrisonburg, Va., April 16.—All forest fires in the Shenandoah Valley area were reported tonight as having burned out, ending the worst siege of blazes ever experienced here.

Shenandoah National Forest forces fought all last night to conquer two fresh blazes in Massanutten Mountain. These two fires burned over less than 50 acres.

The big Blue Ridge blaze in the Shenandoah National Park has burned out after raging one day less than a week. This fire blazed over 10,000 acres, while the Black Rock blaze burned over between 2,000 and 3,000 acres in Rockingham and Albemarle Counties. These fires were separated by Brown's gap.

FAIRFAX OFFICIALS MAKE SCHOOL TOUR

TAXPAYERS SUMMONED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 919-J-1.

Members of the Fairfax County School Board and Wilbert T. Woodson, divisional superintendent of schools, made a tour of inspection in Centerville and Lee districts yesterday. Here the conditions of the one-room schools, especially at Legato and Popes Head were found in deplorable condition. At Legato, 32 pupils were found in a delapidated one-room building with a large wooden stove located in the center of the room.

Most of the schools were built years ago by the old district school boards, who erected them seemingly without regard to possible future developments. This was before the State law which abolished school districts and made the county an educational unit. Members of the board stated yesterday that their greatest problem in consolidating these schools was the lack of improved roads whereby transporation for the pupils could be given when one of these schools was abandoned.

The school at Pohick and another in Lee district was not visited as most of the members were familiar with conditions there and the weather yesterday made the roads too slippery for travel.

The board decided to hold an informal meeting Tuesday night at 7:30 o'clock in the board room at Fairfax to confer on conditions they found. They will hold a joint meeting with the County Board of Supervisors Wednesday, April 30, on school conditions in Fairfax County.

In compliance with the tax code of Virginia, Commissioner of Revenue James U. Kinchelce is planning to meet taxpayers of Dranesville district at their several voting precincts for the purpose of assisting them in making their returns of their incomes and tangible and intangible property for this year. The failure on the part of the taxpayer to comply with the law which requires the returns to be made by June 1 means a penalty of 10 per cent of the amount of tax with a minimum of $2.

The commissioner or his deputies will be at the following places in Dranesville district on the dates specified: Colvin Run, Cockrill's Store, April 25; Shady Oak, Daly's St2ore, April 25; Shady Oak, Daly's Store, April 28; Dranesville, White's Store, April 29; Navy, Dove's Store, April 30; Floris, Bowman's Store, May 1, and the town of Herndon, Buell's office, May 2 and 3. Persons of this district failing to make returns on the above dates will have to make their returns at the commissioner's office in the courthouse at Fairfax.

An erroneous report has been circulated that Deputy Sheriff and Town Sergt. Vernon Cockrill of Herndon has made a regulation that all colored persons have to be off the streets of Herndon by 9 o'clock at night. Cockrill states that this is not true, but he has merely issued a warning to a certain class of colored persons that come to the town every Saturday night from the surrounding country to celebrate. He states that this element has created much disturbance during the past few months and that he does not intend to tolerate their disturbances any longer. If they persist in holding their celebrations as before he say that he intends to take more drastic measures.

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Fairfax Volunteer Fire Department met yesterday afternoon in the courtroom at Fairfax. Officers for the coming year were elected: Mrs. James E. Nickell, president; Mrs. Lewis Coyner, vice president for the East End; Mrs. Paul Alder, vice president for the West End; Mrs. Elton R. Holbrook, vice president for the North End, and Mrs. John M. Whalen, vice president for the South End of town. Mrs. N. P. Young was elected secretary and Mrs. Henry Beavers, treasurer.

The auxiliary voted to assist the men of the department in holding their spring carnival during the latter part of May by taking charge of the lunch booth. The president will appoint a committee to take charge of this work in the near future. It was also decided to hold its annual dinner on the courthouse lawn on Confederate Memorial Day, May 30.

The Ladies' Guild of the St. Paul's Episcopal Church at Baileys Crossroads will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wilson Rowe.

A meeting of the Fairfax County Bee Keepers Association was held in the old clerk's office building at Fairfax, where a talk on the spring care of bees was given by J. E. Brown, a practical bee keeper. Following this a round table discussion was held. It was decided to hold an open air meeting at 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the home of County Agricultural Agent H. B. Derr, about 2 miles east of Fairfax, on the Little River turnpike.

The pageant of the Holy Grail will be presented tonight in the Oakton High School by the junior and senior classes, under the direction of Miss Mary M. Snead, principal of the school. The junior girls will furnish the music, with Miss Helen Yeratt accompanist. The cast of the pageant includes Dorothy Ritchie, Catherine Fox, Thelma Spear, Pauline Sherwood, Esther Kincheloe, Mary Runyon, Blanche Grove, Herbert Hallman, Fred Leonthal, Francis Miller, Lowell Johnson, Warner Moore, Paul Hallman, Albert Cobb, Franklin Norfolk, William Butler, Raymond Blackman, Paul Kenyon, Harold Brown, Herman Miller and Karl Horn.

A resolution before the town council of Fairfax calling that body to hold a special referendum election on the question of dividing the town into four wards failed for the want of a second. The special meeting called by the mayor to discuss the question was poorly attended by the citizens of the town, so the council decided to let the matter drop. A bill was passed by the last State Legislature authorizing the council to submit to the voters this question of election of councilmen by wards. It is understood that this election had to be held within 30 days from the date the bill became a law or the law would be inoperative. The terms of all the members of the present council will expire in June.

There will be an all-day session of the Floris Farmers Club today at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Ellmore.

There will be a meeting of the Auxiliary and daughters of the King today in the parish hall at Falls Church.

and other volunteer fire departments ment has issued invitations to persons of the surrounding community and other volnteer frie departments of the county to attend a house warming tonight from 7 to 10 o'clock in the new engine house on Church street in Vienna. The department has planned an entertainment program. Refreshments will also be served. Three cisterns holding 13,000 gallons of water each will be built within the near future by the Vienna Town Council for the purpose of fire protection. These cisterns will be located one in the triangle in front of the residence of F. A. Wilcox; one on Park street on the property of Mayor Edgar T. Bennett and one at the junction of Maple avenue and Lewis street on land owned by E. L. Myers.

The Fairfax Garden Club will meet this afternoon at the home of Mrs. Charles Pickett. In accordance with the club's plan for beautification of the town, boxwood bushes have been set out around the entrance to the courthouse by the club. The group also has completed the grading around the town hall and has set out shrubbery about the hall. The club is making arrangements for a flower show to be held in the town hall on May 28. In answer to the club's offer to furnish seeds, 75 school children have signified their intention of having small gardens this summer. Prizes will be awarded for the best garden.

The schools of Fairfax County will close this afternoon for the Easter vacation. They will remain closed until Tuesday morning. Many schools will hold appropripate Easter exercises this afternoon.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

FROM the time we got up until after supper there was a constant stream of men at the front door, tramping through the kitchen.

"What's the idea of the big parade?" I asked as the last of the invading army tucked his tape measure under his arm and went away. They had all been measuring the walls and ceilings.

"Oh," said Luella, "I've been getting an estimate or two——"

"An estimate?"

"Yes," she said. "Since you can't find time to paint the kitche, I'm going to give the contract to one of the neighborhood firms——"

* * * *

"THE contract?"

"Well," she said, "I believe that's what thy call it."

"Did you advertise in the papers, asking the local firms to submit bids on painting the kitchen?"

She smiled. "I thought of doing that, but I called 'em up instead——"

"You called 'em up, and asked 'em to send men out here to make estimats. Is that it?"

"That's just it," she said. "We'll get the estimates in a day or so, or as soon as the mathematicians can figure it up——"

"Suppose it is? Couldn't a good painter run his eye over this little kitchen and tell——"

"That's the trouble with painters, as I see 'em," said Luella.

"They just run their eyes over the surface."

She meant me, of course, but I'm not really a painter, and told her so.

"No," she said, "if you were a good painter you could have given me an estimate on this job long ago."

* * * *

THAT sounded like a challenge.

"Well, I can give you an estimate on it——"

"You can, what is it?"

"I estimate it'll take about two quarts of good paint—a flat, first, and a glass finish later—and the job'll be done."

"I think you're wrong," she said, "it won't take over a quart——"

"And you asked all the big paint and varnish men to bid on this job—a job that'll only take a quart?"

"Certainly," said Luella, "what are they in business for? Isn't competition the life of trade?"

DRY OFFICIAL'S TRIAL FOR MURDER BEGINS

Special to The Washington Post.

Lynchburg, Va., April 16.—Indictments against V. O. Smith and W. A. Farmer, State prohibition agents, charged with shooting Joseph H. Cox here August 20, 1928, were called for trial in the Corporation Court this morning and the defendants elected to be tried separately. Smith, who, counsel said, would admit having fired the shot which killed Cox, was placed on trial first.

Seventy-nine witnesses, 52 for the State and 27 for the defense, were called. Little trouble was experienced in getting a venire of 20, from which a jury of 12 was selected.

Judge B. B. Campbell, of counsel for defense, told the jury that the defense expected to prove that the officers followed Cox four miles into the city; that they caught up with him twice and ordered him to stop and that the chase was concluded on Buena Vista street, where Cox was shot in the back and his car ran into an electric light pole. It was claimed that the officers had information that Cox was transporting liquor and they were waiting in Fairview Heights for him. Later it developed, it was said, that there were 65 gallons of liquor in the car.

Dr. J. Burton Nowlin, city coroner, testified that Cox's death was due to a pistol shot wound in his back, which penetrated his veterbra and that death was due to shock and hemorrhage. He said the path of the bullet was horizontal.

Cross-examination failed to shake Dr. Nowlin from his original statement. It is indicated that the trial of Smith will last at least three days.

CAPE HENRY TO SEE PLANE MANEUVERS

Jubilee of Early Settlers' Landing to Be Marked by Air Feature.

POLLARD WILL BE HOST

Cape Henry, Va., April 16 (A.P.).—Two great airplane carriers lying at anchor while 150 planes swarm in the sky overhead will offer a strange contrast here on April 26 to the scene recalled by the pilgrimage that will come to Cape Henry.

Three hundred and twenty-three years ago three tiny sailing vessels touched on Cape Henry, bringing the first permanent English settlers to America, and distinguished visitors will gather here on April 26 to commemorate that event.

At the same time members of both houses of Congress will be here to see the greatest air maneuvers ever held on the East Coast.

Governors to Attend.

Gov. Pollard will participate in the pilgrimage, and the governors of at least two other States, Gov. L. G. Hardman, of Georgia, and Gov. W. G. Conley, of North Carolina, will be present. Gov Roosevelt, of New York, has advised Gov. Pollard that he will come unless unavoidably detained. President Hoover was invited, but found it necessary to decline.

On Friday evening, April 25, the out-of-State governors and former Governors of Virginia and their wives will be the guests of Gov. Pollard and Miss Suzanne Pollard, the governor's daughter and official hostess at the mansion. Former governors now living are Senator Claude A. Swanson, Congressman A. J. Montague, Henry C. Stuart, Westmoreland Davis, E. Lee Trinkle and Harry F. Byrd.

The pilgrimage is to proceed from Norfolk to the entrance to the Virginia capes, where memorial services will be held near the oldest lighthouse in America.

Ships Due Next Week.

The two airplane carriers Lexington and Saratoga, with the carrier Langley and the tenders Aroostook and Gannett, are to arrive in Hampton Roads about the middle of next week from Guantanamo Bay, where they have been operating in battle maneuvers. The Aroostook will proceed to Washington and return with the Congressional party, composed of members of the House and Senate naval affairs committee, with newspapermen and photographers.

David S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for aeronautics, is to welcome the party aboard the Lexington. The program calls for inspection of the carrier, launching of aircraft from the vessel, demonstrations of the various forms of aircraft attack on surface vessels, an exhibition of aircraft tactics and aerial combat and landing aboard of the air squadrons.

Court Dismisses Cedar Tree Suit

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 16.—Suit against the Jefferson County court by cedar tree owners in the Sheperdstown district, whose trees were cut under order of State Entomologist W. E. Rumsey during the past year, was dismissed in circuit court in Charlestown today by Judge D. H. Rodgers.

The ruling held that the State entomologist was liable for the cutting. The motion to dismiss was made by Prosecuting Attorney John T. Porterfield, of Jefferson County. Counsel for the cedar tree owners indicated an appeal on the ruling. Suits approximating $250,000 have been filed by more than a dozen affected cedar tree owners.

An argument over the bill of particulars presented in the first of the test cases is to be held here in Martinsburg April 26. The trial of the first case is set for Charles Town May 9.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., April 16.—Tons of granulated sugar were scattered over a wide Blue Ridge Mountain area today, and two men injured when a truck hauling the sugar from Washington to a Winchester wholesale grocery swerved off a sharp curve, plunged through a fence and then turned over, hurling sugar in all directions. W. D. Copeland and Paul Wine were caught under the cab. Both have broken shoulder bones and internal injuries, it was discovered at a hospital here. They were employed as chauffeurs for the Hildebrand Transportation Co., Washington. Mr. Wine said the brakes failed to hold on the curve.

COUNTY POLICE TILT IS HINTED IN ARREST

MAYOR DEFENDS MAN

Evidences of friction between police forces in Prince Georges County were aired yesterday in Police Court at Hyattsville when the case of Francis E. Draley, town bailiff of Mount Rainier, arrested on charges of intoxication last Friday night in a delicatessen at Brentwood by Deputy Sheriff Ralph Brown, was heard by Judge J. Chew Sheriff and promptly taken under advisement.

The mayor and town council of Mount Rainier several days ago gave the case a public hearing at a special session, defending the bailiff and openly charging that the deputy sheriff had arrested Draley at the request of Brentwood police, who they claimed were incensed because Mount Rainier authorities had ordered them to refrain from attempting to exercise police authority in that town.

Draley, who had been released on bond by a Brentwood justice of the peace after his arrest, declared in court yesterday that at the time of his arrest he was not intoxicated, and that he was "imitating Amos 'n' Andy." He was represented by Bird H. Dolby, Mount Rainier corporation counsel.

The deputy sheriff charged that Draley was intoxicated and said that a few moments before placing the man under arrest he heard him say, "How drunk I am."

Brown previously denied knowledge of the so-called feud between Mount Rainier and Brentwood. Neither Draley nor Brown are uniformed police.

Charges of assault preferred by five Negroes against Fred L. Fraley, Lanham (Md.) contractor, were dismissed yesterday by Judge J. Chew Sheriff in Police Court in Hyattsville and the five each released on a $200 peace bond in a counter legal action by Fraley.

The five Negroes are Joseph Brown, Ignatius Brown, Lawrence Henson, Sandy Woodrow and John Parker, who charged that Fraley pointed a gun at them when they stopped his automobile shortly after an argument over a requested increase in pay. The peace bond against each was made returnable at the October term of court.

Charges of driving while drunk against Theodore Scharf, of Baltimore, were dismissed by Judge Sheriff on the man's contention that his arrest by a State policeman at the Bowie Race Track placed him beyond the jurisdiction of the officer, inasmuch as the property was private.

William H. Naylor, of an unannounced Washington address, pleaded guilty to charges of transportation and possession of 25 gallons of liquor and was released on payment of a $150 fine. He had been arrested on the Baltimore boulevard by Deputy Sheriff Ralph Brown and County Policeman Claude Reese.

Appleby's Defeat Not Yet Conceded

Special to The Washington Post.

Martinsburg, W. Va., April 16.—Despite his defeat on the face of the returns in the municipal primaries here Monday, supporters of Mayor George W. Appleby, jr., were still holding out hope today that he would again be the mayoralty nominee of the Republican party in the May election. They based their hope on the scant majority of 37 given the mayor's opponent, Councilman Chris H. Dailey.

City Attorney J. O. Henson, the political godfather of Mayor Appleby, has placed two guards at the city hall and backers of Councilman Dailey have done the same thing. The guards are watching the ballot boxes and will be on duty until the city council canvasses the results and announces the official count.

After the canvass by the city fathers, if the result is as close or closer than the first results showed, Mayor Appleby's backers indicated they would ask a recount.

Hospital Post Assumed By Maj. Walter Simpson

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., April 16.—Maj. Walter Simpson, of the United States Army Reserve Corps, today became superintendent and general manager of Winchester Memorial Hospital, succeeding Dr. J. E. Harris, who recently resigned that dual position to devote his entire time to the X-ray department of the institution. Maj. Simpson came from Watts Hospital, Durham, N. C., where he was superintendent three years.

He is the first person not a practicing physician to become general manager of the Winchester Hospital. During the World War he saw active service on the Western front in France, where he was connected with medical units of the American Expeditionary Force. Dr. Harris announced that the X-ray department of the hospital will be considerably enlarged and improved in order to care for the steadily increasing number of patients requiring X-ray treatment.
